Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The following paragraph appeared in the Chicago Tribune editorial column. It applies to Newton equally well.

"Youth is malleable. Like moist clay, it can be shaped and reshaped to the time it becomes hardened. The Y. M. C. A. is taking youth in the clay and moulding it into the highest type of manhood. It is shaping the body in its gymnasium—the mind in its educational classes—the soul in its ethical courses. Thew and shew, brain and heart, must all be cared for in the creation of strength. Men must fight life physically, mentally, and morally. No matter what a boy's origin may be, no matter what handicaps have checked his start, no matter what environment has darkened his first viewpoint, he can find the path to achievement if he can discern the guide post and secure the strength to endure to the goal. The Y. M. C. A. is setting men in the right direction in every city of the land, but nowhere has its work been more telling and more beneficent than in Chicago. It has remolded thousands who needed its help until now it, too, needs help. It must have more funds if it is to grow as great as its usefulness."

The best of investments is money put into a plant which manufactures manhood. The million dollars will be raised readily if the true value of the investment is realized by the people of Chicago.—Editorial in Chicago Tribune.

A fishing trip for men is being planned for Friday, July 10. Any one fond of deep sea fishing will do well to see the secretary about particulars.

The base ball team won from the Melrose Y. M. C. A. by the score of 12 to 4. The battery work by Cotling and Bartley was first-class, as was the batting of Norfolk, who got 5 hits in 5 times up. Haskell made a difficult catch of a low liner in short left field.

On July 4th, 10.30 A. M., the team will play Malden Y. M. C. A. on the North diamond.

During July and August the rooms will be open from 2 P. M. to 9 P. M. each day except Sunday.

Mr. Wm. MacPherson of Northampton, Mass., has accepted the call to become physical director of the association beginning Sept. 1st. Mr. MacPherson already has many friends in Newton, who will give him a welcome to his work.

FRESH AIR CAMP OPEN

The fresh air camp of the Salvation army on Elliot avenue, West Newton, was opened Monday morning for the fourth season, the day being designated Harold Hayden Sears day, the young man's father having contributed liberally towards the camp. Five mothers and 35 children from the poorer districts of Boston arrived shortly before 10 o'clock for a sojourn of 10 days, making the trip out in electric cars from the People's palace, Boston. Beginning next week about 70 children will be brought to the camp every second Friday for a day's outing, being provided with two hearty meals and a good time. Every second week about 40 children and mothers will arrive for sojourns of 10 days. The camp consists of an 18-room house, freshly painted and papered, in charge of Capt. Charlotte Abraham and four helpers. There is a spacious lawn, upon which there has been set up a dining tent, swings and several small tents. The children will assist in the household duties and each evening there will be a religious service. The mothers and children will have a greater part of each day to themselves, however, during which excursions will be made into the woods and games will be played on the lawn.

The worthy women and children who are given their only real outing in a year are selected by the relief officers of the army, who investigate each case. Last year 437 were entertained and it is expected that fully this number will be given outings here this season. The fortunate persons are not confined to any race or creed, and Capt. Abraham said this morning that the officers are anxious to have the public suggest cases for investigation. The camp is supported entirely by charity.

STANTON-McCARTHY

Miss Gertrude L. McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. McCarthy of West Newton, and Warren L. Stanton of Boston, son of the late Lucian Stanton, were married in West Newton Sunday afternoon by Rev. Charles J. Galligan, assistant pastor of St. Bernard's church. Miss Harriett F.

McCarthy of West Newton and Mrs. Irene Stanton O'Neill of Fitchburg were bridesmaids. The best man was Charles McCarthy. The bride was dressed in white silk trimmed with duchesse lace and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids wore costumes of pink silk muslin made with lace yokes and carried pink carnations. A reception took place from 5 to 7 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. McCarthy, Mrs. Maude McCarthy Scanlon, Mrs. L. E. Forest Dow, Mrs. Samuel Blaisdell, Justin A. McCarthy, Algernon W. McCarthy, Charles Stanton and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Dencso assisting. The dwelling was decorated with white carnations and ferns. The couple left for a trip through Maine.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS

An annual 10-days' camp meeting of the Seventh day Adventists of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, in session at Commonwealth avenue and Washington streets, West Newton, was brought to a close Sunday afternoon when religious liberal day was observed.

The attendance was the largest of any day in which the camp meeting has been in session here. The service began at 3 p. m. Rev. H. F. Keeler of South Lancaster, president of the Central New England Conference, presiding. Prayer was offered by Rev. E. W. Farnsworth of South Lancaster, after which Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Centenary Methodist church at Auburndale, made an address on "Immediate Dangers."

There were addresses also by Mrs. Mary E. Cheney, assistant recording secretary of the W. C. T. U. of the state; B. F. Tarney, director of religious work in the Boston Y. M. C. A.; Dr. Nina M. Bales of Melrose, whose subject was "Temperance in the Home;" and Rev. K. C. Russell of Washington, who spoke on "Prohibition and Personal Liberty." and Rev. A. G. Daniels of Washington. Benediction was pronounced by P. F. Blecknell, chaplain of the sanitarium conducted by the church at Melrose. There was a liberal offering, half of which will go to the state W. C. T. U.

ACCIDENT

A collision between an electric car of the Wellesley-Newton line and a street sprinkling wagon owned by the city of Newton and driven by Thomas Kelly of 18 Pine street caused considerable excitement last Friday afternoon among the delegates and guests attending the Seventh day Adventists' camp meeting at West Newton. The car and "water wagon" came together with considerable force at the Woodland-road side of the camp meeting grounds. Mr. Kelly and all occupants of the car escaped injury. The electric car and the sprinkler were slightly damaged. The accident is said to have been caused by the horses turning unexpectedly onto the tracks.

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Newton Graphic:

How to get rid of the pests that are destroying our trees has become an important question. The city of Newton, on application, will assist and take the important step of spraying the trees. After that the owners of estates, or residents, should assume the responsibility necessary, and only by eternal vigilance will they secure the riddance of this great nuisance. The inevitable burlap must be applied, and then watchfulness and perseverance night and morning to secure good results. The city cannot do this part of the work. It is necessarily the duty of those living on the premises. It is said that seven-eighths of the people, even owners of estates, are indifferent to this important subject.

JULY 4TH WELL GUARDED.

Large details of policemen will be put on duty throughout this city tonight. Every effort will be made to keep the "lid" buttoned down tightly on any contemplated premature celebrations. In accordance with an order adopted by the aldermen the police will prohibit the use of fireworks or firecrackers until after 4 a. m. on the holiday. Even then persons will be allowed to use them only upon their own premises. Cannon crackers over 6 inches long will be prohibited, and no persons under 17 years old will be allowed to use cartridges or fixed ammunition.

CARNIVAL

What was probably the last event that will take place on the old Cedar-street Athletic grounds at Newton Centre was a successful carnival Saturday afternoon and evening in aid of the Working boys' home at Newton Highlands.

Numerous attractions of a typical country fair, including some spirited athletic events and a balloon ascension, were features of the celebration, which was under the direction of the Ladies' aid society connected with the home and the various Catholic organizations of the Newtons, Watertown and Waltham.

The attendance was large, particularly during the evening. The home, which is supported entirely by charity and which provides industrial training for many boys who would otherwise be homeless will reap a substantial harvest from the carnival.

Rev. James J. Redican, assistant superintendent of the home, ably looked after the interests of the patrons and the lengthy program was run off without a hitch. Prettily decorated booths presided over by young women in white or fancy costumes dotted the grounds and drew a large patronage. There were cane boards, doll racks, dummy dollers and real "African dollers," and a wheel of fortune in which boxes of candy were awarded to the most skillful manipulators. In addition to a host of other attractions that included booths, sales tables and games.

Prof. LaRue went up in a balloon at 5 P. M. and made a pretty parachute descent, landing only a short distance from the grounds.

A Chain and Its Links

In telephoning there are three links in the chain that constitutes "good service": 1. The person calling. 2. The operator. 3. The person called.

No matter how much any one or any two of these links do to develop good service, the result is determined by the measure of co-operation of the third. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link.

If the person calling fails to consult the catalogue and gives a wrong number, the operator inevitably repeats the error. If the person called fails to answer promptly and the caller leaves the telephone, naturally "there is no one on the line."

Being human, the operator—the third link—is liable to err occasionally, but careful analysis demonstrates that she is not fairly chargeable with many of the difficulties frequently ascribed to her.

If Link No. 1 Gives the Right Number and Calls Distinctly, and Link No. 3 Answers Promptly, the Telephone Company will be responsible for its part of the chain. If no higher motive actuated it, the motive of economy, or self-interest, would suffice.

From any Pay Station you can speak to any one of 300,000 telephones in the territory of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Even if he is not a subscriber, you can arrange to have the person desired called to a Pay Station to talk to you.

Through efforts of Newton council 167, K. of C., professional volunteer talent gave clever vaudeville performances.

A series of athletic events was run off during the latter part of the afternoon under the direction of Edward H. Powers, grand knight of Newton council. The various events were warmly contested, and cups were awarded first and second winners as follows: 100-yard dash—on by Joseph Gilday; Harry Caswell second. Boys' shoe race—won by William Manning; Joseph Hughes second. 100-yard race for girls—won by Gertrude Shine; Ellen Sullivan second. 440-yard run—won by Harry Caswell; George Thomas second. 1-mile run—won by Vincent Cannon; Thomas Lessington second.

Thomas Lyons and Maurice B. Coleman were field marshals. The general committee of arrangements comprised James R. Condrin, Bernard D. Farrell, Thomas J. Greene, Frank Hurley, William Burke, Michael J. Murphy, Edward H. Powers, John O'Halloran. Six divisions of the A. O. H. and as many auxiliaries had tables under the general direction of Mrs. T. J. Powers, who assisted by a large corps of aids. Three local M. C. courts had tables under general direction of William P. Sweeney, Mrs. James Hammel and Mrs. Margaret Green, who also had many assistants.

A DELIGHTFUL OUTING

The members of the Massachusetts Press Association and their ladies had a most delightful week end visit at Nantucket this week, leaving Boston Saturday noon on a special car and returning Tuesday evening. The party was composed of nearly ninety ladies and gentlemen and all were unanimous in the opinion that the entire affair was the most enjoyable outing of the many held by the association.

The courtesy of the New Haven Railroad in providing a special car to and from Wood's Hole under the immediate superintendence of Mr. Herbert E. Ellis, the genial press agent of the Company, was duly appreciated. The steamer ride to Nantucket was marked by a gorgeous sunset and the splendid dinner served by 'mine hosts of the Sea View Inn was relished by an exceedingly hungry party. And speaking of the Sea View Inn, words are inadequate to describe the enjoyment all experienced at the delightful hostelry. Messrs. Folger and Carpenter were excellent hosts, mending in their efforts to please. They left nothing undone and the visit to the Sea View Inn will long be remembered with constantly increasing pleasure.

Visits to Sconset, the wireless telegraph station, the Sankaty light-house and other delightful rides added to the enjoyment of the trip and the courtesy of Mr. Alexander Starbuck of the Waltham Free Press Tribune, the rooms of the Nantucket

Historical Society were opened for the inspection of the editors. The members enjoyed a dance and musicale on Monday evening and at an early dinner on Tuesday before the boat left for Boston, President Banks was pleasantly surprised by many unexpected gifts, duly presented with more or less appropriate remarks.

Mr. A. Kempton Dean of the Newton Graphic and Mr. and Mrs. John Temperley of the Town Crier were among the guests at this outing.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Lovett Hall won the tennis championship of the Newton high school by defeating Carl Holbrook in three out of four sets in the finals played Saturday on the Neighborhood courts at West Newton. Both the semi-final matches and the finals were watched with much interest, and an excellent exhibition of good playing was given. Semi-finals—C. Holbrook beat S. Clark, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4. L. Hall beat T. Chandler, 7-5, 6-2.

Finals—L. Hall beat C. Holbrook, 6-2, 6-2, 1-6, 6-4.

TENNIS

In the Suburban tennis league series Saturday afternoon Newton Centre won a match in doubles and the Country club won one in singles on the courts of the Newton Centre squash tennis club. The match in doubles was particularly hard played, the winner not being determined until the last few minutes of play.

Singles—H. H. Whitmore, Country club, beat George W. Pratt, Newton Centre, 6-3, 5-7, 10-8.

Doubles—Speare and Wales, Newton Centre, beat Blake and Whitmore, Country club, 6-1, 2-6, 7-5.

NEWTON CLUB CLOSED

In accordance with the final decision of the members of the Newton Club as published last week, the doors were closed on Tuesday evening and a committee consisting of President Charles S. Dennison, and Messrs. E. P. Hatch and S. W. Holmes were appointed to wind up the financial affairs of the club. A meeting of the Executive committee was held Tuesday night and the situation thoroughly canvassed. Subscriptions are being received to clean up the indebtedness in the running expenses. It is expected that the clubhouse will remain as it is for a few months, and it is rumored that it may be reopened in the fall under different auspices. President Dennison was outspoken this week in denying that the stopping of the sale of liquor was directly responsible for the discontinuance of the club. For the past few years the income from the liquor selling has not been an important factor in the club's finances. The abolition of liquor selling, however, was used as an excuse by many members to leave the club

THE FOURTH AT THE CENTRE.

Weather permitting, on Saturday morning at 10.30 the annual game between the Benedicts and Bachelors will be contested on the Playground at Newton Centre. According to Osler and President Elliot "no gentleman plays ball after sixty"—yet look at Spaulding, Foote, Sias and their gallant crew who defeated their younger opponents last Fourth and again June 17th this year. Hubbard, the regular catcher, has been suspended on account of having borrowed Mr. Kelsey's lawn-mower one fine morning before the family was up, but Hatch will take his place.

The rest of the team will be Foote or Cullen as pitcher, Sias, Claffin, Spaulding on bases, Mumford at short, Rising, Wales and Cullen in the field. Barnett Plimpton, Manager for the Single Men, declined all information, so dark horses and trouble may be expected.

All persons are warned to keep off the property of the B. & A. R. R. adjacent to the Lake on the night of the Fourth. This is necessary for the safety of all, and three officers will see that trespassers are prosecuted.

In case of rain on the Fourth, the Band Concert and Fireworks at the Lake will be postponed until 7 P. M. July 7th or the next fall evening. In a similar event, the Sports will be run off on Saturday, July 11th, at 2 P. M.

The Newton Centre Improvement Association wishes to thank the many citizens who have subscribed for the expenses of the Fourth of July celebration; also the Newton & Boston Street R. R. and the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Co. for current and lights for the Band Stand.

Cups and medals for the Fourth of July sports are on exhibition at Hahn's Drug Store. A special team for the Mile relay race is coming from Newton Corner.

The following gentlemen will officiate at the sports.
Judges, A. E. Alvord, Pres. N. C. I. A., Frank R. Moore, Pres. N. H. I. A.; Clerks of course: Chas. E. Kelsey, Frank S. V. Sias, C. E. Poller, George F. Richardson, William H. Rice; Announcer: M. S. Buckley; Starter: Frederick C. Rising; Timer: Eben Shute; Track measurer: Willard Robinson; Property men: Lawrence Davis, Howard Emerson; General committee on sports: Herbert J. Kellaway, H. A. Ely.

SHORTHAND

For the benefit of those who, by circumstances or ambition, are desirous of wasting no time in preparing themselves for the business world, I am giving private instruction in Shorthand, typewriting included, at reduced rates for the summer. The number being necessarily limited insures the needed attention which large schools cannot give. The pupils will work from dictation from the first lesson. For particulars and rates, address Mrs. M. R. Bakeman, 252 Green St., Cambridge.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the subscriber has been duly appointed executor of the will of George B. Briggs late of Newton in the County of Middlesex, deceased testate, and has taken upon itself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are hereby required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to the OLD COLONY TRUST COMPANY, Executor. Address: Ames Building, Boston, Mass. July 1, 1908.

While the feeling in this part of the country about the election of Taft
and Sherman next fall is optimistic,
and there is a tendency to decry the possibility of Bryan's election, we believe there will be a rude awakening
during the coming campaign as to the real situation. The western point of view is strongly inclined to the victory of Bryan and sound arguments are advanced to back it up. While Massachusetts is safe from a Republican standpoint, we should not forget that so called Republican states in the west and northwest are inclined to radicalism this fall.

It is seldom that the expenditure of so little money gives such an amount of pleasure as that experienced by a thousand children at the Read Fund picnic. As one observer remarked last Wednesday while witnessing the children enjoy their lunch, "It is one of the best of charities to give these children such an outing. To some it is the event of the entire year and it is a great pity that the limitations
of the trust funds entail drawing ward lines so close as to shut out
the children to whom it would be of equal benefit.

Paradoxical as it may seem the week of Independence Day marks the passing of our independence as a principal postoffice. On Wednesday the various post stations in this city became swallowed up in the Boston postoffice and our letters will now bear
the postmark, "Boston, Mass., Newton-ville station." We still feel unreconciled to the change and believe that our local interests would be far better served by a principal office in this city.

We greatly regret the closing of the Newton club after many years of active and useful service in knitting together the various sections of this city, as no other institution could ever have done. It has been a decided factor in the social and political life of this city and we earnestly hope that a reorganization is possible and probable.

The board of health has an excellent opportunity this sultry weather to get after the garbage collectors and compel them to keep the covers down on their wagons. The sight and smell of the contents of these vehicles is anything but pleasant.

The invasion of the white winged,
brown tailed moth this week was as spectacular as the future possibilities are fearsome. Don't let any so called feelings of compassion bar you from killing as many caterpillars as possible.

HIGH SCHOOL.

—Edward Loughlin, who coached the Newton high school baseball team for the last few years, has received an offer to become head coach of the Dartmouth college team next season.
It is expected that he will accept,
Newton high having decided to have one coach for all athletic teams next year.

GLOUCESTER-WARDS
EVERY MORNING.

The renewed chance this season of
going to beautiful and picturesque
Cape Ann by the commodious steamers
of the Gloucester line, starting from
the north side of Central wharf, foot
of State street elevated stairway,
daily and Sunday mornings, is being taken by many hundreds of people
who never took the trip before. The
fine, newly furnished steel steamer
Cape Ann is a model of convenience
and safety in passenger service. There
is good music aboard, and enough
time is given in the quaint old fishing
port of Gloucester to see many of the unusual sights of the place. Starting
time Sundays is at 10.15, but on week
days it is at 10 o'clock sharp.

DEATH OF MR. ESTES.

Mr. Thomas G. Estes of Watertown street, Newtonville, a well known Boston Insurance adjuster, died Tuesday at the Hale hospital, Haverhill,
of cerebral apoplexy, after a few days'
illness, aged 69 years. He was in Haverhill on some important work
when stricken with what proved to be a fatal illness. Mr. Estes was well known to the insurance fraternity, for many years having offices at 31 Milk street, and spent the greater part of his life in Fall River, his native city.
He removed to Newtonville in 1890.
Deceased is survived by a widow, two sons and two daughters. Services were held from the family residence,
Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.
Burial is at Oak Grove cemetery,
Fall River, Friday at 1 o'clock.

Women's Clubs.

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

THE BOSTON BIENNIAL.

The Boston Biennial for which the club women have been devoting their energies for nearly two years is now a thing of the past. One woman who has attended many, if not all the Ben-nials, remarked that we of Massachusetta are too near to it in point of work to judge fairly of it, while we are also too near in point of time to see its place in history. It is impossible to give any adequate account of the speeches, there were so many
that the mind could not comprehend
nor retain much beyond here and there a few striking points, especially as there was great difficulty in hearing unless one arrived at a very early hour, and even then the seats reserved for the Massachusetts delegation were so far from the platform that one could not always hear even in the best location.

Notwithstanding these disadvantages attendance upon the sessions
was well worth while, for many reasons, prominent among them being the seeing of so many earnest women together, from the North and from the South, from the East and from the West. These meetings have been a great object lesson to the women of Massachusetts. We who have been brought up on the idea of Boston culture, are or have been inclined to think that this quality is solely possessed within a very small radius of the "Hub." In reality save for differences in accent one could not have told an Eastern from a Western woman, while in point of voice and ability to make herself heard, the latter far exceeded many of the Eastern delegates.

It was a delight to see and hear
Mrs. Decker preside. She was ever desirous for the comfort of her audience and had the remarkable faculty of keeping them in good humor with her bright stories and keen repartee,
never allowing an opportunity to escape her. Ideas the seldom realized
but for such a convention it is hard to imagine a better type of presiding officer. At the meeting of the Council on Wednesday morning following the close of the convention in her explanation of some of the reasons for doing certain things she showed how carefully she had thought out the details which helped to make the meetings a success.

The stage decorations were particularly attractive and it was a pity that the platform had to be so crowded with guests that they could not show off to better advantage. The white pillars with festoons of laurel and the ornamental trees stood out well
in front of the garden scene background. On Sunday at the Vesper Service when no one besides Mrs.
Decker, President Woolley, the speaker of the afternoon and the quartet were on the platform, it was a worthy example of simple, artistic and dignified decoration.

While Symphony Hall was designed for music rather than for speaking and there was more or less difficulty
of hearing all the speakers, yet there could hardly have been a better place
in which to have held the convention.
Its easy access from all directions,
yet its retired location away from
many disturbing noises of the city,
and its many outside rooms for rest,
committees and other conveniences
render it an ideal convention hall,
which facts have scarcely been realized by the women of Boston.

Of the sessions themselves it is difficult to speak. They were all so good. The reports of committees showed that each has an earnest purpose behind the work they wish to do and that they are going more and more to the root of things. This is what is making the General Federation such a power in the country. No longer are the women actuated by mere emotion, but they are seeking deeper into the reasons behind and seeking to irradiate the underlying causes. Perhaps the Thursday morning session was of as much value as any, when the Civic and Jure Food sessions were held. Miss Helen Var-

lek Boswell's address on "Conditions in the Canal Zone" was of great interest. She was sent there by the United States government to organize women's clubs for the purpose of giving the women interests that will make them contented to remain while their husbands are located there in government service. Clubs were started in the eight towns of the Zone and the Federation numbers 500 members.

The pleasure of the Rhode Island
Day was seriously marred by the unfortunate accident in which Mrs.
Winn of Malden lost her life. Knowledge of the occurrence was carefully guarded so that many delegates did not hear of it until long afterward
and the immediate pleasure was not disturbed.

Was it the irony of fate that the Household Economics session was set down for Saturday morning, that the many suggestions should harrow up
the minds of the busy housekeepers
who had left home duties half done that they might be present? However they may have been, the plea of Mrs.
Robert J. Burdette, to simplify, classify, jolly and glorify the things of the household, the exhortation of Mrs.
Margaret J. Blair to make use of every time saving invention and then make use of the time thereby saved,
were well worth the serious consideration of every woman present.

Beyond the reports of committees
the important business of the convention included the action upon the recommendations of the president
some minor amendments to the by-laws, and the election of officers. All the recommendations of the president were adopted with the exception of the one to do away with the Household Economics committee. The elections resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Philip N. Moore, St. Louis; Mrs.
Joseph Evans Cowles, first vice president; Mrs. Mary Belle King Sherman, second vice president; Mrs. Henry H.
Dawson, recording secretary; Mrs.
Frank N. Shlek, corresponding secretary; Mrs. G. O. Welch, treasurer;

Mrs. Rudolph Blankenburg, auditor;
Mrs. Guy R. C. Allen, Mrs. Philip
Carpenter, Mrs. Sarah A. Evans, Mrs.
George R. Hancock, Mrs. William A.
Johnson, Mrs. H. L. Keefe, Mrs. O. P.
Kinsey, Miss Louisa B. Poppenheim, directors.

Conferences were held by each committee at the various halls in the vicinity of Symphony Hall, notable among them being the Literature. The questions discussed included "Why do we read?" "The favorite American poet." "Do we learn to live through what we read?" and "The books children should read." Among those taking part were Mrs. Florence Howe Hall and Mrs. Daniel Lothrop. At the one on Civic Joseph Lee of Boston and Miss Sadie American were among the speakers. At the Education Conference Mr. Charles H. Morse of Boston spoke on "Industrial Education." The English scholarship for American girls was discussed at length. The plan decided upon is to ask for contributions of $100 from the various State Federations and to award it in 1909 for one year to the girl passing the best examination of the candidates from states that have contributed. If sufficient money is raised it will be awarded for a second year. The Society of American Women in London
is offering a similar scholarship open to girls from the District of Columbia.
The idea of these scholarships is to offer American girls the same advantages that the Rhodes scholarships
give boys.

A note of discouragement was sounded at the Forestry conference through failure of the Southern Appalachian bill to pass Congress. The local chairmen were urged to keep on with the work. A delegate from New Hampshire deplored the thoughtless-ness of summer tourists in the peeling
of the white birches which weakens
the trees and renders them easily broken by severe wind and the ice
in winter. Mr. Enos Mills was present and spoke.

Among the most notable addresses
of the convention may be mentioned that of Senator Beveridge on "Child Labor," Dr. James H. Canfield's on
"The Place and Value of the Public Library," and the one by a blind woman, Miss Christine La Barre, on
"What the Seeing Woman can do for the Blind Woman in a business-like Way."

"The Evening with Business Women" was of much interest each speaker bringing her personal experience
in some employment unusual to women. Miss La Barre's singing was an exposition of the possibilities of what may be accomplished even by one deprived of the most necessary faculties.

The final session on Tuesday evening, known as "President's Evening"
when the motto of the Federation,
"Unity in Diversity" was discussed,
was the triumph of the whole convention. The addresses were fine, the singing of familiar old songs aroused the enthusiasm of the audience as nothing else could do, the responses from the newly-elected officers as they were introduced were to the point and lastly, Mrs. Decker was at her best. At no time had she commanded the admiration of the convention to such an extent as when she refused to be made Honorary President.

Looking back upon the whole convention perhaps no occasion was more impressive than the Vesper Service
when the delegates met together for worship. The organ recital by Mr. B.
L. Whippley of Allington Street church had put them into a receptive mood
and when President Woolley rose to conduct the dignified service the audience joined in with reverence and devotion. The reading of the Ten Commandments and the repetition of the Twenty-third Psalm were not less impressive than the singing of Luther's hymn, "A mighty Fortress is our God."
Space forbids any mention of the numerous excursions and receptions tendered the delegates from outside of Massachusetts, but on all hands
were heard commendation of Massachusetts' hospitality. And while many may think of things that might another time be improved, yet the Massachusetts women may rest from their labors with a feeling of satisfaction.

REAL ESTATE.

Turner and Williams have sold for Ethie M. Howe her estate No. 235 Crafts street, Newtonville, consisting of large 2-1/2 story slated roof house of 10 rooms, modern and 2155 feet land to Edith C. Eaton who buys for occupancy, assessed value $6300.00, purchase price was in excess of assessed value.

MISS NELSON DEAD

Miss Anna M. Nelson, passed away from this life at her apartments in the Taylor building, on Tuesday evening, and was buried from Grace church on Thursday afternoon, at 2.30, the Rev. Laurens MacLure, S. T. D., officiating. The interment was in Newton cemetery.

Miss Nelson was an earnest and active Christian, and in her responsible position as head of the restaurant of R. H. White & Co., in Boston, proved most capable and efficient. She was the confidante of all the young women
under her, in their troubles and difficulties, and did much to help them
and make them more Christian and womanly. Her good influence is manifested in their affection and grief, as well as by their words. About two months ago ill health obliged her to give up her position and since that time she slowly but steadily failed
until the end. One sister, Miss Kate Nelson, who makes her home with
Mr. and Mrs. White of 316 Franklin street, is the only surviving member of her family. She has left to her many associates and friends the memory of a true life and the encouragement of a good example.

THE PROGRAM FOR JULY 4TH.
The National holiday will be well
celebrated this year all over the city.
Newton Centre as usual will lead in the extent and variety of its celebration, but other villages are waking up and will assist in the good work.

At Newton Centre the sports on the playground will begin at 8.30 o'clock in the morning with the Potato, Obstacle and Three legged races for boys. There will be a 75 yard dash, Sack and Potato races for boys of the same school over 12 and three legged sack and wheelbarrow races for boys of Newton Centre and Newton Highlands under 18 yrs. and a finale of a quarter mile run and a mile relay race for all boys in the city under 20 years. In the forenoon there will be a baseball game between the married and single men and the finales in the tennis tournament will be pulled off in the afternoon. In the evening there will be the usual band concert and fireworks
at Crystal Lake.

At Newtonville in the vicinity of Cabot and Clyde streets there will be a neighborhood celebration of fireworks.

At Newton Upper Falls, there will be a display of fireworks on Petter street.

At Nonantum, while there is no official program, it is expected that there will be some sports and a base ball game on Allison park in the afternoon.

The Newton Street Railway Company will run a special car for those who desire to see the fire on Prospect hill, Waltham. The car leaves the Waltham car barn at 12.45 A. M.
running to Nonantum square, leaving that place at 1.15 A. M.

BOAT CLUB CONCERT.
A large crowd gathered Saturday evening at and near the clubhouse of the Newton Boat Club at Riverside
to hear Teel's band give a delightful program of classical and popular music. The program included a solo for the trombone by Mr. Ripley and a solo for the cornet by Mr. Ernest S.
Williams.

POLICE DRILLS.

A series of interesting life saving drills by officers attached to the Auburn station of the Metropolitan park reservation, which are attracting great interest among hundreds of canoists who frequent the Charles River, are being held daily under the direction of Chief Gilman of the local reservations.

One drill is to start from the farther
end of the 60-foot station piazza, slide down a pole to the float, pull a knot
in the pulley attached to a rowboat and paddle across the river. Officer McLeod accomplished this in 30 seconds, while officers Chaisson
and O'Reilly were close to this record with 30 1-5 and 30 3-5 seconds respectively.

Another drill that has just been introduced is that of "rescuing" a man from the river. An officer starts from the piazza, slides the pole to the float and paddles to a point midway between the station and Weston bridge,
where another officer has overturned
a canoe. The rescuer then gets the overturned canoeist out of the deep water and into a rowboat, after which he secures the canoe. This practical drill is being practiced by each officer,
and the time has been cut down to 1m 10s for the round trip.
A great deal of skill is required to take a man from the water without tipping over, as the officers being rescued make it a point to fight off assistance like a person crazed with fears of drowning.

WOODLAND PARK CLOSES.

Because, it is said, business had fallen off considerably in the last few years the Woodland park hotel at Auburndale was closed Wednesday,
after having been one of the best known suburban hostleries for about a score of years.

It was stated Wednesday morning
that the hotel will remain closed during the summer in all probability. It is expected, however, that effort will be made to open it in the autumn.
The late Joseph Lee conducted the place from 1888 to 1896, when it was taken over by C. C. Butler. He was in charge until 1904 when Frederick Wilkie became the proprietor. Last year the building was considerably damaged by fire, which broke out in an L. The damaged part was rebuilt.
Early this year Mr. Wilkie retired from the management of the hotel and Skellon & Nichols took it over on Jan.
14. On May 1 they transferred it to George Q. Pattee.

WOMEN DROWNED.

Miss Florence Sheldon of Cambridge
and Miss Mary Dittus of Boston,
while attending a colored picnic at Hemlock Gorge, Newton Upper Falls
last Tuesday, were drowned in Charles river a short distance from the Needham street bridge. The young women were with other members of the Eastern Christian church of Cambridge and with William Ridley
and George Williams went for a canoe trip up the river. It is said that the girls attempted to change seats and overturned the canoe, throwing all of them into the river. The men saved themselves, and told persons who later came to their assistance that the women grabbed each other and went down in about six feet of water
and only fifteen feet from the shore.
Engineer Croker of the Newton Pumping station first came to their aid in a boat and immediately telephoned for the police. Thanks to the chief's automobile prompt assistance was rendered by the department and in less than an hour the bodies of both were recovered, viewed by medical Examiner West and taken to the morgue
at the Newton hospital.

HOOD'S MILK: Its Character and Value as a Food

Hood's Milk is tested for its palatability by an approved hygienic method. It is also tested daily for wholesomeness and richness in our Chemical and Bacteriological Laboratory.

Its handling is kept under constant surveillance by Charles D.
Sawin, M. D., who will cheerfully furnish results of his inspections.
Our milk of the present high standard is an economical food which families of moderate income may freely purchase as a means of improving the character of the diet and of cheapening the cost of the supply of animal foods.

Criticisms and suggestions will be gratefully received.

Hood's Milk is PURE, CLEAN and SAFE

It has stood the test of more than 42 years

—The annual Read Fund picnic was held on Wednesday at Norumbega park with a party of about 1000 children. Ten special cars carried the happy crowd from Nonantum square to the park at nine o'clock in charge of Mr. Frank W. Chase, master of the Bigelow school assisted by Sergeant Clay and ten blue coats. At the park the various attractions interested the children, particularly the merry go round, until noon time, when a substantial lunch of sandwiches, doughnuts, banana, ice cream, cake and lemonade was served by Caterer Osgood of the cafe. The tables were filled four times before the crowd were all fed and then it packed the open air theatre and laughed and applauded the acts which Manager Albert had placed on the bill for this week with the children in view. It was a tired but happy crowd which reached home about six o'clock, safe and sound.

—The various state, metropolitan and county charges this year are as follows: State tax, $112,145; metropolitan parks, $39,903.63; sewers, $66,173.70; water, $6,259.58; highways, $44.5; grade crossings, $10,715.9; county tax, $70,714.80; a total of $302,916.80. The same accounts last year made a total of $278,026.63. In addition the city budget as passed last November was $84,000 larger than that of 1907 and some additions have been made to that since January 1st.

It was a tired but happy crowd which reached home about six o'clock, safe and sound.

—The annual Read Fund picnic was held on Wednesday at Norumbega park with a party of about 1000 children. Ten special cars carried the happy crowd from Nonantum square to the park at nine o'clock in charge of Mr. Frank W. Chase, master of the Bigelow school assisted by Sergeant Clay and ten blue coats. At the park the various attractions interested the children, particularly the merry go round, until noon time, when a substantial lunch of sandwiches, doughnuts, banana, ice cream, cake and lemonade was served by Caterer Osgood of the cafe. The tables were filled four times before the crowd were all fed and then it packed the open air theatre and laughed and applauded the acts which Manager Albert had placed on the bill for this week with the children in view. It was a tired but happy crowd which reached home about six o'clock, safe and sound.

A LITTLE ONE SIDED.

An Exchange of Presents That Was Not Wholly Satisfactory.

John Mitchell, the labor leader, was discussing on one occasion a labor struggle of the past.

"You see, they didn't give us a fair deal," he said. "It looked fair on its face, but really it was like the deal of Harvey Barr of Braidwood."

"Harvey Barr, a successful lawyer, had a wonderful talent for getting the best of people. Even at home he kept this talent in play. His wife said to him one morning:

"Harvey, dear, this is the fifteenth anniversary of our wedding. What are you going to give me?"

"This is what I am going to give you," Harvey answered affectionately, and he handed his wife $15 in crisp, fresh bills.

"Oh, thank you! And what shall I give you?" the gratified wife asked.

"That meerschaum pipe I've been admiring so long," Harvey promptly announced.

"In the evening on his return home the pipe awaited him. It had cost just $15. He lit up and began to color it carefully. But as the evening wore on his wife seemed ill at ease.

"Where is my present, Harvey?" she said at last fretfully.

"Why, my dear! Harvey explained, 'you gave me a pipe. I gave you $15. Don't you see? We're just even.'"

—St. Louis Republic.

TOLD BY THE THUMB.

One Way, So They Say, of Reading a Person's Character.

The closer the thumb is set to the wrist, the greater the amount of amiable qualities a person possesses. And, conversely, the higher on the hand the thumb is set, the lower the order of his mental and moral makeup.

Monkeys' thumbs about from the hand at a point close to the fingers. The closer to this formation a human being comes the more monkey-like intelligence and character he is apt to have.

A thumb set very close to the wrist shows sympathy for all in distress, great generosity, independence, love of liberty for self and others and a readiness to share with the unfortunate.

When the second phalanx of the thumb is much longer than the nail phalanx, there is a discordant relation between reason and will.

Reason preponderates to such an extent that the entire life is spent in planning what to do without ever doing.

A person of this kind sees clearly what is best for him, but lacks determination to put it into execution.

He sees the goal and the steps necessary for attaining it, but in the same glance he takes in all the obstacles, and while he is pondering the matter the opportunity to win success escapes.

—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Seeking the Light.

At a dinner during an Episcopal convention at Richmond a young lady sitting near the bishop of London said to him:

"Bishop, I wish you would set my mind at rest as to the similarity or dissimilarity between your country and ours on one point. Does the butterfly because the tomato can?"

The bishop laughed heartily at this vivacious query. Not so a young Englishman of his party, who after dinner sought his host.

"I want to know, you know," said he, "about that joke of Miss B's. She asked if butter flew because tomatoes could. Pray tell me what the point is."—Lippincott's Magazine.

A Thoughtful Tyrant.

Major Hayford Thorold, second in command of the First battalion, Duke of Wellington's regiment, had an odd experience in Matabeleland in 1896 when sent to restore order in a little township called Gwelo.

On arrival there he found the acting commandant, an ex-storekeeper, in a state bordering on delirium tremens, so he had him locked up. The commandant, however, managed to break out and make his way to the telegraph office, where he dispatched the following wire:

Chamberlain, London: Man here named Thorold questions my sobriety. Who is Thorold? Wire at once to avert bloodshed.

English Army Horses.

Every horse in the English army is numbered and has a little history kept for it all to himself. The number is branded upon the animal's hind feet—the thousands on the near hind foot and the units, ten and hundreds on the off hind foot. Thus the horse whose number is, say, 8354 will have an 8 on his left hind foot and 354 on the other one. On what is called his "veterinary history sheet" everything about the horse will from time to time be written.—London Army Journal.

Something Comic.

Brownbidge (to waitress who has handed him a newspaper)—Ain't yer got nothing comic? I likes to have something funny to look at while I'm a-heating. Waitress—There's a looking glass straight in front of you, sir.—London Tit-Bits.

An Unhappy Outlook.

Prospective Tenant—I should want the studio for sculpture. Carotaker—Yes, sir. Some of these is rented for that. There's a sculptor molding next door, sir.—Harper's Weekly.

Mutual Reluctance.

"Here is my seat, madam, but candor compels me to say that I think you are as well able to stand as I am."

"Politeness compels me to say 'Thank you, sir.'"—Chicago Tribune.

Earnestness is enthusiasm tempered by reason.—Pascal.

AN EASTERN MAGICIAN.

The Feat a Ceylon Fakir is Said to Have Performed.

This curious picture of an eastern magician is from Caroline Corner's "Ceylon, the Paradise of Adam." "The fakir forthwith commenced to unpick the burden on his back, the principal item being a bamboo framework or scaffolding. This he held with his right hand, while he mounted step by step of bamboos. At the summit, a height perhaps of eleven feet, he paused, with arms extended, to effect a balance.

For some reason or other the framework remained perfectly steady and perpendicular, while the fakir stretched himself out like a spider on its web. At intervals on the bamboos were heavy nails, rusty, but sharp at the point. These nails distinctly penetrated the man's mahogany colored flesh when he stretched himself out on the framework.

"Thus he remained, a hideous wound made by each nail, from which the purple blood flowed, lying there for the space of ten minutes or so, except for the blood a lifeless figure of clay. Then, muttering some strange gibberish, animation returned, and, making movements so that the nails were extricated from the wounds, the fakir with his toes kicked away the scaffolding and remained himself alone unsupported in midair.

"Yes, there this weird creature remained, his lean

A NEW VIEW Of Police Responsibility and Duty

Interesting Ideas of Chief of Police of Cleveland

For a great many years in Cleveland practically always; certainly throughout the period of my service on the force the police had done as the police do every where with drunks and disorderly persons; petty thieves and boys and small offenders generally we ran them in. It was the custom in Cleveland; it is still the custom of practically the whole police world, and customs ground as they are into the very fibre of men's minds are hard to break. But we have broken the custom of the world and the ages in Cleveland. We are treating men as men; even when they are drunk; even when they disturb the peace; even when they insult the dignity of a policeman. We often make arrests, but even then we deal with our prisoners as citizens; as human beings. And we all like the change; not only the offenders, but the police. It works, humanity does; the results of our so-called Golden Rule Policy are good.

For many years I have given confused study and some not very enlightening observations to the numerous arrests made for minor offenses. I couldn't see that these wholesale arrests did any good. The number of them did not diminish; it increased. And I found that the arrests not only did not produce good results; they did harm. They brought disgrace, humiliation and suffering to countless innocent persons in no way responsible for the acts of a thoughtless, careless, mischievous, or even if you will, a malicious first offender. Think a moment, and you will see out of your own experience how true this is. Certainly it was borne in upon me, that something was wrong.

I found daily at the stations relatives and friends in tears seeking the release of some prisoner, who, when I inquired, proved to be not so very, very bad. In Police Court next day I saw old and feeble parents, weeping wives with crying babies in their arms, and very often other children clinging at their sides, all there to witness the degradation of those they loved. And what was the result? A hasty trial, and since the offense was usually trivial, the prisoner was discharged. Good! But all that suffering was in vain. Sometimes it was worse than vain. Sometimes a friend interceded in the prisoner's behalf and he was released. Perhaps a lesson in "pull." Perhaps the prisoner and his friends perjured themselves, you know how often that happens, and a greater crime was committed. Again sometimes the offender was fined. That was "a result," but who paid? The weeping mother and children; they were robbed of the necessities of life and the only gain was a few paltry dollars paid into the City Treasury. Was there one particle of real good accomplished by this process? Watching it all as I did, day after day, I answer "no," and I say now emphatically, "no."

Now, questioning these unfortunate, it struck me that most of them did what they did through thoughtlessness, natural passion, or in a spirit of frolic or mischief. It seemed to me that this should be understood. It didn't seem at first to be the policeman's duty to study the cases and to use discretion. That was the Judge's part. But following the cases from the time the persons were thrown into prison to their arraignment before a Police Magistrate, I noticed that, as a rule, the bench showed little sense of the character, and less knowledge of the habits and environment of the offender. The Judge had not, of course, seen the offense committed, and he couldn't comprehend the exact situation or the conditions. Or perhaps he was a politician; in that case the arresting policeman was the person put on trial, censured and insulted. There was a misunderstanding all round. And gentlemen, misunderstanding is injustice.

The "very best result" achieved in all this process was that the offender, who may previously have been of good character and reputation, was given a police court record. He was discouraged and his family and relatives mortified and disgraced.

Then I remembered that all persons are not arrested who commit minor offenses and even larceny. Many people escape detection and are not exposed. Their escape did not hurt them or society; it was an advantage.

I know, and you know, men who have erred thus in youth and yet later have become good citizens; yes, some of them are the leading business men of the country. Some of them are Chiefs of Police. As we all know with some crime is a disease; with others it is lack of proper education, training and healthy environment; and with yet others, it is weakness, inability to resist temptation. Now, I finally concluded that it was our duty not to help these unfortunates on their downward course, but to save them. It seemed to me that it was up to the police to learn to know the difference between a thief and a mischievous man or boy. And why not? Of all men who is so able to judge whether an arrest is necessary as the policeman; if given the opportunity, who knows the neighborhood; who is first on the scene; who has all the facts and circumstances at first hand, before there has been time to destroy, or make up evidence.

Upon these observations and thoughts my policy was formed. Firm in the belief that some remedy was necessary, I decided to experiment. I determined to have my policemen use their best human instincts. I proposed that my men should exercise that discretion which the judges did not always exercise.

To insure the successful operation of the plan it was necessary, of course, that every member of the force should understand it. They must be made aware of the principle involved and the benefits to be derived from the policy. To that end I personally met with every division of the officers and men and, in an informal discussion, considered with them every detail. Every misdemeanor and crime was carefully dissected and we decided together just how far the policy was to be applied.

First: Juveniles were never to be placed in city prisons. They were to be taken home or the parents sent for and the child turned over to them with a warning for parental correction.

Second: Intoxicated persons were to be taken or sent home unless it seemed necessary for the protection of their lives or their property, to confine them until sober. And in that case they were to be allowed to plead guilty and, by signing a waiver of trial, let go without appearing in court. And for your information I might add, that under this system of so-called Sunrise Court, during the year of 1907 there were 7733 persons released by signing such a waiver without any further punishment.

Third: Juvenile and intoxicated persons are cited only because they appear to be in the majority, but apparent offenders of any misdemeanor charges, are warned and released by simply taking their name and address, unless it can be shown, that the offense was committed with malice and forethought; with the intention to injure the person or property of another. And I might add, that this policy has also been applied even where it seemed apparent felonies had been committed.

The force was shown how by conscientiously carrying out this policy they would save many hours' duty in court, a matter of great importance to the officers on night duty, and to the public when officers are on day duty. They would save to the city thousands of dollars in witness fees; much work for the police judges, police clerks and court attaches; wear and tear of all police apparatus. And they would cut politicians and shyster lawyers out of their source of revenue, and drive them back to good, honest work, may be.

The force became thoroughly interested and, though there were a few mistakes to correct at first, the policy has proved a success during the five months of severe trial which we have given it.

To show this I quote from our reports the number of arrests for the first five months of 1907 and 1908:

January, 1907, 2158.	January 1908, 911.
February 1907, 2257.	February 1908, 829.
March 1907, 2711.	March 1908, 939.
April 1907, 2434.	April 1908, 907.
May 1907, 2731.	May 1908, 883.

Those figures show that arrests have decreased 68%.

Reports and complaints have diminished at a corresponding rate. Officers, detectives and patrolmen are able to devote more time to the pursuit of the habitual criminal and crimes of a serious nature; to suspicious persons and to those whose livelihood depends upon the swindling and robbing of the honest citizens. This in turn has resulted in driving from our city practically all of these vultures, and those that remain are under such close surveillance that it is almost impossible for them to operate successfully. I think I can truthfully say that Cleveland is well pleased with the result.

I believe in my policy. I believe that if it is properly and generally carried into effect it will put the American policeman in the position he should occupy. He will learn that the people he has to deal with are human beings, not machines; liable to make mistakes and failures, but not therefore lost souls. And I believe that the patrolman should be the friend and parole officer of these laggards. I believe that the best policeman is he who manages all offenders against the law with the least show of authority, with the least personal pride, with the greatest sense of human justice.

At our last meeting I described to you our policy of "Police Repression," and I explained that the purpose of it was to prevent violations of the law instead of waiting for them to occur. That is policy in connection with this, the "Golden Rule Policy" has really made Cleveland a good city to live in.

And, to take a broad view, I submit that we police can help to make the world a better place to live in. It has been said, and you, gentlemen, with your long experience in police business, know that the police unwillingly and unwittingly, perhaps we never-the-less have been instrumental in making as many criminals as any other agency, poverty, heritage and association excepted.

This we have done by making these numerous arrests of first offenders; by exposing and branding them with Police Court and prison records.

We have discouraged men. We have driven young and weak men to the haunts and association of habitual and expert criminals, who have taught them the ideals and practice of crime. We have punished, we have not prevented crime. The time has come to change all this and I believe we, in Cleveland, have found the way to do it.

New England Food Fair

The second annual New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition which is to be held in Mechanics building from October 5 to 31, under the auspices of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers Association will, without question be the most pretentious exposition ever held in this part of the country.

In the first place it will be more than a "food fair." Last year the same people gave the big fair at Mechanics building and it was the consensus of opinion that "it was different" from any food fair of the past. This is what the management had promised in their advertising. They had said that there should be no extra charge to see anything inside the building—that there should be no fakes or catch-penny devices—and every promise was kept. Upon this record the management may well "stand pat."

This year they have decided to enlarge their scope. The exposition which will be given at Mechanics building next October will very narrowly miss being a world's fair. Messrs. Green and Rowe who are managing the fair for the Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers Association, have secured attractions such as no fair ever given in the past in New England, could boast. They have secured from the government of Mexico an exhibit which will be larger than any that government has ever sent to a world's fair. It will occupy the stage of the Grand Hall at Mechanics building and 14,000 square feet of space. It will include exhibitions of the productions and resources of the 22 states of Mexico and will come with the personal endorsement of President Diaz—Mexico's most famous executive.

In addition, Messrs. Green and Rowe have secured, as the chief musical feature, the Mexican National band. This is a government organization which has never before been outside of Mexico. It is composed of 97 musicians and is said, by competent critics to be the finest band in the world. There have been many so-called "Mexican bands" touring this country but this is the only real national band of Mexico and it has never as yet left its native country.

Following out their policy of last year, to give more for the money than would seem to be possible, Messrs. Green and Rowe have also secured, as a free attraction, Frank C. Bostock's, Earl's Court (London), animal arena. Mr. Bostock is known throughout the world as "The Animal King" and his name is sufficient to warrant the excellence of the exhibit.

In Paul Revere Hall, quite appropriately, "Paul Revere's Ride" will be given as a motion picture—and this too will be a free attraction. This will be the first time that this picture has been shown in colors.

WONDERLAND.

Frank L. Sylvis' way of earning a living is to be dragged prostrate around the arena and then be hanged twice a day by the Pawnee Bill cowboys at Wonderland. How he survives the ordeal is a source of ceaseless wonder to the crowds that witness the proceeding. Sylvis is the luckless victim who impersonates a horse thief in the performance, and to whom summary justice is meted out. Jose Bararo, Mexican man of the plains, is at the head of the band

A Chain and Its Links

In telephoning there are three links in the chain that constitutes "good service": 1. The person calling. 2. The operator. 3. The person called.

No matter how much any one or any two of these links do to develop good service, the result is determined by the measure of co-operation of the third. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link.

If the person calling fails to consult the catalogue and gives a wrong number, the operator inevitably repeats the error. If the person called fails to answer promptly and the caller leaves the telephone, naturally "there is no one on the line."

Being human, the operator—the third link—is liable to err occasionally, but careful analysis demonstrates that she is not fairly chargeable with many of the difficulties frequently ascribed to her.

If Link No. 1 Gives the Right Number and Calls Distinctly, and Link No. 3 Answers Promptly, the Telephone Company will be responsible for its part of the chain. If no higher motive actuated it, the motive of economy, or self-interest, would suffice.

From any Pay Station you can speak to any one of 300,000 telephones in the territory of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Even if he is not a subscriber, you can arrange to have the person desired called to a Pay station to talk to you.

SHORTHAND

For the benefit of those who, by circumstances or ambition, are desirous of wasting no time in preparing themselves for the business world, I am giving private instruction in Shorthand, typewriting included, at reduced rates for the summer. The number being necessarily limited insures the needed attention which large schools cannot give. The pupils will work from dictation from the first lesson. For particulars and rates, address Mrs. M. R. Bakeman, 252 Green St., Cambridge.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

On a more elaborate scale than in former years was the Fourth celebration in this city. As a greater part of several programs took place in the forenoon showers which occurred during the afternoon hours interfered
but little with the events.

Foremost among the local celebrations was that held by the Newton Centre improvement association on the ward 6 playground. In an annual baseball game the Newton Centre
single men defeated the married men, 9 to 6. The teams lined up as follows:

Single men, Armington p, Richardson
c, W. Pierce 1b, T. B. Plimpton ss, Chamberlain lf, Gordon cf, H. Plimpton
rf, married men, Foote p, Hatch c, Blas 1b, Blaisdel 2b, Spaulding 3b,
Mumford ss, Wales lf, Cullen cf and Rising rf. Andrews and Cleveland were umpires.

Previous to the ball game there was a series of races, which resulted
as follows:

Potato race (class A)—Won by Patrick McHugh; Christopher Vachon
second. Time 40s.

Potato race (class B)—Won by Elliot Whaley; Edward Vachon second. Time 34 s.

75-yard dash—Won by Wallace Mc-Clellan; D. O'Brien second. Time 10 s.

1/4-mile run—Won by Otis Cobb;
William Archer second. Time 58 3/4 s.

Three-legged race (class A)—Won
by Christopher Vachon and Carroll Asbell; Horace Hawks and Thomas
Taylor second. Time 21 s.

Three-legged race (class B)—Won
by George Harrington and Elliot
Whaley; Robert Spaulding and Bruce
McClellan second. Time 13 s.

Sack race (class A)—Won by Charles Roche; Geo. Harrington second. Time 15 s.

Sack race (class B)—Won by Edward Sullivan; Leslie Aitken second.
Time 18 s.

Wheelbarrow race—Won by Elliot
Whaley, 95 ft. 4 1/2 in; John Whaley 101 ft. second.

One of the most amusing sports
was the wheelbarrow race. Blindfolded, the contestants started from the edge of the field with 2 1/2 minutes in which to push their wheel-barrows as near as possible to a flag
in the centre of the grounds.

A team comprising John Hines, John Leonard, William Archer and Theodore Morton, representing the Newton Y. M. C. A., defeated a picked Newton Centre team in a relay race.

The judges of the various events were A. E. Alvord, president of the Newton Centre improvement association; Frank R. Moore, president of the Newton Highlands improvement association; F. S. V. Sias, C. E. Potter and George F. Richardson. Other members of the committee in charge
were William H. Rice, Charles E.
Kelsey, M. S. Buckley, Frederic C.
Rising, Eben Shute, William Robertson, Laurence W. Davis, Howard Emerson, H. J. Kellaway and H. A.
Ely. The athletic events were run off without a hitch.

The celebration at Nonantum began when a monster bonfire off California street was lighted. This feature was under auspices of the Nonantum A. A. In the morning the Nonantum boys' club defeated the Bunker Hill boys' club on the Nonantum playground, 8 to 3. Batteries, Frechette and Gingsberg; Effe and O'Connor.

The residents of the Elliot district of Newton Highlands joined in a celebration which lasted throughout the afternoon and evening. A series of interesting races and contests were features. A boys' flag race was won by Gordon Scholer, while a similar event for girls was captured by Miss Dorthea Trickey. Mrs. Blackford won a contest in which women exhibited
their skill in throwing a tennis ball.

A boys' peanut race was won by Horace Snow and that for girls by Miss Vera McKean. Richard Bacon won the sack race, the running race for men went to Frank L. Richardson

VACATIONS

At the approach of summer and vacation time, the safety of your silver ware and other valuables during your absence must be considered. The Safe Deposit Vaults in our new building are especially designed to care for such property: charges proportionate to space occupied.

and that for women to Miss Mc-Kean. Frank Gifford won a daisy contest. Mrs. H. G. Gifford won a lemon race. A soap bubble contest was won by Miss Elsie Badger. A novel event for men was a "smoke"
bubble contest which was won by Frank R. Moore. Miss Ethel Towner captured a needle threading contest.
Rollo Lane won a doughnut eating event and Payson Shaw exhibited his skill as a cyclist by capturing the slow bicycle race. Miss Thelma Scholer won a peanut scramble.

Tables were spread on the lawns
and refreshments served during the afternoon, and there was a display of fireworks in the evening. The general committee in charge of the affair consisted of E. Channing Bourne and Frank R. Moore, with A. L. Ball, J. A.
Sullivan, C. W. Dilloway and W. S.
Jackson as a committee on games.
Charles W. Floyd, Walter Adams, H.
G. Gifford, Sidney Williams and Loren F. Fletcher as a committee on fireworks, and a ladies' committee with Mrs. C. W. Floyd as chairman.

A magnificent display of fireworks,
including many humorous set pieces
depicting the trials and tribulations
of inexperienced golfers, took place at the Brae Burn country club at West Newton, being witnessed by a large number.

The firemen stationed at engine house 1, Nonantum square had a large display of fireworks.

The most serious accident which occurred in this city in connection with the Fourth of July celebration was that early Sunday morning, when Miss Mary Gilmore, aged 14, of 462
Watertown street, was burned about
the eyes by fireworks.

She was attended by City Physician
Utley and later was removed to the Newton hospital in the police ambulance. Although she was badly burned it is expected that she will not lose
the sight of either eye.

CELEBRATION AT WABAN

The village of Waban celebrated the 4th most strenuously, and showed its appreciation of the successful efforts of the committee by turning out in full force and joining in the fun provided.

Some of the younger inhabitants commenced a little before the law allowed, but the real sports began at 8 A. M. with the finals of the mixed doubles tournament at the Waban
Tennis Courts, which was won 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, by Mrs. Buffum and Mr.
Walker. Everybody expected this result, but their opponents, Mr. and Mrs. Rane, put up a remarkable fight and won the lion's share of the praise.

The former covered the court in a remarkable manner and was well backed up by Mrs. Rane.

At 10 o'clock came the athletic games and nearly every child came away proudly decorated with one to a dozen badges of red, blue or yellow.

The men too, joined in occasionally
and did great stunts, but their points
did not count in the chief struggle for the handsome silver cups which went to the greatest pot winners in each class. Fred Williams proved the best allround athlete of the young men, and his performances especially in the 100 yd. dash, the 220, and the potato race were truly excellent.

The next class, between ten and sixteen
was won by Roland Spencer handily,
while Allan Wiley proved a great little sprinter and walked away with the youngest class. Miss Helen Wiley, Miss Marjory Rice and Catherine
Hovey shared the honors for the girls.

In the afternoon came the long anticipated championship ball game, and the Eastside regained its wonted superiority by administering a crushing defeat to the Westerners, making runs until they were tired and the scorer threw up the job in despair.

Professor Rane pitched an excellent game in spite of the wet ball and had glit edged support, Crain and Andrews furnishing several of the features. Robinson accepting 6 chances at short, and Marsh caught excellently. Andrews, Bartlett and Sawyer did well for the losers and Locke had his battling eye all the time.

The day closed with a big display of fireworks and a band concert, and the many set pieces produced much enthusiasm from the big gallery.

Altogether it was the greatest day
in the history of the village.

The Waban improvement association had a series of sports in that district in the morning, resulting as follows:

200-yard dash (class A)—Won by Williams; Rice second.

200-yard dash (class B)—Won by Spencer; Knight second.

200-yard dash (class C)—Won by
A. Wylie; Hill second.

100-yard dash (class A)—Won by Williams; Saville second.

100-yard dash (class B)—Won by Spencer; Knight second.

100-yard dash (class C)—Won by
A. Wylie; Hill second.

DOOLEY ON THE ORIGIN OF THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

(By Frank A. Arend, Waban, with apologies to Peter Finley Dunne.)

"Good mornin', Mr. Dooley; fr th'
love iv hivin, what's wrong wid ye, Dooley?"

"Good mornin', Hinessey. What's wrong wid me? Well, I've bin cillibratin' th' Glorious Fourth wid th' angel kids that liv' in me naborhood.
Why have I me hands and head all done up for? Well, there's parts iv
me that's not done up, but is hurt
just as bad, an' me doctor sez I'll be all right in a few days if blood poi-sonin' doesn't set in."

"How'd I get hurt, ye sez? Well, I
dinna know just how th' boys worked th'
game, but anyhow they worked it all right, an' fr a while I cul hear th'
angels singin' and I cul feel thim lay-
in me poor body away."

"As is me custom on th' Glorious Fourth, me saloon was closed an' I was standin' in front iv me place,
meanin' no harm to a livin' soul, whin Ryan's an' Hogan's kids cum along wid a few other small divils and sez
I to thim, sez I: 'Where air ye goin'
this mornin'?' An' sez Ryan's kid,
'G'wan, sez he, 'we're goin' huntin'
fr a goat.' 'An' where's there wan round here?' sez I. 'Cum on,' sez he,
an' we'll show ye wan.' So long wid th' divils I whin thim we cum fornast th' Dago's shop, an' thim th' boys stopped an' bought sum firecrackers
an' commenced throwin' thim under
th' cars an' horses, an' they was hav-
in' a fine time. 'Where's th' goat?'
sez I. 'We'll git him soon,' sez Hogan's kid. I was lookin' in th' Dago's window an' I seen a lot iv long, red things, lookin' like red bananas, so I sez I th' Dago, 'What's thim?' 'Dinmitte cannons,' sez he. 'An' what's thim for?' sez I. 'To make heila noise,' sez he. 'How much air they?'
sez I. 'Sez he, 'Da smalla one, ten centa, de oder onea, twenty cen-ta.' Hinessey, 'twas off me nut I was, fr I bought ten iv thim twinty
cent cannons an' giv' thim to thim
boys, an' sez, 'Now let's go an' find th'
goat.' Sez Hogan's boy, 'Mr. Dooley, before we find th' goat I want to ask
ye a question.' 'Go aild,' sez I.
'Well,' sez he, 'Mr. Dooley, why is th'
Fourth av July?' 'Why is th' Fourth av July?' sez I. 'Yes,' sez he, 'why is th' Fourth av July?' 'I dinna,' sez
I. 'Tell me, me boy, why is th'
Fourth av July?' 'Because,' sez he,
'I is frist, U is second, L is third an'
Y is th' Fourth av July, an' just thim,
Hinessey, hivin help me, I exploded!
Thim divils had filled me pockets wid
thim cannons an' put a lot under me feet an' up i' wint, whin I came to,
th' kids were all round me laffin' to beat th' band an' th' Dago was pourin'
water on me clothes an' was laffin' an'

sayin' 'Muchabada trick.' 'Twas a bad trick fr th' Dago, fr I hit him a crack side iv th' head that made him see all th' stars in th' Hivina to wanst.

"I started in to lick all thim boys,
fr I knew now they had found th'
goat, an' 'twas me, but divil a wan
could I catch, so I wint to me home
an' sint fr th' doe an' he fixed me up fr wan dollar."

"Why is th' Fourth av July? Now,
none iv that, Hinessey, fr ye're flirtin' wid death whin ye try that game on me. O, ye want to know why we hav' th' Fourth av July? Well, Hinessey, 'tis surprisid I am at ye,
not to know why we cillibrate th'
Glorious Fourth; any school boy kin tell ye that."

"Well, as I was sayin', after th' doe fixed me up— What's that? Ye want to know about Independin' day? Well, to tell ye th' truth, Hinessey, I ain't so sure meself what 'tis all about. Wan day, whin I was down to th' library, I got hold iv th' hencyclopedy an' made up me mind to find out fr meself."

"I looked fr Independin', an' it
sez that it is a town in Iowa and also in Missouri. So I looked fr th'
Fourth iv July an' all I could fin
about th' Fourth was about a guy called King Gawrgie th' Fourth, so I read that over, but it said nothin'
about fireworks, nor why is th' Fourth av July. So I asked Hogan's kid
that's in school, an' he sez that a lot iv Indians in Boston sunk a ship that was loaded wid tea, because th' feller that shipped th' tea had put tacks in th' tea in place iv th' tea leaves, an'
ivery wan kicked, so they got Buffalo Bill's Indians, who was givin' a show thin at th' time, to sink th' ship."

"Well, sez I, 'why did they want to sink th' ship? Why, all they had to do was to refuse to buy th' tea.' 'G'wan, sez he, thim we wouldn't iv had any Fourth av July. They sunk th' ship to show their Independin', sez he.
Well, Hinessey, if that was th' reason it was a small wan, an' I can't see fr th' life av me why they should make such a fuss about that every
year."

"Sure, 'twas bad to put tacks in tea,
fr it might puncture any wan's stomach to drink it, but 'tis a small matter, fr who would care to drink tea
whin th' breweries are all runnin'
over'th'?' 'Tis me opinion that Hogan's boy has it wrong an' that somethin' else was th' cause."

"I think more than likely th' powder trust started th' game, an' now
th' doctors and undertakers' trust
backs thim up, fr I see by th' papers
that thousands air killed every year,
by th' fool question iv 'Why is th'
Fourth av July?' 'Tis me opinion that ivery year thim trusts hire min to go about an' jolly th' people about pay-treelism an' paytreets."

"Air ye goin', Hinessey? Well, good-by, an' take me advice; don't be fool enough to cillibrate th' Fourth an'
never ask th' question, Why is th'
Fourth av July?"

INSANITY AND MILK

Miss Catharine Rourke was found hanging out of a bedroom window by her feet in the house of Simon
O'Connell, on Oak street, Newton
Upper Falls, early Sunday morning by her brother, Patrick. The woman's sister, Miss Jennie Rourke, was exerting all the strength she could summon to keep the young woman from falling to the yard. After being carefully drawn into the room, Miss Rourke was removed to police headquarters where she was examined by physicians and committed to a hospital for the insane.

While being detained at police headquarters Miss Rourke asked for milk.
The supply which is received daily
at the station house had soured owing to the extreme hot weather and it was impossible to secure any in the vicinity. Fortunately patrolman Sart-well found a cow wandering about the streets and brought to police headquarters and pastured in the back yard.

Believing that they might obtain some fresh milk for Miss Rourke several patrolmen tried their skill in milking the animal, but they did not meet with success. Finally Mrs. Ella
E. Mason, the matron, was summoned. She procured a big tin pail, placed a little stool on the right side of the cow and in a few minutes had several quarts of fresh milk. Mrs.
Mason was heartily congratulated by the officers upon her success as a milkmaid.

MR. VOSE DEAD.

Josiah H. Vose, formerly of Erie avenue, Newton Highlands, who had been for a number of years a professor at Amherst college as well as superintendent of the Silver-Burdett company of Boston and New York,
was found dead Sunday in White Plains, N. Y., with a bullet in his brain. Mr. Vose was alone in the house at the time, and it is thought that he shot himself while in a state of somnambulism.

His family, consisting of a wife and three small daughters, had taken a house at Newton Highlands a few weeks ago and Mr. Vose had planned to spend the early part of the summer here with them.

About a year ago the family moved to New York, Mr. Vose having his headquarters transferred to that city.
He had looked forward with much interest to spending part of the summer
near his former home in Newton Highlands and had planned to soon
join his family here.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Newton Highlands.
The service was a simple one, conducted by the rector, Rev. A. N. Slaydon, assisted by Rev. D. W. Roberts of Milton. There were selections by the choir. There were numerous floral offerings, including several tributes from employees of the publishing company with which Mr. Vose was connected. Burial was made in Milton.

MISS BAILEY'S WILL.

In the Supreme Judicial Court on the motion of the Old Colony Trust Co., named as executor of the will of Martha Ella Bailey, late of Newton, deceased, the jury verdict, disallowing said will on the ground that it had been procured to be executed
by undue influence, has been set aside
by Judge Rugg because the verdict was against the evidence and the weight of evidence. As the case now stands, the will is allowed by the Probate Court, Judge McIntire presiding.
This is the will in which Dr. Webber of this city is mentioned as a beneficiary.

WEDDED IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Miss Ada Stuart Wiswell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen A.
Wiswell of Charlesbank road, Newton was married last Saturday evening on her arrival in San Francisco,
to Ensign W. Alden Hall of North Easton. Miss Wiswell and Mr. Hall have been engaged for three years
and had planned to be married before Mr. Hall left on the battleship Kearsage with the Pacific squadron for their trip around Cape Horn. But as Mr. Hall had not then received his commission, that plan was abandoned. Mr. Hall received his commission as Ensign and immediately telegraphed Miss Wiswell to join him in San Francisco and be married before the ships left for the far East. Miss
a week ago Tuesday, and the wedding took place as stated.

Mrs. Hall will remain in San Francisco for a few weeks after her husband sails, before returning to her home in Newton. She is a contralto singer and has been soloist in a Unitarian church in South Boston.

CITY HALL NOTES

City Treasurer Newhall opened bids
on Tuesday for the $355,000 serial bonds for the new Technical High School, and the award was made to Estabrook & Co. on a 3.75 basis. The Newton Trust Co. bid 3.90 for the entire issue.

The Newton Trust Company has been awarded the $50,000 serial bonds for sewers at par. These bonds bear 3.65% interest.

In the last issue of the GRAPHIC,
it was stated that the city budget for 1908 was $64,000 larger than in 1907,
and that some additions have been made since January 1st. This statement should be modified to read that the additions to the budget were made since the last tax levy. In August 1907, None of the additional amounts were made in 1908. The city appropriations this year are larger by $72, $34.09 than in 1907.

Among other nominations sent by Governor Guild to the Executive Committee Wednesday were the following Newton persons: Mrs. Luann L.
Drackett, a trustee of the Massachusetts (School for Feeble-minded); F.
William Rane, State Forester; Dr. N.
Emmons Palmer, a trustee of the Massachusetts Homoeopathic Hospital.

GLOUCESTER-WARDS

EVERY MORNING.

The renewed chance this season of
going to beautiful and picturesque
Cape Ann by the commodious steamers
of the Gloucester line, starting from
the north side of Central wharf, foot
of State street elevated stairway,
daily and Sunday mornings, is being
taken by many hundreds of people
who never took the trip before. The
fine, newly furnished steel steamer
Cape Ann is a model of convenience
and safety in passenger service. There
is good music aboard, and enough
time is given in the quaint old fishing
port of Gloucester to see many of the
unusual sights of the place. Starting
time Sundays is at 10.15, but on week
days it is at 10 o'clock sharp.

CORRESPONDENCE

Mr. Editor:—
I have received, as I suppose all householders have, the circular issued in regard to gypsy moths and telling us what to do now.

I think all are glad that our city officials are on the look out at last against the gypsy moth, and are following tardily the action of towns about us, Brookline, Waltham and Watertown, who have sprayed their trees and been actively at work for some time to stop the ravages of these pests.

But why do our officials limit their work to the gypsy moth and leave out the elm tree beetle, which have done and are doing such injury to our noble elms? They apparently have done more harm than the gypsy moth. Any one going through our streets cannot but notice what ravages they have made to trees that belong to the city or are under the control of the city.

Take for example Farlow park. The fine row of elm trees running along the path from Vernon street to Church street are almost stripped of their leaves and those left on the branches are mostly all eaten up and yellow and in many cases the worms can be seen in large numbers still at their deadly work.

It comes with poor grace from those in authority to advise owners of "private" estates to "carefully" watch their trees and "spray them with gasoline and in other ways destroy these pests and then go along the streets and through Farlow park and see how public property is not carefully watched, but left to the tender mercy not of the gypsy moth but the elm tree beetle." When spraying with arsenite of lead would save these trees from dying and give us their grateful protection in these torrid days.

Why can not the large force of men who work on our highways be used for a time in saving the trees and let the streets alone for a few days? "Where there is a will" a way might be found to stop the ravages not of the gypsy moth but the elm tree beetle.

HUNT THE BURLAP

The beautiful trees of Newton have never been in greater danger of destruction than they are at present from the pest of caterpillars which like a regular Egyptian plague has descended upon us this spring.

In view of this danger it may be well to reiterate certain facts about the habits of these pests and methods of destroying them.

The gypsy moth attacks all fruit and shade trees, existing like all insects of its class under four forms—the egg, caterpillar, pupa and the moth. The female moth is white with numerous small markings. She dies after depositing her eggs. From August to May the egg mass may be found near where the moth emerged from its pupa case. Look sharply on the inner surface of an object if you wish to discover it.

The caterpillar may be found from May to August, diminishing greatly after July 15th. They feed at night, and in the day hide from the birds in dark places so it pays the individual to hunt the burlap (if he has been thoughtful enough for the community to protect his trees) and kill the caterpillars he finds there. Drop them into kerosene and they die quickly. Better not burlap if you can't search.

The Brown Tail found its way to Somerville in the early 90's, probably in a shipment of roses from Holland. These moths are pure white and have a conspicuous bunch of brown hair at the tip of the abdomen—hence the name. They fly chiefly at night and are greatly attracted by light as our electric light poles have lately borne evidences.

Differences Between These Moths
The egg-clusters of the gypsy moth are rarely found on the under side of a leaf, the brown tail almost always there. The caterpillar of the gypsy moth is a dark, grayish color, marked along the back with a double row of blue spots followed by a double row of red spots. The brown tail is of a tawny color marked along each side of its back by a row of pure white spots and having two bright red spots at lower end of the back. The female brown tail moth is pure white much smaller than the gypsy moth which is grayish.

The caterpillar of the gypsy moth never weaves a nest in which to hibernates, wintering in egg form, never as a caterpillar. On the other hand the brown tail always weaves a web or nest.

Remedies

The egg masses may be killed from August to May by soaking them with a creosote mixture which may be applied with a brush. This mixture is obtainable at an agricultural warehouse from 50c to $1.00 a gallon.

The caterpillar may be killed by spraying the infected foliage with arsenite of lead in a solution of 10 lbs. to 100 gals. of water. Mix thoroughly and apply on a clear dry day.

Burlap your trees, but if you do hunt your burlap.

To Kill the Brown Tail

The gathering of leaves which bear egg masses and burning them helps. The caterpillar webs are conspicuous objects at the tips of twigs from October to April these should be removed and burned. Spray your trees and protect with the "sticky" band.

When the moths collect around the street lights and gather on the poles a free use of the hose will wash down and kill them. These are simple remedies and if each resident would do his part Newton would stand a better chance of saving her trees.

AT NORUMBEGA.

A large number of visitors to Norumbega park at Auburndale who assembled in the open air theatre Sunday afternoon, expecting a hand concert, received a surprise when at 4 o'clock a regular service was begun upon the stage under auspices of the Boston Y. M. C. A.

It was the first time in four years that a religious service had been held in the park. A brass quartet played "Ever with Thee." Harlow F. Dean of the New England conservatory of music rendered a vocal solo. A stirring address was then delivered by Dr. George W. King of the People's temple, Boston. Mr. Dean sang "Ninety and Nine" and the service was brought to a close with "Nearer my God to Thee" played by the quartet.

Two sacred concerts were given by full orchestras for the first time in the history of the park, one being at 2 and the other at 7. It was announced that the open air services on the stage will be continued next Sunday afternoon.

LETTER CARRIERS SORE.

Considerable dissatisfaction exists among the local substitute carriers as a result of a situation brought about by consolidation of the Newton postal system with the Boston post-office.

Before the consolidation there were seven substitute carriers in this city. Daniel T. Sullivan, who lives at 22 Cook street, stood at the head of the list. When the consolidation was brought about July 1 he was put back about 100 places in the line for promotion, and the other local substitutes went back equally as far.

It was believed by many postal employees here that before the consolidation took place the local substitute carriers would be appointed regulars, as this had been done in other places. At present there are five Boston substitutes working in this city during the vacation season.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

On Thursday evening Home Lodge, No. 162, I. O. O. F., of Newton Highlands were visited by Grand Deputy C. A. Bullard and suite and the following officers were installed: N. G. Winslow Kent; V. G. W. C. Avery; P. G. Perrin Colburn; R. S. N. G. Thomas Goodwin; S. S. N. G. John Henlon; R. S. V. G. Thomas E. Lee; S. S. V. G. Samson Shuker; R. S. S. C. A. Chadwick; L. S. S. James Ford; chaplain, W. D. Churchill; conductor E. B. Musgrave; inside guardian, W. Kempton; outside sentinel, Frank Albrecht. A collation was served in the banquet hall after the installation.

VACATION SCHOOL OPEN

Vacation schools were opened in Newton Centre and Nonantum Monday with attendance indicating that the record enrollment of a year ago will be eclipsed. During the next few days, it is expected, pupils will continue to arrive.

The term will last six weeks, and the sessions will be held mornings from 8:30 to 11:30. In Newton Centre the summer sessions will be held in the Mason schoolhouse, while in Nonantum they will be held in the Stearns schoolhouse for the first time. Last year 657 pupils were enrolled in the Nonantum district and in Newton Centre there were 120.

This is the second season in which the school authorities have charge of the vacation sessions at Newton Centre. The summer school in that district was established eight years ago and for six years was conducted under direction of the Newton Centre woman's club.

Bakery, clay modelling, cooking, sewing and woodworking will be taught in Newton Centre. In Nonantum the studies will be basketry, cooking, gymnastics, knitting, sewing and woodworking in addition to regular kindergarten and primary grade work. A feature of the Nonantum vacation school last year which attracted wide attention was a model tenement of three rooms, which was completely remodelled and furnished by the pupils.

DIVIDEND DECLARED

The trustees of the West Newton Savings Bank met on Tuesday evening and declared the usual semi-annual dividend of 2% on its deposits.

OVER $2000 REALIZED

During the past week three very enthusiastic meetings have been held in connection with the recent lawn party held in the interest of the Working Boys' Home, Newton Highlands.

The tent of this year was the most successful ever held and far surpassed financially any previous lawn party ever held in the City of Newton.

The grounds covered with gayly decorated booths and lighted with hundreds of electric lights presented a most attractive appearance and the attendance during the day and evening numbered over seven thousand people.

The management wish to thank Mr. Wm. H. Colgan and the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Co., under whose direction the wiring and lighting was done, for their kindness and generosity.

On Wednesday evening representatives of various divisions and auxiliaries of the ancient order of Hibernians from Natick, Newton, Waltham and Watertown assembled in Mague hall, West Newton, where final returns were received and an address was delivered by Rev. J. J. Redican of the Home who thanked those present for their cooperation in making the event the great success it proved to be.

On Thursday evening in Nonantum hall representatives of all the Courts of Foresters of the city met and reports from various committees were received. The Foresters surpassed in receipts any other table on the grounds.

The Knights of Columbus had charge of the vaudeville entertainment and athletic events. They kindly furnished the valuable prizes received by the winners.

The Ladies' Aid Society, under whose direction, the event was held, met in the Associated Charities Room, Newtonville, on Friday evening and a detailed report was read and was announced that over $2,000.00 was cleared. This was indeed a great source of pleasure to the Corporation of the Home of which His Grace, the Archbishop, is president, who ever appreciates the great interest taken in this, the most necessary charity in the diocese.

CAMBRIDGE

WALTHAM

CORRESPONDENCE

Within a few weeks a worthy member of our community, Mrs. Mary Magrath who for a year and a half had been ill with consumption, entered into her rest. A few statements concerning her may, for several reasons, be worthy of attention.

First, in domestic service, and later in meeting the need of husband and children in her own home, she fulfilled with industry, self respect and loving devotion her allotted task. After nursing her husband through his late illness, although hitherto frail in constitution, she undertook the support of her three children, opening little shop in her home and working by the day in several of our households.

Encouraged by her success in keeping together her family, she worked thankfully on, and had already begun to reduce the mortgage on the little home which she and her husband had built for their children, when a heavy cold followed by an attack of the grippe, brought her without warning, into the ranks of tubercular subjects.

With a desperate hope of regaining her health for the sake of her children, she secured admission to the Rutland sanatorium, where she made an heroic effort to comply with hard conditions of fresh air treatment during a severe winter. The expense of her outfit and four dollars per week required for her board, for six months of this time was met by efforts of her friends in West Newton who wished to relieve her of any financial anxiety. Meanwhile the home was closed; the younger boy, eleven years old was sent to a cousin, the second was placed in the home of the Angel Guardian, while the eldest daughter, a girl of fifteen, was placed in domestic service.

The physicians at the Institution

gave the case every possible consideration, but were obliged to return the patient in the fall. An opportunity was secured for her at the home of the Good Samaritan, but in piteous letters she begged to be allowed to pass the last few weeks of her life in her own home where she might see her children at frequent intervals.

Through the friendly efforts of the Ladies' Home Circle and with the assistance of some of the younger people of the community, two rooms in her vacant home were made neat and cheerful for her return, being provided with cot, bed-clothing, necessary dishes, fresh sash curtains, etc.

The daughter gave up her position and came home to care for the mother, working alone, under the direction of the district nurse for the entire winter, until one week before the end, when professional help was secured for her relief.

Through the long weeks of the past winter the way of the sufferer was cheered by the sympathy and assistance of many people whose kindness the writer here wishes to acknowledge.

From first to last, help was gathered from many directions, and to all sorts and conditions of people were we indebted for counsel, cheer and material aid. Two of our prominent physicians freely gave their services, the district nurse was efficient and full of friendly sympathy, the associated charities, church circles, city officials, merchants, provision dealers, priests, neighbors, loyal friends in domestic service, private individuals and even little children loved by the beneficiary, each and all united in giving quietly and willingly what they could, in order that the mother might satisfy the longing of her heart to die at home and among her people.

Nor was the amount required to meet the need so large; it was only that the help forthcoming was the sum of many human kindnesses such as the cheer of a thanksgiving turkey contributed by a Sunday school class for the children, the warmth and comfort of a regular contribution of fuel, savory soups and delicacies prepared in certain of our homes, a friendly counsel from some person of experience, a basket of fruit from the hospital, a song or story from the voice of some sympathetic visitor, a cheerful letter, message, or a handful of yellow Irish primroses brought by a friendly hand to quicken memories of the old country for the pilgrim journeying home.

When at last relief came and, in the consolation of her Roman Catholic faith, the sufferer passed into peace, it was with a heart full of gratitude to all who had befriended her, and it is in her behalf that these lines are written to give wider expression to the thanks so often spoken in the hearing of the writer only.

And when all this has been said, there is yet another word which concerns us. This pitiless disease so grievous to meet even for those who are able to pay for physicians, nurses, change of environment and the expensive food required by the patient, is doubly difficult to cope with among the poor. The casual reader in glancing over these lines may say. This is no unusual case to make especial demands for our sympathy. It is alas! only too usual. In the leading article of McClure's magazine for July, entitled, "Guardians of the Public Health," the writer makes the following statement:

"In many communities it is considered a disgrace to die of consumption. So it is but the stigma rests upon the community which permits the ravage of this preventable disease; not upon the victims of it except as they contribute to the general lethargy."

To the end that there may be fewer of these cases among us, the Federation of Women's Clubs has undertaken to do its part to create public sentiment and awaken an intelligent desire among the people of Newton to control the disease for the welfare of the community. Let us hope that this movement already begun, may be loyally and generously supported, in order that the homes and hearts of our people may less and less be desolated by the sad ravages of tuberculosis.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular drug printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

This does not mean that you are compelled to take your prescription to the druggist whose name appears on the paper.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

The prescription department in our store is always watched over by a registered pharmacist; a doctor's prescriptions are always filled exactly according to the way he intended they should be filled.

The many friends of Miss Sara C. Murray, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Murray of Newton, will be pleased to learn that she has successfully passed her examination and received the Degree of Ph.D. magna cum laude from the Munich university.

Miss Murray is a graduate of the Newton high school 1901; also of Radcliffe college 1904, where she completed the full course of four years in three. The last four years she has been attending the University of Munich, studying Classical Philology and Archaeology under the famous Professors Krumpholtz and Carius and the late Professor Furtwangler.

Miss Murray, who is only 23 years of age, intends to teach in this country and accompanied by her mother will soon reach home.

BLACKLER-BYRNE.

At Grace Episcopal church at 5.30 o'clock, Friday afternoon, July 3, at Manchester, N. H., Miss Jessie Marion Byrne, daughter of Dr. Charles Byrne, was united in marriage with Mr. Walter Hazard Blackler of West Newton Mass. The wedding was attended only by the relatives, being a very quiet affair. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Blackler, who is affiliated with the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, was attended by Mr. Herbert Dunnigton, of Manchester. Much of the conventionalities of the larger weddings was dispensed with and no cards were issued. After the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Blackler will reside at West Newton, Mass. where they will be at home to their friends.

A Colorado Club Woman

The most prominent figure at the great Biennial of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Boston has of course been its president, Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker of Denver. Mrs. Decker was the only woman invited by President Roosevelt to take part in the recent Convention of Governors. She has also been president of the Colorado State Board of Charities. As president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, she has travelled all over the United States, attending the meetings of the different State Federations, and familiarizing herself with their work. She has had an unequalled opportunity to see what women are doing to make the world better. In both the enfranchised and the unfranchised States. She regards as wholly unfounded the fear entertained by many Eastern women that the ballot would be a hindrance rather than a help to women in their efforts to bring about improvements. She says the women of the equal suffrage States have found it a great help. Still more strongly, if possible, does she disclaim the idea that women lose their influence and are less respected when they have a vote. Mrs. Decker says: "There is a much more chivalrous devotion and respect on the part of men, who look upon their sisters not as playthings or as property, but as equals and fellow citizens."

A Victory for Women in Norway.

The news that Norway had granted women Parliamentary suffrage is now followed by the announcement that the Norwegian Parliament has voted to give the women employed in the postal service the same pay as the men. Norwegian women are rejoicing over this as a great victory.

Mrs. Taft on Woman's Sphere.

Mrs. Taft, like her husband and President Roosevelt, is in favor of woman suffrage. She is reported in the Boston Globe as saying:

"I have always believed that women should vote. Except in rare instances, the influence of women in politics is for their elevation."

"It is truly said that communities where women lack civic pride are in worse shape than those where neglects his prerogative. Women should be versed in every phase of politics, and should know what everything means that has a direct bearing on the home environment. That is my idea of purifying politics, and I think it the only practical one."

Among the thousands of women attending the Biennial of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Boston, none received such a welcome as the fraternal delegate from the National American Woman Suffrage Association, the venerable Mrs. Julia Ward Howe. The whole great assembly rose when she came in, and stood up again when she left.

THE BRYAN OF 1908

Mr. Bryan's absolute control of the Denver convention is already foreshadowed in the preliminary acts of the Democratic National Committee, which was originally made up four years ago by the conservatives of the party after the nomination of Judge Parker. The committee is showing no disposition to harass Mr. Bryan by obstructing his program, and this fact indicates a conviction that his nomination is assured. The two questions remaining, the vice presidential nomination and the tone of the platform, are likely to be decided finally in harmony with Mr. Bryan's wishes. The impression the country receives is that President Roosevelt was hardly so much the master at Chicago as Citizen Bryan is at Denver, although this is the fine point of comparative supremacy that cannot be decided until Mr. Bryan's influence with the committee on resolutions is disclosed.

The fact that each of the great parties is completely dominated by one man forms one of the most salient features of the presidential campaign of 1908. It is a fact, too, that needs to be considered in discussing the question of Mr. Bryan's personal strength as the Democratic candidate. If the East is mistaken in its assumption that he is the weakest candidate the Democrats could nominate and that Mr. Taft's success is assured from the moment that the Denver convention formally accepts the Bryan leadership once more, the sooner it awakens to the fallacy of its views the better in the end. That the assumption is extremely dangerous is our belief. It is true, no doubt, that a stronger candidate might have been selected had Mr. Bryan, during the past three years, resolutely refused to reenter the presidential field and had contented himself with solidifying the Democratic party in support of some candidate agreeable to himself and unobjectionable to the various party factions.

But, inasmuch as no such attitude was taken by him, it has been evident that no one could prove so strong as Mr. Bryan, if the rival's nomination was to be effected through the violent smashing of Mr. Bryan's political power in a struggle for the control of the convention. For the Democratic party is no longer a compact unified organization with an instinct for discipline. It is now merely a loose, confederation of groups. Mr. Bryan's group is by far the largest, and it could not be depended upon to support loyally a candidate forced upon it by a combination of minority factions. This fact has made entirely futile the opposition to him, and it answers the question whether Mr. Bryan today is or is not the strongest candidate that the party could nominate. If we remember that, as things are, Mr. Bryan is the only man who can lead his personal following to the polls in support of the Democratic ticket, and that his personal following seems to be a majority of the Democratic party, there is no room for controversy. The only question remaining is whether Mr. Bryan, conceding him to be the strongest Democrat, will be strong enough to win, in spite of the inevitable defection in the old conservative wing.

* The present tendency is to estimate Mr. Bryan's political strength by his strength in 1896 and 1900, and to emphasize his weakness as then revealed by the lack of prestige from which a defeated candidate usually suffers. No account whatever is taken of his ability in the past three years to overpower all opposition and make himself supreme in the Democratic ranks. When one considers how remarkable in itself is the achievement, by a man who bore the crushing weight of two defeats and not a single victory in his past presidential campaign, it becomes necessary to consider whether Mr. Bryan could possibly have done this unless his renewed domination was the manifestation of a fresh outburst of strength in the confidence and affections of the people.

It may well be confessed that Mr. Bryan could never have reassured himself as he has in our politics, during the past four years, and have seized the party leadership even in spite of recurring blunders, if the resurgence did not signify to a considerable extent a change of mind regarding him on the part of the masses. It cannot be seriously maintained that his present supremacy is due to a political machine, or to money; and of course, he has been entirely without the support of a horde of officeholders or a powerful press. Both the moneyed and the cultured classes have continued to regard him with distrust. If his present political position is not due to a renewed strength among the masses, particularly in the West, then the phenomenon he presents must be regarded as a political miracle such as never before has occurred in American history.

If it is impossible to explain the Bryan of 1908 in any other way, then one must consider whether the causes that have lately made him invincible within the Democratic party are not operative more or less outside that party. The American people are not divided into air-tight compartments. Emotions and sentiments sweep over them like waves affecting the whole body, and it is perfectly clear that Bryan is the Democratic expression of the forces which find Mr. Roosevelt the Republican expression. Both parties, which compose the vast bulk of the people, have been swept by the same wave, and the supremacy of the one man within the Republican party really explains the supremacy of the other man within the Democratic party. Mr. Roosevelt, in the campaign now upon us, is to be represented by a substitute—a most estimable man. But Mr. Bryan is an original package. Deep emotional forces are operative; wage-earners are in a state of unrest; the popular suspicion of great corporations has not been allayed; the Republican party, with all its assets and efficiency, has been long in power. The Republican does not anticipate Mr. Bryan's election, yet it views as a stupid kind of folly the prevailing Eastern contempt for Mr. Bryan's possible strength as a presidential candidate.—Springfield Republican, Ind't.

The Political Situation

The signs indicate little interest in politics this fall in this city. Congress men Weeks will be renominated without opposition and will be easily re-elected. Councillor Seward W. Jones, who is completing his second term, will accept a third nomination, provided there is no opposition. Mr. Jones has done splendid work for the state during his service in the Governor's council and it is hoped the remainder of the district will take the same view of the matter. The senatorial situation continues unsettled. Newton politicians favor leaving the Republican nomination to the towns in the western end of the district and Representative Flagg of Holliston, Representative Hilton of Framingham, ex-representatives Wilbur A. Wood of Hopkinton, C. J. McPherson of Framingham and Aaron C. Dowse of Sherborn are all "prominently" mentioned for the place. Representative Martin T. Hall of Natick, a clean cut, able young man will be the Democratic nominee. For representatives Messrs. Garcelon and Bishop both lawyers who have served two years will be renominated and re-elected. Representative Lothrop has completed the customary three years of service and will probably retire. The locality argument points to either West or Auburndale as the home of his successor, but there is little interest in the position in those places. Mr. George R. Pulsifer of Newtonville and another lawyer has been suggested as Mr. Lothrop's successor and may receive the nomination, although in our opinion the city should return at least one business man to the General Court.

In the selection of Mr. Charles E. Hatfield of Newton as his campaign manager, Mr. Frothingham, candidate for lieutenant governor, indicates his good judgment. The fight for the lieutenant governor nomination, by the way, is a mighty pretty one. All three candidates are good campaigners and a choice is merely a matter of personal favoritism.

DEATH OF MR. MCBRIDE.

Mr. Cornelius McBride an old and well known resident of Newton passed away at his home on Gardner street Sunday after a long period of failing health. He was 87 years of age. Deceased was formerly a contractor but had not been in active business for many years. He is survived by a widow, one son and three daughters. The funeral was held from the house Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock and solemn requiem high mass followed at the Church of Our Lady at 9. Rev. Fr. Dolan was celebrant. Rev. Fr. Kelly, deacon and Rev. Fr. Malone sub-deacon. The bearers were Messrs C. W. Keefe, C. Madden, J. McNamara, J. Leonard, M. Enegess and M. Mulcahey. The burial was in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Watertown.

DEATH OF FRANCIS J. COONEY.

Francis J. Cooney the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cooney, of Charlesbank road, passed away at an early hour, Tuesday morning after an illness of three days from meningitis of the brain. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of his grandmother, Mrs. Catharine Carroll, also of Charlesbank road. Many floral tributes were received from his playmates and friends.

A CRACK SHOT

GREAT RIFLE SHOOTING BY MR. JOHN S. SUMNER

In these days of remarkable records with military rifles at long range it is interesting to recall the performances of the American riflemen of 30 years ago, who so well upheld the prestige of the country against all comers.

J. S. Sumner, who made a record of 221 out of 225 at Creedmoor on Sept. 25, 1878, still retains an active interest in shooting and frequently competes with his fellow members of the Massachusetts Rifle Association. From "The Spirit of the Times" we have extracted the report of a competition held during the spring and summer of 1879, which well illustrates the high standard of skill attained.

The rifles used were mostly of .45 caliber, employing from 90 to 110 grains of powder and a 550-grain paper patched bullet. As the cartridges were almost invariably loaded by the riflemen, skill in this department was a necessary requirement. Careful cleaning between shots was the custom. The arms, mostly of Sharp or Remington make, were shot from the back position, the rear sight being mounted on the stock near the butt. Front wind gauge sights, with a spirit level at the base, were equipped with all manner of apertures, half circles, dots, and pinheads. The weight of the rifle was limited to 10 pounds.

"The closing contest in 'The Spirit of the Times' Long Range Match was called at Walnut Hill, Mass., Sept. 3 (1879), with nine marksmen responding. The day could not have been a more perfect one; atmosphere dry, light of the off-looked-for gray, and a wind steady from about 11 o'clock. Yet, although the thermometer marked 82 degrees, the men were not troubled by such a paltry thing, considering the conditions. After the bullseye rounds, Salem Wilder, executive officer of the day, announced the match.

"As was expected, all were satisfied at the opening rounds, and throughout the 800 range the work was of the very best description, 75, 74, 73, and 70 being recorded for the best men. After lunch the weather was decidedly cooler, and as the work was commenced at 900, the wind began to shift and puff, needing the constant attention of the marksmen. But four of the contestants saw the white disk on the first round. This was, of course, attributed to the changing light and troublesome wind, but better things were promised ere the close. Sumner was shooting in his most healthy form, bull after bull answering his shots, until on the thirteenth round the color was varied to the red, thus interfering with another full score and leaving him with 27 consecutive bullseyes. Jackson was unfortunate, and tipped up the red one between bulls, while Brown struck the blackbird on his fifth. Gerrish shot steadily until toward the close, when he also wandered to the 4 ring. At the close of this range Sumner had 149 out of the possible 150, Jackson and Brown 144, Gerrish and Wilder 142.

"At the last range, 1,000 yards, the sun shone bright, and the wind freshened. The men, however, continued the work with regularity and promptness, only one very bad shot occurring at this range, Jackson's miss in the third round. The sudden change of light as he pulled caused the break, so that the shot is not recorded among the long list of "unaccountables." Sumner still continued hugging the bull, and all declared that he would beat his wonderful score of 221 out of 225; three drops, however, pulled him down, and his tally was a tie of his famous Creedmoor score. Gerrish was best man at this range with 73, while Jackson again fluked on his 113th shot, the magpie answering the call.

"The tallies were then made, and the following announced as the prize winners: First Class—1st prize, gold medal presented by The Spirit of the Times, J. S. Sumner; 2nd, Winchester rifle, W. Gerrish; 3rd, carbine from Providence Tool Company, J. F. Brown; 4th, Snider rifle, W. H. Jackson; 5th, N. Washburn; 6th, H. Tyler. This match, although open to all comers, was participated in only by the marksmen of the Massachusetts Association. Some twenty competitors have entered at different times, but the principal interest has attended the shooting of the half-dozen men who have made the name of Walnut Hill celebrated. The character of the match was such that it could not fail to be a severe test of the staying powers of the competitors.

"The match was begun April 9, and continued weekly. The weather during April and the first part of May was wretched, and 200 was seldom reached. In the five competitions previous to May 14, the only scores above 200 were Sumner, 208 and 206; Jackson, 205; Brown, 204; Gerrish, 203. After May 14, in 16 competitions, Sumner did not go below 200, and the other three went below but once each.

"Taking the scores from May 14, when the weather began to be decent (in 16 competitions) the averages were: Sumner, 211, 4-15; Jackson, 210 5-14; Gerrish, 209, 11-15. Taking the averages of every shot fired in the match, good, bad and indifferent, uncompleted scores and all, the averages are: Sumner (per shot) 4638, equal to a full score over all of 208 7-10; Brown 4556, equal to 205 2-10; Jackson 4531, equal to 203 90-100; Gerrish 4515, equal to 203 17-30. It is perfectly safe to say that this record has never been equaled. Mr. Sumner, by repeating, with an improvement, his unrivaled score of 221, and by his unparalleled high averages, has demonstrated his title to the first place among long range riflemen."

Every boy in the country wishes there had been four or five Declarations of Independence.

STATE PAYS BIG BILLS

Mr. John E. Clarey, a representative from Great Barrington to the General Court, and editor of the Courier of that town, makes the following interesting comments on one phase of state expenditures:—

Approximately speaking, the Commonwealth's printing bill three years ago was $100,000, two years ago $180,000, and last year $225,000.

The "stuff" that these large sums paid for may be found largely in unopened dry goods boxes in the small town halls of the state and in the basements and rubbish rooms of the larger ones. Some time ago, at a hearing before the committee on legal affairs, Commissioner Wood, of the department of public records, said that, in reply to inquiries sent to the various towns, more than 200 replies had been received expressing a desire to be relieved from the necessity of having to accept and care for the state's public documents. He said further that the problem of what to do with such publications would within a few years be a tremendous one, especially should the state insist, as now, their preservation and care by the towns.

And yet these documents are being turned out annually in increasing number and in more voluminous shape.

Under each legislator's desk is a file of reports of one kind and another more than a half foot thick. Each legislator's locker, except he has taken pains to unload it, is nearly one-third filled with other public documents. Almost every day he finds in his legislative post-office box another volume. Most of the legislators, after sorting out the really few valuable documents, will dispose of the remainder to the first junk buyer who calls. But the more expensive the book the less he will receive for it, for that class of publications have cloth and board covers, and these have to be taken off before the bodies of the volumes can be ground into pulp for paper making.

This condition doesn't discourage the authors of these many, and mostly, worthless, publications. Nine out of ten of the volumes are rendered largely worthless from lack of editing and boiling down. They are padded. The essential facts which they contain are hidden in a mass of verbiage and irrelevant illustrations. Silly details are in instances tabulated with utmost care and published at double cost. Pictures are put in merely to gratify the ambition of some commission or department head to get out a nice looking pamphlet or book. For a number years the annual report of the fisheries and game commission contained as a frontispiece a full page half-tone picture of the dwelling of the superintendent of a hatchery located at Sutton. Can any living man tell what possible purpose that picture served other than to gratify the superintendent's vanity?

"Bulletin Number 9," lately issued by the Massachusetts commission on industrial education, contained 85 pages of reading matter, scattered among which were 72 heavy plate inserts. Some of the inserts contained two pictures, others but one. The group included 13 building exteriors and 63 interior views, three floor plans and one picture of a trade school graduating class. The exterior views threw about as much light on the industrial education problem as would an equal number of views of any other factory, school or business buildings. Interior pictures of any machine shop, business college class room or dressmaker's sewing room would also have suited the purpose as well as did the duplicated views that were printed. The plates and their printing cost the Commonwealth hundreds of dollars. Except that possibly four or five of the most distinctive ones might have served a purpose had they not been hidden among so many worthless ones, the money was worse than wasted. They helped make the volume cumbersome and prevented its receiving the attention that it might otherwise have got. The text was nearly as useless. It needed boiling down into a few pungent pages. The commission is doing a good work, but doesn't know how to effectively tell about. There's no use in printing stuff that people will not read.

In last year's annual report of the Danvers insane hospital there are many needless pages of double-price statistical tables. Pages 48, 49, 50 and 51 give the "causes of death and form of mental disease in persons who died." By going carefully through 27 columns (tabular), on page 48, we find that one person died of "Carcinoma of the stomach, one from typhoid fever, 13 from septicaemia, one from "Carcinoma of uterus," etc., and also that two of these were victims of chronic alcoholic insanity, that nine had general paralysis, that one was an imbecile and that another was "maniac depressive." It is possibly important that this sort of thing should be put into print. If so it should be "run in" in straight reading matter form. Thus arranged, the matter now spread over eight pages would easily be gotten into half of one page, the typesetting cost of which would be but one-sixteenth that of the four tabular pages, and there would be a further reduction of cost through the saving of three and a half pages. And, quite as important, the information would be in form to be more readily grasped.

The reports of the other insane hospitals contain similarly costly tables—tables that are costly at the expense of convenience. The report of the Palmer hospital for epileptics contained in four pages what might, in exactly the same size of type, and

In similar arrangement, have been gotten into three, and that might have been just as conveniently put into two, such valuable information as the following is an illustration of, under the heading, "Articles Made and Repaired in the Sewing Room," each item occupying a line:

Chair cushions made.....	2
Jelly strainer made.....	1
Bag for book made.....	1
Clothespin bag made.....	1
Bathrobe made.....	1
Petticoats repaired.....	2
Chemise repaired.....	2
Straw tick repaired.....	1
Dress shortened.....	1
Skirt made over.....	1
Necktie.....	1
Pillow slip.....	1
Corset waist.....	1

Through inadvertence, probably, the report leaves us in ignorance as to whether the two items last mentioned were made or only repaired. This defect will probably be corrected in the next report.

The committee on printing thought an opportunity offered for legislation which would serve the double purpose of saving the state from $25,000 to $50,000 the first year and give the various state departments and institutions the benefit of an editing of their reports that would make them more useful. Therefore, taking advantage of a petition which Senator Treadway had been careful to make very broad, the committee gave the subject careful study, going so far in that respect as to appoint a sub-committee to work out the details. As a result, it proposed a bill which, had it become a law, would result in the employment of an editor of state publications and give him power to "blue pencil" stuff calculated to serve no other purpose than that of padding, and authority to revise the style in which the really useful facts should be arranged. At its public hearing no one appeared in opposition to the proposed legislation, but after the bill had been unanimously reported and referred to the committee on ways and means, the latter committee was waited upon by a large number of persons having to do with the issuing of reports, and each, of course, protested against the threatened infringement upon his rights. The ways and means committee reported adversely, but although satisfied that defeat would result, the House members of the committee on printing decided to make a fight upon the floor. The anticipated debate was cut short by the moving of the previous question. The proposition suffered in consequence a much more serious defeat than would have been the case had there been a chance to make it clear that its object was not merely that of creating a new salaried officer, or to employ a man with no other conception of the responsibilities of the suggested office other than that of cutting and slashing the copy of department heads and state institution officials. There are a number of newspaper men in the House and practically every one of them was quick to see the value of the proposed legislation and to give it his vote. The friends of the measure do not feel that their efforts have been wholly lost. As one Boston newspaper remarked the following day, the men now responsible for the enormous waste of money for printing "will probably see the typewriter on the wall" and themselves try to curb their desire to see themselves in print in documents that no one else ever looks at.

But the editor proposition will yet win. It is absolute folly to assume, as is now the case, that because a man may be a good prison warden or an efficient superintendent of an insane hospital, he is fit to prepare and put into form an intelligent report of its doings. Examination of any series of state documents for a period of 20 or more years will show that there has been no improvement in the methods of trying to give the public information. Most of those who try to prepare state publications and who have been on the job for any length of time, are hopelessly in ruts, while some of the newer department officials have more enthusiasm than they have sense of proportions, and consequently want to put everything into document form, not realizing that if they could be content to occupy less space, and to deal with matters in a much more direct way, their work would receive better attention.

IT WILL BE

SOUVENIR DAY

P. P. ADAMS, Waltham

On that day we will give to every caller at our store a pretty SOUVENIR OF NEWTON, MASS. It is in the form of a Booklet 6 in. by 5 1-2. The cover is made of a good quality linen paper with plenty of room on the inside of the front and back pages for correspondence and can be mailed to any part of the United States for two cents.

The booklet contains 8 views of the city of Newton done in half tone on good quality calendered paper, as follows. Farlow Park, Channing Church, Eliot Church, Church of our Lady, Nurses Home at Newton Hospital, Mt. Ida, The Hunnewell Club and Canoeing on the Charles. To visitors in Newton or residents of the city it makes a particularly pretty Souvenir much more dignified than the common postal and not at all of an advertising nature.

Besides this Souvenir Letter which is entirely Free we will give away TWO THOUSAND AND MORE OF THE TROLLEY WAY FINDER. A 64 page book of valuable information to the trolley traveller published by the Newton Street Railway Company and is a complete directory of the territory covered by trolley lines of their and connecting companies. The Book is invaluable to the Summer Trolley Tourist. You may have one or both of these Souvenirs by calling at our Dress Goods Counter any time during the day or evening of

In telephoning there are three links in the chain that constitutes "good service": 1. The person calling. 2. The operator. 3. The person called.

No matter how much any one or any two of these links do to develop good service, the result is determined by the measure of co-operation of the third. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link.

If the person calling fails to consult the catalogue and gives a wrong number, the operator inevitably repeats the error. If the person called fails to answer promptly and the caller leaves the telephone, naturally "there is no one on the line."

Being human, the operator—the third link—is liable to err occasionally, but careful analysis demonstrates that she is not fairly chargeable with many of the difficulties frequently ascribed to her.

If Link No. 1 Gives the Right Number and Calls Distinctly, and Link No. 3 Answers Promptly, the Telephone Company will be responsible for its part of the chain. If no higher motive actuated it, the motive of economy, or self-interest, would suffice.

From any Pay Station you can speak to any one of 300,000 telephones in the territory of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Even if he is not a subscriber, you can arrange to have the person desired called to a Pay Station to talk to you.

A MISSOURI IDEA.

The School of Journalism at the Missouri State University at Columbia, is a Missouri idea. Its purpose is to train for large public service as journalists.

The school is distinctive in its laboratory feature. This consists of the University Missouriian, a small but well balanced daily newspaper, upon which the work will be done, under the direction of experienced newspaper men, by the students of the school. This will apply to the training for journalism the same laboratory plan which has proved so eminently successful in recent years in the training for law and medicine. Courses will be given in the history and principles of Journalism, in newspaper administration, in illustration, in the libel law, in news gathering, in reporting, in editorial writing, in office equipment and in other purely professional branches. In addition, courses will be given in English composition and literature, history, government, sociology, economics, and other academic branches desirable for preparation for Journalism. The student taking the course in Journalism will thus have opportunity for general culture as well as specific professional training. The course will cover four years but a combined course will be offered, in which both the work in the College of Arts and Science (the academic department) and the School of Journalism can be taken in five years.

Tuition in this school, as in all departments of the University, is free.

Family Secrets.

A father complains that his little six-year-old girl is too talkative. He says: "The worst of it is when we have visitors she is continually making mistakes of the worst sort, mistakes that tend to rattle the dry bones of the family skeleton in the cupboard. Recently she allowed her tongue to run away with her, as usual, the result of which was that she very much embarrassed both her father and mother, although the guests seemed delighted."

I had a very serious talk with her and impressed upon her, or tried to, that she must not tell any family secret. The next time we had company she was permitted to come to the table only by promising that she wouldn't utter a word.

She behaved beautifully and had nothing to say until the dessert was about to be taken away. Then her lips began to quiver, and finally she burst into tears.

"Why, what's the matter, darling?" her mother asked.

"I—I want some more ice cream, if that isn't a family secret," she wailed between sobs.—London Telegraph.

An Unexpected Burns Lecture.

John Augustus O'Shea used to be in considerable request as a lecturer on his military experiences. Once, at Dumfries, he came upon the platform wearing in his buttonhole a daisy, which he quietly removed and held up. "Ladies and gentlemen," he began, "I hold in my hand a 'wee modest flower' I plucked this evening from the grave of Robert Burns." The audience was interested and became enthralled as the lecturer went on to speak of the national poet. Then, suddenly recollecting that Burns had nothing to do with his subject, he stopped abruptly. "And now," said Mr. O'Shea, "I will proceed to relate my experiences in the war."

But by this time he had thoroughly engaged the sympathies of his listeners, who would not hear of another subject. "Never mind the war, sir," they vociferated; "give us Robbie Burns!" And he did. This extemporaneous oration afterward became one of the most popular of Mr. O'Shea's lectures.—London Chronicle.

Lord Penzance's Acquaintance.

When the late Lord Penzance was plain Mr. Wilde, he once took an early morning stroll round Covent Garden market. There he entered into conversation with an old man of genial aspect who had just made a purchase of a geranium. Mr. Wilde soon found that the stranger was an enthusiastic amateur gardener, and the pair had an interesting chat on horticultural topics as they walked toward Oxford street. Suddenly the fare in a passing hansom cab signaled to the driver to pull up, and within the vehicle Wilde saw his friend, Sergeant Ballantine. Bidding the old man adieu, Wilde entered the cab.

In surprised accents Ballantine exclaimed, "How on earth did you come to know that man?"

"Picked him up just now in Covent Garden market," said his companion. "Well, Wilde," the sergeant remarked, "your new acquaintance is Calcraft, the hangman!"—London Academy.

Annoying the Passengers.

"There used to be in one of the southern states," said a military man, "a railroad that was notorious for its slowness. This line was so slow that the people took to lampooning it in the press. Thus one Memorial day a planter wrote to the Rapper, the leading paper of his district:

"The Editor of the Rapper: 'Dear Sir—Is there no way to put a stop to bogging along the line of the railroad? For instance, yesterday an aged veteran with a wooden leg kept pace with the afternoon express all the way from Point Rock to Nola. Cheeky and annoyed the passengers exceedingly, going from one open window to another with his impudent solicitations. 'VOX POPULI'."

Half of the Pleasure.

The youngest girl of a Baltimore family was recently much distressed at dessert to discover that there was ice cream for dinner.

"Oh, papa," exclaimed the youngster reproachfully, "why didn't they tell me this morning that we were going to have ice cream?"

"What difference would that have made?"

"Lots!" sighed the child. "I could have expected it all day!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Wanted a Pusher.

"What did the new neighbors come to borrow now?"

"They wanted the lawn mower."

"Is that all?"

"That was all they spoke about, but I think from the way they stood around they would like to have borrowed my husband to run it!"—Nashville American.

Apothecary's Weight.

"I'm sure," whispered the gossip, "that Mr. Pillsbury, the druggist, takes a dram occasionally."

"Yes," replied the bright girl, "I believe he has no scruples in that direction!"—Philadelphia Press.

Far Fields Are Greener.

And when he becomes a man he always boasts of what he did when he was a boy.—Pick-Me-Up.

A Substitute.

Mrs. Millsap's new girl, who never had gone out to service before and had had scarcely any experience as a cook, appeared to be willing and industrious and was quick to learn. In view of her inexperience she had readily agreed to work for $3.50 a week. Mrs. Millsap, who was an expert cook, had taken much pains with her education in that line, and at the end of five or six weeks Jimima was equal to any demands upon her in the line of kitchen work. The mistress was greatly surprised, therefore, when the maid one morning gave her a week's notice.

"What does this mean, Jimima?" she asked. "Haven't I treated you fairly?"

"Yes, me'am," answered the girl. "but I've learned how to cook now, and I've found a place where I can get $5 a week right at the start."

"You didn't ask me to raise your wages. Do you think you are acting fairly with me?"

"Oh, I'm going to do the square thing with you, Mrs. Millsap," said Jimima. "I've got a sister about a year younger than I am, and she's perfectly willing to come here and work for $3.50 a week—till she learns cooking anyhow."—Youth's Companion.

Trivial Cause of a Bloody War.

In the year 1654 a Polish nobleman became obnoxious to the laws of his country by reason of his having committed a crime. He fled to Sweden, whereupon John Casimir, king of Poland, wrote to Charles Gustavus, king of Sweden, demanding the surrender of the criminal. The king of Sweden on reading the dispatch noticed that his own name and titles were followed by two "et ceteras," while the name of the king of Poland was followed by three. The missing "et cetera" so enraged the king of Sweden that he at once declared war against Poland.

The war was carried on with great bitterness until 1660, when a peace was signed at Oliva, near Danzig. A contemporary writer (Kochowsky) poured out his lamentations on the war in these terms: "How dear has this 'et cetera' been to us! With how many lives have these two potentates paid for these missing eight letters! With what streams of blood has the failure of a few drops of ink been avenged!"

A Horse's Toe Nails.

Few persons realize that a horse's hoof is really the same thing as the toe nails of human beings or of animals having toes. The horn of a hoof grows just as a toe nail does. The hoof grows more rapidly in unsodden horses than in those wearing shoes, and it grows faster in horses which are well groomed and well fed. But on an average the horn grows about a third of an inch a month. Hind hoofs grow faster than fore hoofs. The toe of the hoof being the longest part, it takes longer for the horn to grow down there than at the heel. For instance, the toe will grow entirely down in from eleven to thirteen months, while the heel will grow down in from three to five months. As the new horn grows out any cracks or defects in the old gradually work down to where they can be cut off, just as with human finger nails you can watch the progress of a bruise from the roof to the tip.—New York Sun.

Dictionary Users Modest.

"Men are never so modest as when they go to use a dictionary," remarked an attendant at the public library. "As a rule, when you see a man go to a public dictionary or one in any place where other people are around you'll see him look about furtively as if in fear somebody might see him. Men who make no pretensions at having any great amount of knowledge nevertheless seem to be embarrassed to have any one think that they do not know the pronunciation or meaning of some English word. The next time you see a man looking up a word in the dictionary just ask him what it is he is looking up and see if he will tell you. You'll find in at least nine cases out of ten that he won't tell you. He's afraid you'll know it and have the fun of enlightening him."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Bibliophile's Reply.

Mandell Creighton, who was bishop of London, had a horror of lending his favorite books. A fellow clergyman once visited the bishop and took a fancy to an old edition of Shakespeare. He borrowed the volume and did not think to return it for several months. Finally the minister returned it with a letter, saying, "My Dear Bishop—I have great pleasure in returning the volume you lent me."

The bishop answered, "My Dear Brother—All the joy is mine."

Her Progress.

"The last time I saw you you were complaining about your servant being so slow."

"Oh, she's progressing now."

"Is she really?"

"Yes. She's getting slower and slower."—Exchange.

The Realistic Actor.

"Does he believe in realism?"

"Yes. But he carries it to excess. In the second scene he is severely wounded, and he has a doctor issue bulletins between the acts."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

NEW AUTO LAW.

On last Sunday the new automobile law passed by the Legislature this year went into effect. The law provides that the Highway Commission shall name four investigators or examiners who shall investigate accidents. The Civil Service Commission will hold an examination later in this month for applicants for this position, meanwhile the Commission will employ temporary investigators.

The Commission is also preparing complete copies of the automobile laws, as the new law provides that each person who receives a license shall be presented with a copy of the laws governing autos in this Commonwealth. Beginning this week there will be a charge of $2 for the examination of each applicant for a license.

Visiting registered automobiles from any other state may drive without a Massachusetts license for seven days, but if during that time they are convicted of any violation of the automobile law, they will be required to take out a Massachusetts license, thus placing themselves under the control of the Highway Commission.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

Harry Hirschman of Chelsea, sustained a fractured leg in a peculiar accident on Chandler place, Newton Upper Falls, Wednesday afternoon. When he attempted to jump into a tea wagon which he had been driving the horse became frightened and ran. Hirschman was thrown out. After being attended by a local doctor he was removed to the Newton hospital in the police ambulance.

AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHY.

The Boston Camera Club will hold an exhibition in the fall of this year open to any amateur photographers residing in New England. There will be but one class, "Out-of-Door Photography." Ten prizes are offered for the best photographs furnished as determined by the Exhibition Committee of the Club: a silver medal and bronze medal, four prizes of photographic materials, and two subscriptions each to Photo-Era and American Photography. The following are the rules of the contest:

1. All photographs submitted must have been made from negatives exposed not prior to July 10, 1908, and may be in any medium except blue prints.

2. Photographs sent in for exhibition may be either framed or mounted without glass, but if passepartout mounting is used, the rings on the back must be fastened through the board and not glued to the surface.

3. All photographs should be securely packed and addressed: "Exhibition Committee, Boston Camera Club, 50 Bromfield street, Boston, Mass." If sent by express, the charges must be prepaid. All prize winners shall become the property of the Boston Camera Club. The Club will not be responsible for loss or damage of prints. Prints will not be returned unless return charges are enclosed with the exhibition. The name and address of the exhibitor must be placed on the back of each mount.

4. All photographs intended for this contest must be in the hands of the Exhibition Committee of the Club on or before October 15, 1908.

Further information can be had by addressing the Secretary of the Club, Mr. John H. Thornton, 50 Bromfield street, Boston, who will forward circular upon application.

KICKED BY HORSE

Maurice Russin and Samuel Rosenblatt, both about 55 years old and residents of Saxonville, were seriously injured by a fractious horse which they had been driving in the Nonantum district of this city yesterday afternoon. Both men are in the Newton hospital, and Rosenblatt is on the dangerous list.

They had driven the horse attached to a load of junk from their homes on Russian avenue, Saxonville, to Boston today. About noon they started back with a load of merchandise. While passing through Watertown street near Pearl the horse became frightened and began to kick furiously.

The animal kicked over the dasher several times. Russin had his right leg broken. The wagon was considerably damaged. The men were removed to the hospital in the police ambulance and the wagon was taken to a West Newton stable.

GLOUCESTER-WARDS EVERY MORNING.

The renewed chance this season of going to beautiful and picturesque Cape Ann by the commodious steamers of the Gloucester line, starting from the north side of Central wharf, foot of State street elevated stairway, daily and Sunday mornings, is being taken by many hundreds of people who never took the trip before. The fine, newly furnished steel steamer Cape Ann is a model of convenience and safety in passenger service. There is good music aboard, and enough time is given in the quaint old fishing port of Gloucester to see many of the unusual sights of the place. Starting time Sundays is at 10:15, but on week days it is at 10 o'clock sharp.

SHORTHAND

For the benefit of those who, by circumstances or ambition, are desirous of wasting no time in preparing themselves for the business world, I am giving private instruction in shorthand, typewriting included, at reduced rates for the summer. The number being necessarily limited insures the needed attention which large schools cannot give. The pupils will work from dictation from the first lesson. For particulars and rates, address Mrs. M. R. Bakeman, 252 Green St., Cambridge.

IN MEMORIAM.

Miss Elise Snow.

The sudden death in Lincoln of Miss Elise Snow, by being thrown from her horse, has brought sorrow to many homes. She had a sweet presence and a loving heart and made friends with young and old wherever she went. It was all done unconsciously on her part for it was the expression of her natural self. Now that she is gone, every one feels a sense of personal loss. The many letters and expressions of sympathy all tell the same story. It is wonderful that one so young should have exerted such a wide influence. She had a great love for music and her voice was singularly sweet. It will be missed in many homes and in the choir of the village church "u Lincoln, where she gave her services in the summer time. The following lines by Whittier, read at her funeral, seem as if written especially for her.

GONE.

"Another hand is beckoning me,
Another call is given;
And glows once more with angel steps,
The path which reaches heaven."
"No paling of the cheek of bloom
Forewarned us of decay,
No shadow from the Silent hand
Fell round our loved one's way."
"The light of her young life went down
As sinks behind the hill,
The glory of a setting star Clear, suddenly and still."
"As pure and sweet, her fair brow Seemed
Eternal as the sky,
And like the brook's low sound, her voice,
A sound which could not die."
"And half we deemed she needed not
The changing of her sphere,
To give to Heaven a shining one Who walked an Angel here."
"The blessing of her quiet life
Fell on us like the dew;
And good thoughts where her footsteps pressed
Like fairy blossoms grew."
"Sweet promptings unto kindest
deeds

Were in her very look,
We read her face, as one who reads
A true and holy book."
"Fold her, oh Father! in Thine arms
And let her henceforth be A messenger of love between
Our human hearts and Thee".

OUR TIME STANDARDS.

The Four Sections That Divide the United States.

Every nation has its own time standard, but the United States has four. These time sections, as they are called, were introduced in the year 1883, chiefly for the benefit of the railroads, and are known as the eastern, central, mountain and Pacific. The eastern section extends from the Atlantic coast to an irregular line drawn from Detroit to Charleston, S. C.; the central includes all between this line and another extending from Bismarck, N. D., to the mouth of the Rio Grande river; the mountain extends from here to the western boundary of Montana, Idaho, Utah and Arizona, and the Pacific includes all the remainder of the country to the Pacific coast.

The difference in time between adjoining sections is one hour, so that when it is 12 o'clock in New York city it is 11 o'clock at Chicago, 10 o'clock at Denver and 9 o'clock at San Francisco. The true local time of any place is slower or faster than the standard time, according as the place is west or east of the time meridian. Thus the local time at Boston is sixteen minutes faster than eastern standard time, while at Buffalo it is sixteen minutes slower.—Harper's Weekly.

WINNING A COAT.

The Clever Scheme That Was Worked by a French Thief.

A Frenchman had been attending the Comedie Francaise, and after the performance he took a gloomy byway in order to make a short cut to the Boulevard Montmartre. He noticed as he hastened through the dark a slight tug on his coat, but to this he paid no attention. When he reached the bright boulevard, however, he found, to his great mortification, that one tail of his clasp-knife coat had been cut off. He notified a journalist of his loss, and the next morning an account of the odd theft appeared in the Figaro. That afternoon a man in a blue uniform called on him.

"I come, monsieur," the man said, "from the bureau of police. We have captured a suspicious character who had in his pocket a piece of fine black cloth. Let me have your mutilated coat, sir. If the piece fits it, we will know that we have apprehended the man who robbed you."

The other surrendered his coat, and from that day to this he heard no more about it. The pretended official was, of course, the thief, who had adopted that adroit means of getting the coat in order to attach to it the purloined tail.

Who Knows?

Alice tolled slowly up the stairs, paper and pencil in hand, ready to ask questions of the first person she encountered. Being just six, she was at the inquiring age and endeavored to make everybody's life a burden to them.

The first person she encountered was Bridget, the upstairs girl.

"Pwease, Bridget," she piped, "gife me ve letters of ve afabit."

Slowly and impressively Bridget complied.

"An' now, Bridget," proceeded Alice, "pwease gife me ve letters vat ain't in ve afabit."

Bridget thought. Then she thought again. She was puzzled.

"I'll tell ye tomorrow," and went down to ask cook.—London Queen.

The Colonies—in English Eyes.

The average Englishman, and it is surprising in what numbers he exists, has a vague conception of colonies generally. He has some hazy notions of Virginian plantations and transportation settlements and crown colonies where a peppery military man of the old school takes up the white man's burden by holding autocratic sway over unclad barbarians. The conceptions are more often than not fifty years behind the times.—Sydney Lone Hand.

The Oldest Jury.

The oldest Greek poet has left us a picture of what the jury was in his time. The primitive court is sitting, and the question is "guilty" or "not guilty." The old men of the community give their opinions in turn. The adjudicating democracy, the commons, standing round about, applaud the opinions which strike them most, and the applause determines the decision. Such was probably the earliest form of jury.

The British Drama.

It is absolutely true that the British public goes to the theater to be amused, not to be instructed. It considers that it pays its money to be amused, and it suddenly resents the presence of any powder in the jam. It is when this attitude changes that the great renaissance of the British drama will arrive.—London Graphic.

Hospitality.

"Use one teaspoonful of this cocoa in hot water every day. The can will last thirty days."

"But suppose there's company, missis?"

"Why, then, of course, use more hot water."—Filegunde Blatter.

Advantage of Position.

"Where have you been all afternoon?"

"Music hall—plano recital."

"Infernal tiresome, wasn't it?"

"Not at all. I was the pianist."—Chicago Tribune.

TEACHER SUED.

A suit for damages in the amount of $3000, which has been brought in the Middlesex superior court at East Cambridge and which is attracting wide interest in this city, is that brought by William F. Gorman of 150 Melrose street, Auburndale, against Mrs. Paul C. Sykes, a teacher in the grammar school in Auburndale.

Mr. Gorman alleges that his little daughter, Esther M. Gorman, aged 14 while a pupil in the school, was injured May 16 when Mrs. Sykes is said to have punished the child in a dressing room of the schoolhouse. He alleges that the child was taken by the throat and shaken so severely that she dropped in a faint.

Mr. Gorman states that two hours later the little girl was sent home in a carriage, and that her mother in her anxiety to meet the child tripped and fractured her ankle and has been ill during the past two months as a result.

Mrs. Gorman and her daughter are daughter are now in Pepperell. Mrs. Sykes, whose home is in the Marion apartments, Washington street, declines to discuss her side of the case.

SWINDLER CAUGHT.

By the conviction of Antonio Siglo, 45, a pedlar claiming a residence in New York, on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, in court yesterday morning, the police believe they have broken up a gang organized to swindle residents of cities and towns in the immediate vicinity of Boston.

Siglo was arrested Wednesday afternoon by patrolman Conroy. He was charged with obtaining $4.50 from Mrs. Flora Marchant, who resides in the Weld, an apartment house in Nonantum square.

It was brought out in testimony in the police court that he sold Mrs. Marchant a web of 20 yards of cloth Tuesday, representing it as the best Irish linen. Mrs. Marchant testified that when she washed the cloth there was glue in it which washed out, revealing that the cloth was cotton.

He represented that it was the last web he had. He asked $6 but a bargain was finally struck at $4.50. Later he called at the house of Mrs. Marchant's sister, Mrs. Gray, who resides in the Charlton, another apartment building in Newton proper, and here he offered to sell a web for $10.

There were several women in the apartment. While one kept the pedlar engaged in conversation another notified the police.

In court Siglo talked in broken English. He was greatly surprised when he learned that Associate Judge Bacon who was presiding in the absence of Judge Kennedy, was something of an Italian scholar and could converse in the language.

Siglo asserted that he told Mrs.

Marchant that the cloth was "white goods." He said that at the home of Mrs. Gray he had offered to refund the money paid and leave the city.

"Would you refund the money now?" asked the court, "Not now," replied the pedlar. "She was satisfied with the bargain at the time."

It was testified that the cloth had been taken to a dry goods store, where it had been pronounced cotton worth about 12 1/2 cents a yard. Linen, it was stated, would have been worth over 60 cents.

Siglo said that he had been in the vicinity of Boston only three days. He said he had obtained the cloth from one Salvatore Cambo. After considerable hesitation he gave the address of the latter as Hanover street, Boston.

He was sentenced to two months in the house of correction.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by James H. Nickerson to the Newton Savings Bank, dated September 23d, 1905, and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 3186, Page 547, for breach of the conditions therein contained and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction upon the several premises hereinafter described on Monday, the tenth day of August, A.D. 1908, at all times respectively hereinafter stated, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:—

At fifteen minutes after three o'clock in the afternoon on said day, all that lot of land with the buildings thereon, being the first parcel described in said mortgage, situated in that part of Newton, in the County of Middlesex, and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, called Auburndale, and bounded and described as follows:—viz:—Beginning at a point on the Westerly side of Lexington Street, with a radius of Twelve and 1/2 (12 1/2) feet, thence Northeasterly by said Lexington Street about Two hundred (200) feet to the point of beginning.

Containing 16,500 square feet, including also a strip of land 1 1/4 feet wide on the Westerly side of said premises, discontinued as a part of Freeman St., Excepting, however, so much of said premises, as may have been taken by the City of Newton for street purposes.

At Four o'clock in the afternoon on said day, a certain parcel of land, being the second parcel described in said mortgage, situated in that part of said Newton called Newton Highlands, and bounded as follows, viz:—Westerly by Hyde Street. One hundred (100) feet; Northerly by land now or formerly of Fewkes and land now or formerly of Miliken One hundred fifty-three (153) feet; Easterly by land now or formerly of Miliken One hundred one and 5/100 (101 5/100) feet; and Southerly by land now or formerly of Miliken One hundred and seventy (170) feet. Containing 10,150 square feet.

Said first parcel being the same described in the deed from Charles A. and Martha C. Miner to said James H. Nickerson, dated June 13, 1902, duly recorded in Book 2972, Page 330; and for title to said second parcel reference is made to a deed by Henry W. and Ida D. HON. FRANK H. HITCHCOCK,
Chairman Republican National Committee

Courtesy Medford Mercury.

THE NEW NATIONAL CHAIRMAN.

The following sketch of the recently elected chairman of the Republican National Committee, Hon. Frank H. Hitchcock of Newton is from the pen of Mr. William Preble Jones, editor of the Medford Mercury and a classmate of Mr. Hitchcock at Harvard.

Not by exceptional ability or brilliancy, but rather through hard work and keeping everlastingly at it has Hon. Frank H. Hitchcock, the new chairman of the Republican national committee, achieved his present high success in politics and public life. It is his persistency and faithfulness, his conscientious desire to do well whatever he undertakes, and the general spirit of loyalty and trustworthiness that pervades his whole nature that have made him in his first year one of the most prominent factors in national politics.

Those who have known him intimately from boyhood know that he always had his fair share of ability, but, more than that, he had ambition and determination. And still more he had good principles back of it all.

Notwithstanding his excessive modesty and a marked tendency to understate his own capacity, he was ambitious to make a name for himself, and was willing to work hard in attaining it. His aim was not merely to achieve fame, as the word is commonly understood, but to have his name stand for something and to prove his birthright. For Mr. Hitchcock was well born. Both of his parents (now deceased) were persons of exceptional character, education and refinement. In moderate circumstances, however, it meant considerable of a sacrifice for them to give the son and the two daughters the education that they wished them to enjoy. Accordingly, when Mr. Hitchcock went to college he went there to study. After graduation he went into the government service, and he went there to work. And now for the sake of his father and mother, whose memory he reveres, as well as for the two devoted sisters, he is striving to make the name of Hitchcock stand for something. How far he is succeeding, the public is well able to judge.

Mr. Hitchcock came to Somerville from the middle west when half way through the grammar school. When we entered the high school, he still sounded his r's with a western distinctness that was a never-ending source of delight to the elocution teacher. Likewise, it was a constant pleasure to the other boys when they were corrected for saying "nevva" and "libbatty" to have the teacher turn to Hitchcock, who would instantly flush to the tips of his ears, with the request that he show us how to pronounce "never-r" and "liber-rty" as they should be.

Pronouncing his r's was not Mr. Hitchcock's only distinguishing characteristic when in the high school. He could play baseball like all-possessed and with an ease and grace that were marvelous. While not a heavy batsman, he was an errorless fielder and he played the game like a veteran from start to finish. He was the best schoolboy first baseman in miles around. He was also a skilled boxer and a clever football player till an injury to his ankle threw him out of the game. When he went to Harvard, the baseball authorities got after him, but either they did not work hard enough to overcome his modesty, or else the necessity of making the best of his opportunity for study prevented him from trying for the team. At any rate the Harvard nine missed the chance of securing one of the best ball players that ever entered the university.

During his high school and college course, besides attending diligently to his studies, he devoted a good deal of time to tramping about the country on his pet hobby, ornithology, and also to raising chickens, the latter partly for profit and partly for the benefit of his neighbor's cats. When the chief feline marauder, the one with the blue ribbon and the tiny silver bell around his neck, suddenly passed in his checks, Hitchcock came to school the next morning with a triumphant smile that betokened an end to the hard times in the poultry industry. How that pussie departed this life only two of us ever knew, and neither will tell.

Politics also was a pastime that he indulged in more or less seriously. In the fall of his sophomore year at Cambridge Mr. Hitchcock became a voter and an active participant in the hot battles which were then waging in local and state affairs. He took to politics naturally. His father, the late Rev. Henry C. Hitchcock, then pastor of the Congregational church at West Somerville was a deep student of public questions and, although a clergyman, took an active part in the current reform movements. So it was not surprising that the son helped to hustle the neighbors out to caucuses, or went as delegate to the various conventions, or served as a precinct officer at the polls. He was studying history and politics in college and gaining some practical experience at the same time. Moreover, he was born in Ohio.

His first vote was for Harrison in November, 1888. A year or two later he was one of the organizers of the Somerville Young Men's Republican club. He was graduated from Harvard in June, 1891, a classmate of "Nick" Longworth, "Joe" Lister and the rest.

In November of that year he went to Washington as chief clerk to the superintendent of construction of the United States post office building. The same month, as a result of a competitive examination, he was appointed assistant in the biological division of the department of agriculture, where he had a chance to use and extend his knowledge of ornithology and kindred sciences. One year later he was transferred to the division of statistics. There he served in various positions, including that of librarian, till 1895, when he was made assistant chief of the section of foreign markets. In 1897 he was appointed chief of the section. When the section was made a division Mr. Hitchcock was appointed its chief, serving till March 12, 1903. He was then appointed as chief clerk to assist George B. Cortelyou in the organization of the new department of commerce and labor, which department became an actuality July 1, 1903, with Mr. Cortelyou as the first secretary.

As chief clerk of this department Mr. Hitchcock first achieved a national reputation. Previously, however, he had attracted a great deal of attention through his valuable circulars and bulletins on the agricultural exports and imports of the United States. He travelled extensively in connection with his work and became a recognized authority in various branches of the government service.

Early in his Washington career, Mr. Hitchcock studied at the Columbian university evening law school, (now a part of the George Washington university), from which he received the degrees of LL.B. (1894), and LL.M. (1895) with distinguished honors. He was admitted to the bar of the District of Columbia in 1894 and the United States supreme court in 1897. At the law school he became an intimate friend of Judge Harlan, of the supreme bench, one of his instructors. Another close personal friendship made in the law school was with George B. Cortelyou, who was a student there at the same time that he was stenographer and executive clerk to the President. The rise of these two government clerks, one friend helping the other, has been one of the most interesting phenomena of recent political history.

As a government clerk, Mr. Hitchcock could not engage in partisan politics; nevertheless he religiously and regularly came home every fall to vote, and always voted the straight Republican ticket. Although active participation was impossible he continued his practical study of politics. He always had a special card to the reserved galleries of the senate and house, and when congress was in session spent his spare time at the capital listening to the debates and getting acquainted, by sight and reputation at least, with all the members of both parties. A Chain and Its Links

In telephoning there are three links in the chain that constitutes "good service": 1. The person calling. 2. The operator. 3. The person called.

No matter how much any one or any two of these links do to develop good service, the result is determined by the measure of co-operation of the third. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link.

If the person calling fails to consult the catalogue and gives a wrong number, the operator inevitably repeats the error. If the person called fails to answer promptly and the caller leaves the telephone, naturally "there is no one on the line."

Being human, the operator—the third link—is liable to err occasionally, but careful analysis demonstrates that she is not fairly chargeable with many of the difficulties frequently ascribed to her.

If Link No. 1 Gives the Right Number and Calls Distinctly, and Link No. 3 Answers Promptly, the Telephone Company will be responsible for its part of the chain. If no higher motive actuated it, the motive of economy, or self-interest, would suffice.

From any Pay Station you can speak to any one of 300,000 telephones in the territory of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Even if he is not a subscriber, you can arrange to have the person desired called to a Pay Station to talk to you.

July 1, 1904, to assume the chairmanship of the Republican national committee during the last campaign, he took Mr. Hitchcock along as assistant secretary in charge of the New York headquarters. His acquaintance with men and measures, his organizing ability and his capacity for midnight work, something unknown and unpracticed by the average government employee, served Mr. Hitchcock in good stead and materially contributed to the efficiency and thoroughness of the campaign. After the election he became secretary of the inaugural committee, having in charge the extensive preparations for the inauguration of the president and vice president.

In March, 1905, a few days after the inauguration, President Roosevelt appointed him assistant postmaster general, which position he continued to fill to the eminent satisfaction of everybody until last February when he resigned to become manager of the Taft campaign. While serving as assistant postmaster general, his intimate knowledge of governmental matters was further recognized by President Roosevelt, who appointed him a member of the Keep Commission, whose duty it was to investigate and recommend various needed economies and methods of systematizing in the government service. He also had the chance to become assistant secretary of the treasury, but on account of various considerations decided to remain for the time in the post office department.

As assistant postmaster general Mr. Hitchcock was practically the author of the so-called Hitchcock Classification bill, which was passed by congress and provided for extensive promotions in the postal service. While intended as a measure of justice and an inducement to good work in the department, this bill increasing the salaries of about 50,000 clerks and carriers throughout the country was not without its political effect.

In accepting his resignation as assistant postmaster general on February 15, 1908, President Roosevelt said in a letter to Mr. Hitchcock:

"I have received your resignation, and wish to take advantage of this opportunity to thank you for the service you rendered the government through your very efficient work in connection with the reorganization of the post office, acting of course, under the postmaster-general. You were appointed to your position at Mr. Cortelyou's request, because in his judgment you possess pre-eminent and peculiar qualifications, and you have more than made good his judgment."

"The officers of the postal service who have spoken to me have been a unit in the opinion that you have accomplished more for the improvement of the service than all your predecessors. I congratulate you particularly upon the part you have taken in the successful effort to secure legislation for the betterment of the condition of all classes of employees of the postal service, which has been no unimportant factor in securing their earnest co-operation with the department in raising the standard of the postal service. You have been a hard and faithful worker for the good of the public, and I thank you for it."

Originally Mr. Hitchcock was for a Roosevelt third term, or for a "Second elective" term, which ever way you prefer it; when it was absolutely certain that the President would not under any circumstances accept a re-nomination he swung over to Taft and with the President's cordial approval.

His success as manager of the Taft campaign, and as the "real thing" at the recent Chicago convention, or the "steam road roller" as some were wont to call him, is a matter of current history with which the newspaper readers all over the country are familiar. Last week the climax was reached when he was unanimously selected by the special committee, empowered to make the choice, as chairman of the Republican national committee and chief executive officer of the presidential campaign.

Mr. Hitchcock was born in Amherst, Lorain county, O., October 5, 1867. He lived for a long time in Wisconsin, and came to Somerville with his family in 1880. About a couple of years ago he changed his legal residence from Somerville to Newton, when his sister removed to that city.

Athlete, naturalist, statistician, economist, and executive, versed in law and politics, he has "made good" in every position in which he has been placed.

Without political pull or favor, except such as come through the watchfulness of superior officers, Mr. Hitchcock has progressed on merit alone.

WEST NEWTON DEFEATED.

The Boulevards of West Somerville defeated the West Newton team last Saturday at Newton by the score of 16 to 10. The infield work on the Boulevard team was brilliant, and especially the third base playing of Scot Miles, formerly with the Volunteers of Easton. Time and again Miles was called upon to doff his cap in response to the repeated cheers of the spectators.

Sanan pitched four innings when an injured finger compelled him to retire in favor of G. Hamilton.

For the Newton team the clever work of Durrell, J. McKee and R. McKee is worthy of mention, also the timely hitting of Durrell and the base running of L. Yelland.

Newton was compelled to use three men in the box, Ross, J. McKee and Durrell.

At the end of the 7th inning the score was 9 to 8 in favor of Newton, but the eighth inning proved to be the Newton's Waterloo as the Boulevards scored six runs.

On the whole the work of Umpire Sheldon was very satisfactory but he had a great many close decisions to make and Captains F. Yelland and G. Hamilton were constantly coming in from their positions to protest.

The attendance was small owing to the rain.

REAL ESTATE.

Through the office of Alvord Bros., the estate of Ivory Harmon through Andrews, Blume and Isaac S. Brewster, Trustees, have sold to T. J. Murphy the large estate on the southerly side of Dedham street, in the Oak Hill district of Newton Centre, consisting of a large mansion house, stables, farm barn and poultry house and over 30 acres of land with frontage of 1000 feet on Dedham street.

This is one of the finest places in this section, lying next to the estate of the late E. D. Thayer and opposite the Wade place.

The total assessment is $20,600 of which $8000 is on the buildings.

15 INNING GAME.

It required 15 innings for Newton Y. M. C. A. to defeat the Makaria team of Quincy, 6 to 5, on the Cabot park diamond Saturday afternoon. This was the longest game played by the Y. M. C. A. in several years.

In the eighth innings the teams were tied, with four runs apiece. Neither side was able to score in the next six innings. In the first of the 9th Gannell of Makaria scored. In the second half Newton brought in a run, again evening the score. Haskell then stole third when Michael pitched the ball, and when the pitcher returned it he stole home, making the winning run.

DEATH OF T. F. HARGEDON.

Mr. Thomas F. Hargedon, son of John and Catharine Hargedon passed away at his home on Derby street West Newton of consumption, last Saturday, after a long illness, aged twenty years. He was formerly in the employ of Mr. Frederick Jones the Boston leather merchant but owing to failing health he was obliged to give up his work and go to Rutland. The hoped for improvement did not come and finally the young man returned home. Mr. Hargedon had a lovable disposition and his last days were passed with rare patience and fortitude. He is survived by his parents, one brother and six sisters. The funeral was held from the house at 8.15, and requiem mass followed at St. Bernard's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Fr. Charles J. Gallagher officiated and the church was well filled with the relatives and friends of the deceased. Among the numerous floral tributes were, a pillow of white peas and roses from his parents; wreath of sweet peas and roses from his sisters; pillow of lilacs, rose and forget-me-nots from the Millinery department of Shepard, Norwell and Co.; wreath of sweet peas from Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Jones; bouquet of sweet peas from Mrs. E. A. Allen; bouquet of sweet peas from Miss Minnie Connelly; bouquet of white asters from Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher; bouquet of white roses from the Misses Hunt; bouquet of pink from Mr. and Mrs. Randall; bouquet of white roses from the Misses Damphry; bouquet of sweet peas from Miss Catharine Boyie; star of sweet peas from Mrs. and Miss Trefly; bouquet of white pinks from Mrs. Tuttle; bouquet of white pinks from Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Pithy. The bearers were John Connelly, James Hargedon, James Mc-Mahon, William Fanning and John Feeney. The burial was in Calvary cemetery, Waltham, where services were held at the grave previous to the interment.

Big Men Are Chivalrous.

The Louisiana Legislature has just been wrestling with a proposal to make women eligible to serve on educational and charitable boards. It voted down the revolutionary suggestions as likely to disrupt the home and subvert the foundations of society. Representative Shattuck, the tallest man in the Legislature, was the chief champion of the bill. This moves the Women's Journal to say: "It has often been remarked that big men from Phillips Brooks down, are more apt to be just and generous in their attitude toward women than men of smaller size. It is the weak and second-rate men who have the most fear of women's competition. The really strong man is not afraid of what his sister might do to win if her hands were not legally tied."

SHORTHAND

For the benefit of those who, by circumstances or ambition, are desirous of wasting no time in preparing themselves for the business world, I am giving private instruction in shorthand, typewriting included, at reduced rates for the summer. The number being necessarily limited insures the needed attention which large schools cannot give. The pupils will work from dictation from the first lesson. For particulars and rates address Mrs. M. R. Bakeman, 6t 252 Green St., Cambridge.

A personal visit to one of the only Metropolitan Park commission

only deepens the previous convictions
of the editor of the GRAPHIC, that these band concerts, giving such transient and fleeting amusement, are wasting money, which might be far better expended for other and more useful purposes. A serious feature of the concerts held in the evening is the contaminating moral influence on our young people. The dim light and all the surrounding influences encourage hoodlumism and its attendant evils.

CORRESPONDENCE

Mr. Editor:
In looking over again the circular sent out some time ago by the Mayor and Street Commissioner calling attention to "the alarming increase of gypsy moths" and telling us "what to do now" I see that "the Street Department is said to be working with diligence to protect the trees upon our streets and to cooperate with residents to as great an extent as the unusual number of requests will allow."

I am glad to hear that that Department is so busily at work but in Wards 1 and 7 I have seen no trace of the diligence that is urged upon citizens generally.

The only unusual thing I have seen
has been the sawing of limbs of trees
that are dying from the ravages of the elm tree beetles, and bon fires
of the leaves, of the elm trees that are being stripped of their leaves by this action past.

Now I should like to ask the Street Commissioner if it not possible—if it would not be made a part of the duty of the men who scrape up the droppings and leaves in the streets
and gutters and rake off the grassy borders of the side walks to sweep
down the trees and kill the caterpillars
and moths and other pests as they begin their work in the morning?

Why can they not be instructed to destroy them, at no extra expense to the city, as easily as the private citizen's men are asked to do.

It does seem as if there was wanting somewhere a will to do anything to abate this sad vandalism.

CARD—MCLEOD.

Miss Katharine Alice McLeod the daughter of Mrs. M. J. McLeod became the bride of Mr. Ralph Freeman Card of Lyman street, Newton Centre last Wednesday. The ceremony was performed at 92 Mill street, Newton Centre at eight o'clock by Rev.
John M. English of the Newton Theological Institution. The bride wore white silk and the bride-maid, Miss Margaret W. Luiz of Cambridge wore flowered silk muslin.

Mr. W. Lloyd Graham of West Newton was the best man.
A reception followed the ceremony
until ten o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Card being assisted in receiving their friends by Mrs. Christine McRitchie and Mrs. D. N. McPhail, a sister of the bride. Guests were present from the Newtons, Brookline, Boston, Cambridge and Dorchester.

MUNICIPAL WHEELS

How the Affairs of the City are Run at City HallA Brief Glimpse at the Responsibility of the Mayor.

The chief executive officer of the city is called the mayor and is probably the best known of all our city officials. Where the average citizen might be unable to name all three of the aldermen hailing from his particular ward, he would probably be able to give at least the last name of the mayor of the city. This is a striking commentary on the interest the ordinary citizen takes in municipal affairs. But alas, it is all too true.

Under the present city charter, the mayor has an important place in the administration of civic affairs. Indeed, so far as the expenditure of money is concerned, he is usually the responsible official, as all executive departments are under his control. This does not mean that the mayor personally transacts all of the business of each department, but simply that in the larger affairs, the various heads are constantly in touch with the wishes and plans of the mayor.

It is difficult, under these circumstances to give an adequate account of his work. It is largely devoted to consultations with, and supervision
over the various city officers, with interviews with such citizens who desire to consult him personally, and their number is by no means small,
and with the approval of the numerous payrolls and accounts, required
by the routine business of the city.

The salaries of all laborers and officials are, by state law required to be paid weekly, and the rolls of the various departments are all submitted to the mayor for weekly approval.
The bills for supplies, etc., are paid
by the city on the tenth of each month and a few days prior to that time, these rolls with the accompanying vouchers and bills are also placed before the mayor and usually are given the most careful investigation.
In this connection it is interesting to notice the different results of this scrutiny from different mayors, results which frequently live for many years. Our present excellent mayor is a boot and shoe jobber and he has called the attention of at least one city official to the lower price and cash discount which he should obtain in the purchase of rubber boots. Other mayors in the past have thus noticed similar matters in connection with transactions with which they were familiar, and from which the city is still receiving the benefit.

It is unfortunate that the excellent plan inaugurated by Mayor Weeks, whereby each department made a requisition on the mayor, prior to the purchase of materials or goods, and received his authority before the goods were actually received, has been discontinued. This method was business like and gave splendid results. At present, on many small matters of purchase, the mayor receives his first intimation when the bill is presented for payment, frequently too late to take adverse action.

All contracts must receive the approval of the mayor before becoming binding upon the city. This clause of our charter virtually makes the head of the department, who signs the contract, merely a clerk: all important contracts being decided and concluded
by the mayor. All contracts, too, above a certain sum must be advertised, unless the mayor gives written permission to waive the advertisement.

All appointments to minor city offices, excepting by legislative departments, must also be approved by the mayor. This feature is not used in this city for political purposes. Our mayors have usually given the department heads free rein in the selection of their subordinates, and with excellent results.

In matters affecting the future, and which come officially before the mayor
in the form of orders, from the aldermen, the greatest responsibility of that official appears. Of course, it is possible for the legislative branch to force the city into positions, an-tagonized by the mayor, but usually,

the opposition of that officer, ends the matter.

The aldermanic orders, laid before the Mayor by the City Clerk, relate to every conceivable subject in the city, from the ringing of bells on holidays to the expenditure of large sums of money for school houses,
water works, streets, drains and sewers. Some orders, of course, require but little study but others involve
many questions relating to finances, expediency, and necessity and cannot be lightly approved or vetoed.

Although the work of the city treasurer in the matter of selling bonds
and notes of the city is not subject to executive scrutiny, it has usually been his custom to consult with the mayor in regard to the same.

The mayor's signature is also required on all licenses, and upon permits to open streets.

Space is insufficient to but barely outline the social duties of the mayor, which run the gamut from informal receptions to humble citizens or distinguished guests in his own office,
to full dress banquets and speeches
all over the city. The mayor's anteroom at City Hall is frequently filled with visitors on all kinds of errands,
from the politician, who wishes to learn if the mayor is a candidate for another term, to the humble applicant
for a job on the street department.

The address of the mayor upon assuming office has lately taken the form of a review of the various departments, and includes a financial statement of the city. The address was usually taken as an outline of the policy to be followed by the mayor, but new men to the office have been reluctant to openly commit themselves in this fashion and the address
is often a dry digest of the past year.

It would be far more consistent to abandon the inaugural address and have the retiring mayor deliver a valedictory.

In the fall the mayor has a practical opportunity to impress his ideas
on appropriations for the coming year. In the estimate sent to the board of aldermen, after thorough examination of the desires of the several departments. This is very important work as the annual budget foots up to over a million dollars, and the mayor has an excellent opportunity to cut out unnecessary demands, or effect economical changes.

The mayor has considerable influence in this direction for his recommendations usually appeal to the aldermen, and even after the budget
has been adopted, the mayor may except from his approval such items as are objectionable and return them to the board without affecting the remaining appropriations.

Taken all in all the work of a mayor who conscientiously performs his official duties will demand the best efforts of clear headed business men, and it is the duty of every citizen and tax payer to see to it that only the best men are chosen to fill this honorable position.

What They Believe And Why.

Since the close of the big camp meeting convention held on Commonwealth avenue, Auburndale, a few weeks ago able ministers of the Seventh Day Adventist faith assisted by a company of Christian workers are continuing the services in West Newton just off Watertown street near Washington. The meetings are similar in character to those at the convention ground and many are much interested in the teachings of the Bible as given by these people. The services are held every night except Saturday night and also Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The teachings are interesting to Christian people because they represent the simple truths of the gospel in new and attractive settings which greatly strengthen the foundations of faith and open new fields of truth. They are interesting to non church going people because they aim to make everything plain and give proof that all can accept. The teachings are positive rather than negative, constructive rather than destructive.

As the name indicates the Second personal coming of Christ is believed to be near, and the Seventh day is observed as the true Christian Sabbath. Christ's pre-existence, present intercession and atonement, the work of the Holy Spirit, obedience to the Ten Commandments and the teachings of Jesus, are subjects made prominent along with the signs of the times and fulfillment of Bible Prophecies which are illustrated by pictorial designs.

There is a question box through which all proper inquiries receive attention.

An appropriate feature of the meetings is the work of the visiting nurse
whose services are given to the public in connection with this evangelistic effort and who is devoted to ministering to the sick according to the Sanitarium methods of treating disease.

Lectures will be given next Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7 o'clock upon Health, "How We Live"
and Dieting to Recover Health. These talks will precede the regular evening services.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to come and hear things new and old.

NORUMBEGA PARK.

"FOLLOW THE FLAG." Almost every Bostonian and Suburbanite has come to realize fully the day's delight
or evening's amusement that is hidden behind this very trite and popular saying. There is no park in New England or perhaps in the United States so beautifully situated and with so many natural advantages as Norumbega. The Charles river in all its beauty winding gracefully along the wooded shores of Norumbega with thousands of canoeists shooting rapidly back and forth or gliding peacefully with the current presents a slight very familiar to Bostonians but one which is pleasantly appreciated
and greatly enjoyed by persons visiting Boston who scarcely expect to find the Charles river such a bevy of beauty. The Zoological gardens, the box ball alleys, the merry-go-rounds, steam launches and the numerous other amusement concessions are bound to give the amusement seekers a day's enjoyment trend may be when he visits Norumbega. The large open air theatre the largest in the United States, protected from sun and rain offers 1500 free seats every afternoon. Delightful vaudeville shows are given both afternoon and evening,
with new moving pictures every week,
always funny and interesting.

BAD FIRE.

A serious fire broke out last Friday morning in a building on the Riverside recreation grounds, and had it not been for the efficient work of the Newton fire department which came to assistance of the Weston fire fighting force the $50,000 worth of buildings would have doubtless been destroyed.

A stable containing a number of tons of hay was destroyed, entailing
a loss of $3000. The fire broke out shortly after eight, when many passengers were riding toward Boston on the Boston & Albany lines which pass the grounds on two sides. The blaze was a spectacular one. It started, the firemen believe, from sparks from a locomotive being blown onto the haymow.
Within a few minutes the upper part of the stable was in flames.

The grounds are situated just across the Charles river from Newton. An alarm was turned in from box 41 in that city at 8.30, and the department responded to the long run in record time. It was with considerable difficulty that lines of hose were spread to the buildings, but by more than an hour's hard labor the firemen saved
the other buildings in close proximity to the stable.

One of the buildings threatened was one of the largest boathouses along this section of the Charles river. Here hundreds of canoes were stored. For a time it looked as though the boathouse could not be saved, but it escaped with nothing more serious than a scorching.

Most of the horses that had been kept in the stable had been put to work on outlying parts of the grounds a short time before the fire broke out. There were, however, one horse and a cow remaining in the structure. At great risk employees entered the burning building and led the animals out safely. Half an hour afterward the stable was a mass of smouldering embers.

The buildings were owned by J. R.
Robertson of Auburndale. The stable was insured.

NEARLY DROWNED.

Had it not been for the prompt work
of two unknown canoeists who came to his rescue as he was about to go under for the third time, Thomas Powers, aged 17, living on Washington street, Newton Lower Falls, would doubtless have lost his life in the Charles river Tuesday afternoon.

He started to swim across the stream at a point between Riverside
and Lower Falls where years ago
there was located a boat house. When just beyond the middle of the stream,
which is wide at this place, he became exhausted and went under the surface.

When he came up he cried out for help and was heard by two young men who were paddling up the stream
a short distance away. Bending over their paddles they sent the slight craft to the side of the young man
just in time to seize him as he was about to sink for the third time. He was taken to the bank and quickly revived.

There is one point—important we believe—that most upholsterers do not emphasize. And that is—upholstering to be attractive and in perfect taste, is not necessarily expensive.

Like everything else, you can pay more and get, of course, better grades of covering.
But you can also pay a reasonable amount and get a good serviceable cloth that will be a satisfaction to you.

new things we have.

POLICE PARAGRAPHS.

—An unusual incident occurred in the police court Wednesday morning when Salvatore Lechian, 19, convicted of assault with a dangerous weapon upon Thomas Collins and given his choice of serving three months in the house of correction or paying a $75 fine, dashed across the court room and began "peeling" off $5 bills from a roll that was so large that he pulled it out of his pocket with difficulty. The incident aroused considerable amusement, and court officer Luffe was obliged to rap soundly upon his desk to restore order. Lechian was convicted of assaulting Collins in Nonantum square late Saturday night as a result of an altercation which started on an outward bound car on the Boston elevated system. It was alleged, when Lechian did not move across quickly when Collins boarded the car at Brighton, Collins was stabbed four times, and Dr. Thomas Gallagher testified that two of the wounds were serious. Collins was driven to the court house in a car.

riage. Patrolman Dow, who caught Lechian after a chase; Louis Gethro, Joseph Maher and William Spiegel were other witnesses. Collins, it was asserted, struck the first blow. "The defendant had right to use force in self defense," said Judge Kennedy, "but he was not called upon to display such force as he exhibited."

When Lechian was given his option of going to the house of correction for three months or paying a fine of $75 his counsel asked for three months' time in which to pay the fine. Lechian then rushed across the court room and began laying down $5 bills. After he had passed out 15 he stuffed the rest of the money into his pocket, smiled and walked out into the rain.

PARAGON PARK ATTRACTIONS.

The hotter it is the more popular Paragon Park becomes—and quite properly too for Paragon is nothing if not a hot weather park. The sail down the harbor to Nantasket beach is cool and delightful and puts one in a fine mood to enjoy the pleasures of Paragon. Dinner in the Palm Garden is always a delight but it is especially attractive in hot weather. The Palm Garden is open on all four sides and no matter how sultry the day a cool breeze, fresh from the sea, always sweeps across the great hall.

And the food—well the fame of Chef Hottinger's cuisine has spread so rapidly that Manager Dodge has been forced to build an addition to the Palm Garden in order to accommodate those who wish to dine there during the rush hours.

Tremont Theatre—And now it's good bye to "A Knight for a Day" so far as the long run in Boston is concerned. On Saturday evening, August 8th, the final performance of the All-Summer stay at the Tremont will be given. The musical gaiety has been so lavishly lauded in these columns that further eulogy at this late date must sound re-iterative. Certainly no musical production offered in Boston during a Summer or a regular season within the experience of today's theatre goer has approached "A Knight for a Day" in attractive qualities. Scarcely a single voice will be found to deny that it is the most laughable frolic seen in New England. Equally true is it that its score is the most melodious. What, too, could be more sensationally taking than its extravaganza features, particularly the see-saw pageant of a thousand lights, the great finale curtain with its falling star ballet divertissement. Who ever sat in an auditorium under a more irresistible tide of fun than is offered by the tumult of mishaps to Jonathan Joy, the bogus little knight, and Tilly Day, the "servant lady" who shares his joys and his troubles.

"The 25,000 Ha! Ha!" is the phrase employed by the management to describe the piece. It's all of that, having run of 607 nights in Chicago, uninterrupted; all last season in New York; all through the warm period, to date, at the Tremont, besides being in course of preparation in Australia, London and Paris. Add to this the ramification of the country, nor is east, west and south that a twin company is now making and will continue for a year or more, and the synonym of a laugh girdle of the globe is well based.

Nonantum.

Box 24 was rung in Tuesday morning for a slight fire in the house of Danette Bartlett, Watertown and West streets, the blaze being caused by an overheated flue.

—Miss Mary A. Gerrold, daughter of William Gerrold, and Paul Beaudreau, both of Nonantum, were married Monday at the parochial residence of the church of Our Lady by Rev. James F. Kelly, assistant pastor.

—Four generations were present at a birthday party for Miss Madeline O'Neil, aged 7, Sunday at the home of her grandmother Mrs. Sarah Boyle 362 Adams street. The oldest person present was Mrs. Margaret Hart, aged 91, great grandmother of the little girl. There were 36 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren present.

—The West Newton branch library which has been closed for a few days for repairs will be opened again Monday afternoon, July 27. The books have been looked over and a portion of them will not go back into the library. A collection of these may be seen at the rooms and purchased for ten cents apiece.

HIS OWN BAIT.

The Giant Alligator Snapping Turtle as a Fisherman.

There is a canny reptile fisherman which makes effective use of the bait which he carries in his own mouth. This is the alligator snapping turtle, a giant among reptiles, known to attain a maximum weight of 144 pounds, with a length of shell of about twenty-eight inches. It haunts rivers flowing into the gulf of Mexico, including the Mississippi, where it is common. In appearance and actions it is an enlarged duplicate of the common snapping turtle. Its pale brown back and webbed feet, mottled with dark spots, and its soft, muddy bottom as on which it lies motionless, angling for fish with the decoy. The bait is attached inside the lower jaw, close to the tongue, and is a well developed filament of flesh, white and distinct from the yellowish mouth part and closely resembling a large grub. While waiting the turtle keeps this grub in motion, giving it the aspect of crawling about in a small circular course. Its mud colored shell, often studded with a growth of fine, waving moss, looks like a great round stone, and close to it is a second smaller stone, the head. Close to this smaller stone crawls the plump white grub. A fish sees it and makes a natural mistake, only to be seized by a sudden snap of the powerful jaws. The jaws are remarkably powerful. The common snapper, which attains only a third of the size of his larger relative, will bite a finger clean off, and the alligator snapper could bite through a wrist or foot.—Chicago Tribune.

TRICKS OF WRITERS.

A Rule by Which Kipling Piqued His Readers' Curiosity.

"When I first began to read Kipling," said an admirer, "my curiosity was immensely piqued by the scraps of verse with which he usually headed his early stories. They were all credited to poems I had never heard of in my life and were just such salient, striking fragments as would naturally whet one's appetite for the remainder. For over a year I tried hard to locate those mysterious poems and enlisted half a dozen book dealers in the search. At last one of them wrote me that I was wasting time and that the alleged quotations were merely Mr. Kipling's little joke.

"In other words, he manufactured 'em to order and stuck them at the top of his tales for the sake of the odor of erudition they lent to the production. I was mad for a while, but when I cooled off I had a good big laugh. Of course you know Scott used to do the same thing, and so, for that matter, did Edgar Allan Poe. Poe was really the worst quotation fakir of the lot.

"He would write wise sounding detached sentences and credit them to imaginary German philosophers with long, outlandish and impressive names. However, I don't know why the thing should be punishable. The business of a writer of fiction is to create an illusion, and as long as he does it for one aim not particular what means he employs to contribute to the end."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Immigrants' Purse.

The immigrants who stream into New York all have different ways of carrying their money.

The Irish immigrant carries a canvas bag in which notes and coins are crammed together.

The German wears a money belt, gay and costly, of embroidered chainmail.

The French and Italians carry brass tubes with screw tops wherein they keep their cash in twenty franc gold pieces.

The Swede is sure to have an immense pocketbook of cowhide that has been handed down from father to son for generations.

The Slav carries their money in their high boots, along with a fork and spoon.—New York Press.

Forest of Stone in Australia.

In Albany, in Australia, is to be seen a stone forest—in other words, petrified trees. The trees are of a gray stone.

It is suggested as an explanation of the strange phenomenon that in the depths of past ages the forest was in full vegetation and then through some upheaval of the earth it was buried in sand. Little by little water acting on the sand penetrated the branches and solidified.

The wood gradually disappeared under the layer of stone and in time took its form. Then in succeeding years the winds again carried away the sand and the forest appeared anew, but of stone.—London Globe.

A Legal Thrust.

"The learned counsel for the defense," said the plaintiff's attorney, "appears to be afraid of losing his case. Otherwise why isn't he ready to go on?"

"I've got a good excuse," replied counsel for the defense.

"Nonsense! Ignorance of the law excuses no one."—Philadelphia Press.

Our National Attitude.

"That's the Goddess of Liberty," explained the New Yorker. "Fine attitude, eh?"

"Yes, and typically American," responded the western visitor. "Hanging to a strap."—Washington Herald.

The Tangible Part.

The Village Idiot discovered trespassing—'Ye'd better not hit me. D'ye know folks say I'm not a here! The Farmer—Well, come away out here, then. I'm a-goin' to give a good liding to what the' is o' ye!—London Opinion.

A close friend is one who turns you down when you want a small loan.—St. Joseph News-Press.

HUNT—RIDGWAY.

At the Hunt farm, North Whitefield, Me., Wednesday, July 15, Miss Katharine Ridgway of Spokane, Wash., and Mr. Percy Fenton Hunt of Newton, a member of the faculty of the New England Conservatory of Music, were married. The officiating clergy were the Rev. J. M. Wyman of Foxboro and the Rev. A. A. Bennett of Jefferson, Me. The ceremony was on the veranda of the farmhouse, which was decorated with ferns and the boughs of evergreen trees, and from which was had a fine view of the surrounding country. About the lawn were grouped the guests, many of whom were from neighboring farms, as well as from more distant places. As the wedding party appeared the Eliot quartet from the Eliot church, Newton, of which Mr. Hunt formerly was a member, sang the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin." The bride wore an empire gown of crepe de Chine, with princess lace, and carried a shower bouquet of white California poppies. She was attended by Miss Esther Macomber of Spokane, Wash., a college mate, who wore pink silk mull, trimmed with lace, and carried pond lilies. Mr. Hunt's best man was Mr. George S. Dunham of Brockton. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hunt received their guests on the veranda.

CATON—WILSON

The marriage of Miss Sarah Louise Wilson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Fred Wilson of Pleasant street, Newton Centre to Mr. John Hirst Caton of Edgewood, R. I. took place last Saturday noon at Hanover, Mass. in the presence of only the parents of the young couple. Rev. Marcus Carroll, rector of St. Andrew's church of that town performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Caton will sail from Seattle on the Japanese steamer Kaga Maru on August 4 for Manila, P. I., where Mr. Caton a graduate of the Mass. Institute of Technology, will take up his duties as a civil engineer for the government.

Miss Minnie A. Taylor has just been re-elected town clerk of South Londonderry, Vt. for the thirteenth time. This office has been almost hereditary in her family. Her father and grandfather held it before her, and she has already served in it for twelve successive terms.

Emotional Politics.

The National Republican Convention shouted for Roosevelt for 45 minutes, and the National Democratic Convention shouted for Bryan for an hour and a half. The woman suffragists are now saying that if the club women, or the D. A. R. or any other body of women had behaved in that way over the election of their president, it would have been pointed at on all sides as a proof that women were too emotional to be trusted with a vote.

Women Suffrage Wide Spread.

The States and countries where women have the ballot cover an area larger than that of Great Britain, France, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Holland, Belgium, the German Empire, the Austrian Empire and European Russia, put together. At the meeting of the International Women Suffrage Alliance in Amsterdam the other day, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt pointed out that women suffrage now prevails over more than one fifteenth of the whole surface of the globe.

Mrs. Asquith's Adventure.

It is interesting to read that, during the late demonstration around the House of Commons, Mrs. Asquith and Miss Asquith were taken for suffragettes, and were so roughly handled by the police that they had to make their identity known, in self-defense. The suffragists have all along declared that they are often arrested and roughly treated when they have really done nothing to deserve it; and this mishap of the Asquith ladies goes far to prove it. For no one can suppose that the Prime Minister's wife and daughter were guilty of disorderly behavior.

GLOUCESTER-WARDS EVERY MORNING.

The renewed chance this season of going to beautiful and picturesque Cape Ann by the commodious steamers of the Gloucester line, starting from the north side of Central wharf, foot of State street elevated stairway, daily and Sunday mornings, is being taken by many hundreds of people who never took the trip before. The fine, newly furnished steel steamer Cape Ann is a model of convenience and safety in passenger service. There is good music aboard, and enough time is given in the quaint old fishing port of Gloucester to see many of the unusual sights of the place. Starting time Sundays is at 10.15, but on week days it is at 10 o'clock sharp.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular drug printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

This does not mean that you are compelled to take your prescription to the druggist whose name appears on the paper.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

THEATRES

Boston Theatre—Every week new and more startling announcements are being made in connection with the midsummer vaudeville festival at the Boston Theatre, which now opens at twelve o'clock noon, and runs until 10.30 at night, giving two great shows of five and a half hours, something never before attempted. In addition to the splendid bills, including the Romany Opera Company, free orchestral concerts have been inaugurated under the direction of Charles L'Orange, in the Washington street lobby of the theatre. For the week of July 20th, the Romany Opera Company will present gems from the opera "Martha," with two sets of principals. Owing to the fact that it contains so many splendid solos and chorus numbers, this will be one of the best features of the season. On this occasion there will be something new in the vaudeville line, presented by Katharin Nelson and Elizabeth Otto, who have a beautifully dressed act, presenting songs and character changes and Miss Otto's splendid piano solos. Fred St. Onge, the champion bicyclist, will appear with a new company and do an entirely new act of trick bicycle riding. Others on the bill will be Wynn and Lewis, the college boys, Curtemell and Harris in a singing and dancing act, Sullivan-Pasquella Company in a new act called "The C. O. D. Package," Leon Dorodetzky, the Boston violinist; La Rose and La Gusta, Zanc, the magician and others.

NEW ENGLAND FOOD FAIR.

The same generous policies which were inaugurated last Fall by Messrs. Green and Rowe, the managers of the New England Food Fair for the Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers association, will be continued this year. In taking charge of last year's food fair Messrs. Green and Rowe began by doing away with the old system of extra charges for the various attractions which made up the fair. Last year patrons of Mechanics Building could see and hear everything for the one price of admission. The catch-penny devices and schemes which had disgraced many of the food fairs of the past were also abolished and they are gone for good.

The exhibition proper was last year the greatest ever shown in Mechanics Building. This year the management announces that not only will the display of food stuffs and house furnishings surpass any ever shown in Mechanics Building, but that the Mexican government will send a $50,000 exhibit of the resources and industries of the nation. This will cover 14,000 square feet of space, including the stage of Grand Hall and will be the largest industrial exhibit ever sent by any foreign nation to any exposition ever held in the United States—not even excepting world's fairs. President Diaz, of Mexico, has requested that every one of the nation's twenty-two states shall send an exhibit. In order to accommodate this huge display over half of the seats will have to be removed from the first balcony of Grand Hall.

NEW NAUTICAL TRAINING SHIP.

The Commissioners of the Massachusetts Nautical Training School desire to announce that the Secretary of the Navy, acting under authority of Congress, has loaned the U. S. S. Ranger to the State of Massachusetts for service as a training ship, replacing the U. S. S. Enterprise. The Ranger, which is expected to arrive in Boston from the Philippine Islands about October 1, 1908, is an iron gunboat of about 1,300 tons, bark rigged, and is well adapted for the work of the school.

With the new equipment which is soon to be acquired, the Commissioners will be in a position to offer greater advantages to young men desiring to fit themselves for the sea than for many years. It is intended to adopt an extended itinerary for the next cruise, making it especially interesting and profitable to the cadets; the cruise will probably include visits to African or South American ports.

The school has been successfully maintained on board the U. S. S. Enterprise for the past fifteen years, during which time about 1,200 young men have been educated for positions on board merchant vessels. Some of the best officers in our merchant marine have been educated on board the Enterprise. The school is producing a corps of officers in whom the state and the nation may well take pride, as worthy successors of the skilled and courageous American seamen of fifty years ago.

The student who enters the school with the earnest purpose of making the best of his opportunities will, at the end of two years, be proficient in the work of a deck or engineer officer and capable of commanding a good salary.

An examination of candidates for admission to the school will be held in October next. Applications and information regarding the school can be obtained by addressing Commissioners, Massachusetts Nautical Training School, State House, Boston.

GARDEN PARTY AT THE SHORE.

Last week was one of the red letter days at Buzzard's Bay, as being marked with perfect weather and a most enjoyable garden party, with Mr. and Mrs. Loring Q. White as the host and hostess. Mrs. White is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Q. A. Whittemore of Hunnewell hill and among the many guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Whittemore, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whittemore of Mt. Ida, Mr. and Mrs. David Whittemore, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ransom, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Whittemore and Miss Beale Whittemore.

The company began to gather about 2.30 and from then until 5 o'clock autos and carriages were passing through the beautiful gates and driveway, filled with invited guests, until they numbered in the vicinity of a hundred.

They were cordially received by Mr. and Mrs. White and given the freedom of the house and grounds. The latter were artistically decorated with Japanese lanterns and parasols. The house itself was a bower of beauty with its handsome furnishings and a profuse display of cut flowers and ferns.

Among the attractions was an old-fashioned garden, crowded with the flowers our grandmothers loved. A duck pond claimed attention, with its rare collection of ducks and ducklings. A conservatory with a profusion of blossoms and arbors, and the mounds of vines and flowers on the velvet lawn, made an attractive picture.

An orchestra made continuous music, while in a section of the grounds games were provided, many availing themselves of the opportunity to take a hand at tennis or croquet. Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. A. Whittemore's beautiful home adjoining was hospitably thrown open to the visitors.

A delectable summer lunch was served by a caterer on small tables on the broad verandas.

Some elaborate summer gowns were worn by the ladies, embellished with embroidery and lace, with rare jewels, white being the predominating color. It was a gathering characterized by informal sociability and was keenly enjoyed by all who took part.

CLAPLIN GUARD NOTES.

The new rifle range was officially opened last Saturday afternoon by Capt. George F. Guilford. Capt. Guilford fired the first shot finishing out his string of five shots, and was followed by Lieut. Coulter who scored a "bull's eye" on his first shot thereby winning one honor on the opening day. Sergt. Regan, Kerr, Greene and many other members of the company then fired their initial string of 5 shots and it was well along in the evening when the members started home, proud and happy over the fact that they actually had a range of their own to work on and not only that but they had built it themselves, and although not finished as yet, as a 500 yard range has to go in, still the qualifications in the 200 and 300 yard ranges can be commenced on.

Sergt. Regan expected to smoke good cigars for a week or more on Lieut. Coulter as a result of the shoot Saturday, but as the score stood a tie on two strings, he will still smoke a pipe until further notice.

The Reg't. Surgeon, Major Keene was at the Armory Monday night examining recruits, he also examined and passed for re-enlistment Corp. Howard Reynolds and Corp. Geo. W. Young. After the examination he gave a talk on Camp Sanitation and Hygiene, instructing the men in regard to taking care of themselves at camp.

The company was taken in a school of Guard Duty during the latter part of dull hours by Lieut. Coulter, who impressed upon them the serious side of being on the alert and tending to business every minute of the hour.

A council of officers will be held at South Armory, Boston on Friday evening, July 24, at 8.15.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by James H. Nickerson to the Newton Savings Bank, dated September 22d., 1906, and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 3186, Page 547, for breach of the conditions therein contained and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction, in the several premises hereinafter described on Monday, the tenth day of August, A.D. 1908, at the times respectively hereinafter stated, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:

At fifteen minutes after three o'clock in the afternoon on said day, all that lot of land with the buildings thereon, being the first parcel described in said mortgage, situated in that part of Newton in the County of Middlesex, and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, called Auburndale, and bounded and described as follows:—viz: Beginning at a point on the Western side of Lexington Street, by land now or formerly of Cazmay, and thence running Westward by said land now or formerly of Cazmay and land now or late of Fullerton about One hundred and forty (140) feet; thence running Southward by Freeman Street Two hundred twenty-eight (228) feet; thence Easterly by the curve forming the junction of said Freeman and Lexington Streets with a radius of Twelve and one-half (12 1/2) feet, thence Northwesterly by said Lexington Street about Two hundred (200) feet to the point of beginning.

Containing 16,500 square feet, including also a strip of land 1-1/4 feet wide on the Western side of said premises, discontinued as a part of Freeman St. Excepting, however, so much of said premises, as may have been taken by the City of Newton for street purposes.

At four o'clock in the afternoon on said day, a certain parcel of land, being the second parcel described in said mortgage, situated in that part of said Newton called Boston Highlands, and bounded as follows, viz: Easterly by Hyde Street, One hundred (100) feet; Northerly by land now or formerly of Fewkes and land now or formerly of Milliken One hundred fifty-three (153) feet; Easterly by land now or formerly of Milliken One hundred one and 5-10 (101 1/2) feet; and Southerly by land now or formerly of Milliken One hundred and seventy (170) feet. Containing 16,150 square feet.

Said first parcel being the same described in the deed from Charles A. and Martha C. Miner to said James H. Nickerson, dated June 13, 1902, duly recorded in Book 3382, Page 336; and for title to said second parcel reference is made to a deed by Henry W. and Ida D. Mason to said Nickerson dated Sept. 9, 1904, duly recorded in Book 3131, Page 28.

Any premises will be sold subject to any unpaid taxes and assessments, $300, to be paid on each lot at time and place of sale.

CITY POINT

The attractions of this nearby pleasure resort and cooling-off place are unknown to, or unappreciated by, a surprisingly large portion of the residents of the metropolitan district.

Here may be found cooling sea breezes, a delightful bathing beach, boating, yachting, stretches of green grass to which the public has access, and Castle Island, which may be reached by bridge or boat. There are also abundant facilities for refreshment and recreation.

City Point is a well-conducted, orderly resort under the management of the Park Commissioners. The long pier, jutting into the harbor, the extensive ocean view, the attractive headhouse, the beautiful plantations of trees and shrubs, the delightful walks and boulevard and Fort Independence, Castle Island, to which the public is now admitted, render this reservation the most picturesque, as well as one of the most extensive public marine parks on the Atlantic Sea-coast.

City Point cars may be taken at many points, such as Cambridge, Roxbury, Dorchester, Back Bay, Charlestown, Washington Street, Park Square, Copley Square, North Station, South Station and Dover Street. City Point may also be reached by transfer from all other cars of the system. It is but a little over two miles from the center of the city.

MUNICIPAL WHEELS

How the Affairs of the City are Run at City Hall

The Office of City Clerk Has a Wide Range of Important Duties.

Possibly the best known of all our city officials is the city clerk. For, to this office, more than to any other in City Hall, is the average citizen referred, for information or assistance.

The office touches him at many and widely separated points. It touches his business interests in the many forms of licenses issued thru the board of aldermen, and thru its records of mortgages of personal property, assignment of wages, and married women's business certificates. It touches his life as a citizen in its registration of voters and enrolment of candidates for various offices; and it touches his person of his family in its records of births, deaths, marriages and permits to marry.

From the earliest colonial days, the position of clerk or "clerk" of the town has been one of constantly increasing importance, and upon the accuracy and thoroughness of its work, the future, as well as the present have a deep and abiding interest.

Today, the office of the city clerk is the main spring of present municipal legislation, and holds the key to all of the past.

The City Clerk of Newton is elected by voice vote of the board of aldermen and holds office for three years. He appoints an assistant city clerk, and the office force also includes a stenographer and a clerk.

The city clerk is a state and county, as well as a municipal officer. As a state official he obtains and records the vital statistics of the community, acts as a member of the board of registrars of voters and has charge of the very important work of preparing for the primaries and regular elections. As a county officer, he collects the fees for dog licenses and transmits them to the county treasurer.

The recording of the doings of the board of aldermen may, perhaps, be considered his most important duty, and includes personal attendance at all meetings, with oversight of the recording and indexing. This work requires parliamentary knowledge as well as experience and skill. A great deal of correspondence also ensues in notifying the various city officials and citizens of the acts of the board.

The indexing of aldermanic records is work which requires special care and attention. With papers, increasing at the rate of 1200 a year and a total number now on hand of 33,336 it can readily be seen that the indexer must use a most comprehensive system with care and brains.

In the spring the office is busy with the license question which covers various kinds of business and pleasure. The city clerk obtains the applications, transmits them to the board of aldermen and issues those granted by that body on payment of the statutory fee. Dog licenses however, are issued directly by the city clerk, and these fees are turned over semi-annually to the County Treasurer. About 1750 dogs were licensed in 1907 and about $4200 was received from that source. The pro rata share of this money is returned to the city once a year by the county officials, after approved claims from injuries done by dogs in the entire county are deducted. This receipt is required by law to be applied to either the school or library appropriation. In this city it is a credit to the school department.

Mortgages of personal property, including assignments and discharges, the assignment of wages, and other minor matters are required by law to be recorded and indexed by the city clerk. This work requires careful comparisons with the originals and calls for experience, legibility and conscientious execution. The fees for recording papers, and for licenses, including 20 cents for each dog license are turned over monthly to the city treasurer.

The city clerk also has charge of such minor duties as the disbursement of the Soldiers' Relief, granted by the Board of Aldermen; of the burial of deceased soldiers and the printing of the city documents.

The recording of births, marriages, intentions of marriage and deaths is a most important feature of the office. The births are usually obtained by a house to house canvass of the entire city, superintended by the city clerk, and by returns from physicians and midwives. The number so obtained in 1907 was 841. These returns are carefully recorded and indexed. Intentions of marriage are usually filed by one of the interested parties, and are entered in a book of records and indexed. The certificate given the applicant is returned to the office after the ceremony, and is filed and indexed.

This certificate is the basis for the book of records of marriages, also indexed. A return of deaths is received each month from the health department, filed and indexed, and also recorded in the book of deaths.

All of these records are indexed by the card system, from which it is possible to obtain the book and page of every such occurrence in the town and city from 1683 to the present time.

This index contains over 60,000 cards at the present time and increases at the rate of about 2100 per year.

Copies of all records of births, marriages and deaths are required to be made each year and filed at the State House.

As a member and clerk of the board of registrars of voters, the city clerk has important and arduous duties. In the early summer, lists of assessed polls are received from the Assessors, and carefully compared with the existing voting list. The names of all deceased persons, and of those who are not assessed for the current year, are stricken from the voting list, and transfers made of the names of those persons who have moved from one precinct to another.

This revised list is then posted and is the basis for the work of the current year. Meetings for registration are held prior to the state primary elections, and in every village of the city prior to the regular state election. Meetings are also held before the municipal primary and regular elections. At these meetings would-be voters are examined as to their ability to write their own name, and to read printed slips of the state constitution drawn by lot from a revolving reel. The objection of any one of the four registrars (two Republicans and two Democrats) is sufficient to prevent a name being placed on the voting list. Registration closes at a certain time specified by law, and the care and accuracy of printing the voting lists to be used at the election, are incumbent on the city clerk. At the municipal election he is also called upon to receive and examine certificates of nomination and nomination papers for city candidates, and to prepare ballots for the primary and regular elections.

It is a task of no small proportions, to arrange for the state and city elections, Newton has 15 voting precincts, with 12 officers to each precinct, divided between Republicans and Democrats. The city clerk must provide suitable quarters for the elections; he must see that it is well lighted and heated, as the counting of ballots often extends well into the night; and he must provide the necessary ballot boxes, the voting stalls, the blank forms of returns for the precinct officers, plus pencils, sealing wax, etc. After the election this equipment must also be stored until the next election.

It is needless to add that all this responsibility is a great burden, as the omission of a single name from the voting list, or the failure to provide the utmost convenience to every voter at the polls, will be followed by a storm of protest. It is greatly to the credit of our excellent city clerk that these occasions are extremely rare.

The registrars of voters are also called upon each year to prepare a list of citizens liable for jury duty. Recent legislation on this line has tended to make this an onerous task with heavy penalties to anyone who attempts to influence the board in this duty. Our registrars make the jury list as follows: The city is entitled to 368 persons liable for service. This number is apportioned to each precinct in proportion to the number of voters in each. The voting list of their precinct is then examined, the names of all persons over the legal age, of those who have served on a jury within 3 years, and ministers, lawyers, members of the militia, and other persons exempt by law are stricken off. The remaining names are then carefully scrutinized and any, who in the judgment of the registrars, would not make fit jurors are also eliminated. The list is then placed in a box and names drawn out one by one until the quota of that precinct has been filled. The same process is repeated in each of the 15 precincts and the jury list is then ready for action.

The present city clerk of Newton, Isaac Franklin Kingsbury, has filled that office for the past 25 years, and is the third person to hold the position in this city. He is a native of Newton and gallantly served on its quota during the civil war. He had served the town, city and state in various positions before his election as city clerk in 1883, and brought to that office a thorough knowledge of systematized office work, the results of which have given the city more than a local reputation.

BAD PRACTISE

The following article is from the pen of Representative John E. Clarey, editor of the Great Barrington Courier.

The business of the Massachusetts legislature could be easily done in three months, but it never will be. The State House is located wrongly to offer any other prospect. If it could be moved to Bonney-Rig Corners, so that nine-tenths of the members would have to be away from their homes and business five days a week, a reform could be brought about. But so long as three-fourths of them can go home every night, the situation may as well be accepted philosophically as one that is to continue.

Does our Commonwealth get full return for the cost of the long annual sessions of the great and general court? I do not believe so, and yet there is some advantage in the holding of annual sessions. Dr. David R. Dewey, the dean of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and quite an authority on political economics, lately remarked to me that he believed that much good came from the Massachusetts habit of keeping things more or less stirred up. Dr. Dewey has practical ideas, although he is far from being a politician. To my mind, however, some more improved method of pushing reforms in state management must be devised or our annual legislative sessions will become a financially burdensome nuisance.

During the first few weeks of the session a few million dollars were voted as easily as a child might blow soap bubbles. No attention was given then to the sums voted except by the ways and means committee. Not an eye or no vote was cast. The speaker of the House would say in a monotonous tone, "All in favor say aye; all opposed, no; the ayes have it." The ways and means committee of both houses are composed of conscientious men of ability, and they were supposed to have carefully considered the merits of each appropriation, but they lacked the time for thoroughly doing so. The nearly 300 other members gave very little attention to the appropriations. The sessions were short. The adjournment of the day frequently followed a half-hour's sitting, during which perhaps a million dollars was appropriated, although practically not a representative or a senator was aware of the fact, they being engaged in conversation, writing or some other diversion. As said in one of my earlier letters, a suggestion from any one that things were being done in a reckless manner would have made that individual a marked man.

Matters of great importance ought not to be thus disposed of, but for one, and especially for a new member, to try to change the manner of doing things, would be about as effective as butting one's head against a stone wall.

In a letter to the Springfield Republican, written just after reaching Boston, I suggested that, aside from expenses so fixed and regular as to be absolutely necessary, not a dollar ought to be appropriated until all the suggested appropriations had been considered by the ways and means committee. The legislature would then be called upon to consider a complete schedule of recommendations. If such a method was in vogue the legislators would know before voting a single dollar the total amount that they would be asked to vote. Each purpose for which money was called for could then be considered, not only on its own merits but in connection with the various other proposed expenditures. By the present method unnecessary appropriations go through easily early in the session while good ones may suffer later on, as the members begin to be staggered by the magnitude of the total of the sums already voted.

Although burdened with departments and commissions, and in recent years with recess legislative committees, Massachusetts is not possessed as it should be of any particular body of limited number but large latitude entrusted with the duty of carefully noting the state's needs and suggesting the best methods of providing for them. Each recess committee is supposed to study some particular subject, and occasionally it does so in a way to insure a very thorough covering of the subject, but usually the committee's composition is such that if thorough work is done it is done by one, two or three of the members, and the final outcome is uncertain.

Last year the legislature had a recess committee on labor. I doubt if very many of the members did any work until the time grew near for a report to be presented to the general court. Then they all go busy, but delay after delay had to be asked for the presentation of the report. It was far from an agreed one when it finally came to the legislature. And hardly any proposition then made by the committee met with the approval of the House and Senate. The results of the last recess committee on insurance met with similar favor. The recess committee on taxation did conscientious work, but some of its very best recommendations were turned down. The salaries and expenses of each committee amounted to about $15,000. If there was a little central council, which could and would take into account all such matters, it could do more work than all the committees together at less than one-fourth the cost.

THE CAT

A Bird Killer and Disease Carrier.

"The cat is a good mousetrap and then it is easy to set," so wrote Robert B. Thomas in his old Farmer's Almanac many years ago. He might have said that the cat is also a good bird trap; evidently he recognized the fact for he gives elsewhere a plan to cure the cat of the habit of killing birds, tie the bird underneath her neck and leave it there until it drops to pieces. This so mortifies the cat that she will never touch a bird again. It has been known to succeed where whipping and all other measures have failed.

Now is the time when cats are most destructive to birds. In this hot weather when birds are often found at their drinking and bathing places, and when the young are learning to fly, the cats reap their greatest harvest of the year.

Edward Howe Forbush, the State Ornithologist who is investigating the alleged killing of birds by the spraying of trees finds the telltale claw marks of cats on some of the dead birds sent to him. Others were killed by flying against the numerous telegraph, electric or trolley wires. Poison has been found thus far in the stomach of but one bird. A mature cat, with the bird killing habit, ranging over a good hunting ground, will kill about fifty birds a year, old and young. Consider the hundreds of thousands of cats at liberty to range over the country. No wonder that birds do not increase.

In 1905 the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, killed 53,983 neglected cats in New York City alone, and for the nine years prior to that 468,065 were killed there by this Society.

According to Dr. C. A. Osborne of Clark University cats carry the infection of cholera, plague, diphtheria, tuberculosis and small pox, transmitting fatal diseases particularly among children who fondle cats. Cats are subject to scabies, ringworm and internal parasites, and are often infected with fleas, all of which they bring into our homes among our children. The number of cats should be regulated and their liberty restricted in the interests of bird protection and the public health.

Everybody's klickin',

What is the use worrying over the "good old times"? Our times will soon be the best of any we ever had. Johnny: "Does the hen sit or set?" Ma: "I don't know or care, but when she cackles I want to know whether she's laying or lying."

A Chain and Its Links

In telephoning there are three links in the chain that constitutes "good service": 1. The person calling. 2. The operator. 3. The person called.

No matter how much any one or any two of these links do to develop good service, the result is determined by the measure of co-operation of the third. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link.

If the person calling fails to consult the catalogue and gives a wrong number, the operator inevitably repeats the error. If the person called fails to answer promptly and the caller leaves the telephone, naturally "there is no one on the line."

Being human, the operator—the third link—is liable to err occasionally, but careful analysis demonstrates that she is not fairly chargeable with many of the difficulties frequently ascribed to her.

If Link No. 1 Gives the Right Number and Calls Distinctly, and Link No. 3 Answers Promptly, the Telephone Company will be responsible for its part of the chain. If no higher motive actuated it, the motive of economy, or self-interest, would suffice.

From any Pay Station you can speak to any one of 300,000 telephones in the territory of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Even if he is not a subscriber, you can arrange to have the person desired called to a Pay Station to talk to you.

—Mr. W. Henry Chalmers of Evergreen avenue, who is a member of the Metropolitan Park police force, is considered one of the most efficient men in that body. He is called upon many times a week to save human life, as numerous canals are capsize and in a large number of cases are unable to swim.

Fined $15 for Peddling Tickets.

An unusual case was heard in the police court Saturday when Albert Keefe, 42, living in Cambridge, who said he was a Boston business man, was charged with peddling without a license by selling railroad tickets in this city.

He made a novel defence, asserting that as a large number of the tickets he had offered for sale were "book tickets" he was therefore a book agent and that no license was required for that vocation.

Keefe said that he made a practice of buying up tickets from pawn brokers and selling them. He was arrested in a store in West Newton by patrolman W. H. Dolan. He had about 150 single tickets and about as many commutation tickets. The court called attention to the fact that some of them had not been stamped.

Keefe put up a long argument, asserting that no city ordinance could reach him.

"Are you the man who made complaint to Ex-Gov. Bates and Ex-Gov. Douglas of the general inefficiency of the Somerville police department?" asked Chief Mitchell. "I do not see how that is material," he replied. The defendant said he had been in the produce business at 115 Fulton street, Boston.

A fine of $15 was imposed. He appealed and was ordered held in $200. He asked the court to make the bail $200 cash, but when this was refused he withdrew the appeal and paid the fine.

POLICE PARAGRAPHS.

Oscar Fredericksen, William E. Stratton, Joseph Metcalf, and Gustaf Hendberg, the Cambridge young men who were arrested as alleged vagrants here, the police having become suspicious of a quantity of camping equipment which they carried, were discharged in the police court.

"Please make the case short, your honor: I want to go home and do my washing." This was the unusual request which Mrs. Mary Boyle, 35, living on Maple terrace made to Judge Kennedy, in the police court Monday morning when arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct in Nonantum square Saturday night. A policeman testified that the alleged offence occurred while she was waiting all night in the square for her husband. Other testimony led the court to order the woman examined by doctors and as a result she was committed to an insane hospital. "A Yankee on the hill said the way would soon be clear," she said.

Cheery fathers and mothers make happy boys and girls.

BIG TREES.

The Cloud Piercing Sequoias of Northern California.

The sequoia in Humboldt is the tallest tree in the whole United States. But the tourist from the east or west knows it not. What would he say to the information that in the northwest of California grows a mighty continuous forest of these great trees and that it takes days to travel merely from end to end of that forest, which is longer than the distance from Boston to New York or from Chicago to St. Louis. Yet such is the case.

On the ridges and flats of Humboldt is the forest, and in that forest the trees grow to twenty-six feet in diameter and tower 400 feet toward the sky. Do you know what those figures mean? Measure the room in which you are now sitting. If it is a very large room, the longest dimensions would just about contain one of these great trunks. Look out of your window and see the people more than a city block away. That is the distance from which one sees the topmost bough of these stupendous giants.

The redwood of California is the great tree of the Pacific coast. Two thousand acres of it exist in Oregon along the Chetco river. South of the Chetco a continuous redwood belt begins and increases in width from ten miles at Del Norte county to eighteen or twenty miles and keeps on unbroken to southern Humboldt county. Here is a gap, but in Mendocino the belt becomes dense again and widens out to thirty-five miles. South of that county the tree grows in isolated patches.—Humboldt Standard.

THE MIGHTY LION.

It is Easy Enough to Scare Him if You Know Just How.

If a lion or a tiger suddenly appears before you, just hold a chair out in front of him, and he won't do a thing. Allen Williams, who, in the course of his experience with wild animals has been in that predicament often enough to know, says: "These creatures have a much more limited intelligence than is generally supposed. They can take in only one thing at a time, and the four legs of a chair would keep any lion busy thinking for a long time."

"That is the reason why animal trainers carry two whips when they are in the circus ring. One for cracking and aving the performers, the other for emergencies. If one of the lions tries to attack him the trainer simply holds the reserve whip in front of him. The two objects together are too much for the lion's intelligence, and he is immediately subdued."

Another proof of the limited intelligence of the cat tribe, say trainers, is the fact that their performances must always come in the same order of succession. If by some accident the order is broken, the animals are completely lost, and the trainers are few who can keep them in submission once they become confused. In fact, most trainers consider themselves lucky in a case of this sort if they can get the lions quietly back into their cages.

The whole cat family, moreover, is as treacherous as it is stupid.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Amount of Rainfall Over the Earth.

The discussion of observations on rainfall made first by Sir John Murray and later by Bruckner and Fritzsche permits an estimation to be made of the mean rainfall on continents, which is found to be about thirty inches per year. The rainfall on the ocean is more difficult to measure, but it has been estimated by Supan, and Fritzsche, taking account of all the known facts, estimates the mean annual rainfall for the entire surface of the earth at about thirty-six inches. Making use of this number, it is easy to calculate that the total rainfall amounts to 464 million millions of metric tons per year, 1,272 thousand millions of tons per day, 53,000 millions of tons per hour, 883,000,000 tons per minute or 15,000,000 tons per second.—Scientific American.

Simple Method of Cooking Cabbage.

The simplest and quickest methods of cooking cabbage are the best. Cabbage must be trimmed and well washed in cold, salted water, then cut into quarters and tied together again with a string before going into the saucepan, because the heart is more tender than the outside and uniform softness is desired. Have plenty of boiling water with a heaping tablespoonful of salt to the half gallon of water. Let it be boiling when the cabbage is put in and cook it with the lid off, and if it be fresh it will keep a good color. The time depends more upon the age than the size—from twenty to forty minutes.—Delineator.

A Crab Habit.

Catch a fresh crab, wash the end of one of its claws and watch with what fierce wrath it will tear off the mutilated member. Is it pride that causes him to do this bit of surgical work, or is he afraid of blood poisoning, or is it because the maimed claw might obstruct his speed or entangle him in the submarine botany? The crab is an interesting creature and, like his big cousin, the lobster, is as scrappy as a game bantam, often losing a limb in a scuffle.—Exchange.

His Society.

The west side woman observed an old ducky in violent altercation with the driver of a cart.

"What is the matter?" she asked. "I done tell 'im he cya't 'buse dat zavse," said uncle excitedly, "an' he say it none of 'my business an' I done tell 'im I've a member ob de human belt' society."—New York Press.

BRAY ESTATE INVENTORY.

Y. M. C. A.

An inventory of the estate of the late Mellen Bray of Newton, president of the Tubular Rivet Company, has been filed at the probate office, East Cambridge. It amounts to $1,361,000. 21 in personal and $228,500 in real estate. The appraisers of the estate are Roger S. Warner, Frank L. Richardson and George E. Stout.

The real estate, with the exception of two parcels in Wareham, is all located in Newton, the largest two individual pieces being a block and annex on Institution avenue and Union street, Newton, valued at $65,000 and an apartment, not yet finished, on Institution avenue, and land, valued at $50,000.

The executors who filed the report are Mellen N. and William C. Bray, sons of the testator, and Joseph B. Warner.

The will was filed some weeks ago, and is looked upon as one of the most peculiar ever filed in Middlesex County. After giving to his widow, children and relatives large amounts and trusts, he left over a million dollars in trust with his trustees to do with much as they see fit, any portion they may desire to go to charity.

Mrs. Bray has already filed a waiver of the provisions of the will and asked that she be allotted her widow's portion under the statutes, as if her husband had died intestate.

A hearing will be held on this waiver in the fall.

On Saturday Aug. 1 the Guard will take part in a Battalion Drill in Outpost work to be held at Waltham in the afternoon of that date. Co's F. H. C. and B.

Work is still progressing on the new range, the 200 and 300 yd ranges are now in operation and Capt. Gullford expects to have the 500 yd target in position shortly.

Last Monday night for drill the Guard had actual instruction, in Advance Guard and Outpost by Company. On leaving the Army Advance Guard was formed and maintained until Cabot Park was reached, here outposts were thrown out. Capt. Gullford and his two Lieutenants then instructed the men in their positions and the reason for maintaining them.

A school for non-commissioned officers will be held on Friday evening July 31. Advance Guard and Outpost by Battalion will be taken up. Lieut. Coulter will give the instructions.

"MUSTERED OUT."

Another veteran of the 32d Regt., Infy Mass. Vols. "mustered out," Captain Stephen Rich of Company "D" died at his home in Gloucester, Mass. Friday morning, July 24, 1908, at the age of 73 years, 7 months, 15 days.

He entered the service in Co. "G" 5th Regt. Mass. Vol. Militia under the first call of President Lincoln for troops and reported with his company on Boston Common, April 16. He was mustered in April 30, as First Sergeant. On arrival in Washington he was elected a Second Lieutenant but preferred the position of First Sergeant. At the close of the three months' service he recruited Co. D for three years' term, and upon reaching the front was made First Lieutenant, and afterward Captain. Conspicuous for bravery, adapted for the command of men without the frictions so incident to the military service, because of his strict adherence to the overlying rules of the army, and fair dealing with every member of his command, he was a soldier to be trusted under most trying circumstances.

The engagements in which he participated were Malvern Hill, second Bull Run, Antietam, Blackburn's Ford, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Brostol Station, New Hope Church, Mine Run, the Wilderness, Todd's Tavern, Laurel Hill, Spottsylvania Court House, Shady Grove, Gettysburg Church Suffolk Railroad, Jerusalem Plank Road Petersburg, Weldon Railroad, Poplar Grove Church, Capt. Rich seemed to bear a charmed life, in all these severe battles never being wounded though his sword and other accoutrements were struck with bullets. At Gettysburg in the wheat field where the Regiment suffered heavily, his company on the left of the Command was spared by the conformation of the ground, not a man being seriously harmed, the shots of the enemy passing over them. At Laurel Hill, May 12, 1864 he held his company most gallantly in a charge on the works of the enemy.

After the war the love of military service brought him to the command of a company of the Volunteer Militia. In 1879 and 1880 he was a member of the General Court. The chapter of his life is closed, but the love he bore to his comrades and they to him can never die. The record he has made for devoted patriotic service, like thousands of others, will live for all time, as an inspiration to those who may yet be needed for the defence of country and right.

Settled Out Of Court.

By J. LUDLUM LEE

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Judge Sanford was hearing a case in the — municipal court. The witness in the chair had just been sworn in, giving her full name as Lida Graves. Russell Roe, counsel for the plaintiff, and an old friend of the Graves family, had asked her to tell just what she had seen regarding the accident when Mr. Brown had been run down by a large red touring car some two months before. He asked a few direct questions and then turned her over to the lawyer for the other side.

Hugo Holland, counsel for the owner of the automobile, hesitated about putting this lovely girl on the rack of cross examination, and when her green eyes looked helplessly into his he almost felt the case was lost.

"What did you say your name was?" asked Holland, frowning about for a leading question.

"Lida Graves," replied the witness.

"What do you do for a livelihood?" followed up Holland.

Lida turned to the kindly faced judge as if for explanation, and over his face came a sinister smile.

"He means are you a working woman?" explained the judge. Then, turning to Holland, he scowled and continued: "I wish the counsel would stop this tomfoolery and ask questions pertaining to the case. Miss Graves is a lady of leisure—a blind man could see that. Come, come," and he rapped the desk with his gavel.

"You take an oath, do you, that the chauffeur did not sound the horn?" said Holland.

"Yes," answered the witness.

"You swear to that, do you?" reiterated the lawyer.

"How many times do you want the witness to repeat that statement?" interposed Roe for the other side.

This started a warfare of objections and exceptions. The two lawyers and the judge became involved in legal technicalities. Holland asking one question and Roe objecting, the judge seemingly sustaining all objections.

The lawyers indulged in personalities and the judge pounded for order. Quiet again reigned in the courtroom.

"From the evidence before me, I render a verdict in favor of Mr. Brown, the plaintiff, for $1,000. The court will take a recess until 2 o'clock," announced the judge.

Half an hour later Lida Graves and her maid entered a fashionable restaurant, secured a table in a cool corner of the room and ordered a light luncheon. She had come into town at the earnest plea of old Mr. Brown, whom she had seen injured by the touring car and had testified in his behalf.

Sipping her iced tea, she glanced about the room and, to her surprise, at a nearby table saw the two lawyers who half an hour ago had been so personal in their remarks to each other.

The "plumbeaded idiot" and the "lantern jawed attorney" had evidently decided to bury their differences in a friendly meal. Mr. Roe caught her eye and in a few moments came up to her table.

"May I bring my friend Mr. Holland over to meet you under more favorable circumstances?" he asked.

"You may not," answered Lida with some spirit. "That man is a brute. Why, Mr. Roe, he accused me of—well, of actually telling an untruth on the stand."

"Oh, well, that's all in the business, you know, Miss Lida," soothed Roe. "He was paid to do that."

"What do you mean—a man receives money to accuse a woman of?"

Roe saw that his arguments were futile and returned to his friend. Lida finished her luncheon and took the train for Linden Beach, where the Graves family was spending the summer at a fashionable hotel.

Strolling around the broad piazzas the following Sunday morning she met face to face the two lawyers, and it was inevitable that she must meet the brutal Mr. Holland. Despite her aversion to the man who had crossed examined her, she had to yield to the charm of his genial manners.

"I say, Miss Lida," he began, "we're going to appeal that case, you know."

Lida smiled.

"What case?" she asked.

"Why, my case; that is, your case," stammered Holland.

"You looked around for Mr. Roe, but he had disappeared to let them fight it out alone, and when, several hours later, he passed them comfortably settled in a rustic seat under the trees, more persuasive out of court than in it."

"But, Miss Lida, it's rank injustice," he was saying. "It's the meanest kind of a trick to go over to the other side. I never would have classed you with the traitors."

"But I'm not a traitor," answered Lida, blushing. "I think lawyers on the whole, and one or two individuals, are a mean lot. Why, their whole stock in trade seems to be calling people horrid names. Mr. Holland accused me of prevaricating, and now you turn about and call me a traitor."

"Well, will you go rowing with me this afternoon or won't you?" asked Roe, with a somewhat legal tone.

"It is not a question of whether I will or not, my dear Mr. Roe," said Lida. "I simply cannot; I have another engagement."

"Exactly!" sung out Roe, with a triumphant air. "With the lawyer for the other side; with that mean, despicable little Holland; a man who stoops to accuse women of untruth; a man who stoops to steal witnesses; a thief, a—"

"I refuse to listen to you, Mr. Roe," flared Lida and she turned and left Roe in his wicker chair to finish his cigar in solitude.

Roe's face did not take on a very disconsolate look. Indeed, a casual observer would have said it was overspread with a look of absolute contentment. And later in the afternoon when he saw Lida Graves and his best friend, Hugo Holland, making their way toward the wharf the expression of Roe's face was still that of great satisfaction.

Hugo pulled a fine stroke, and they swung into the little cove in a short time. The twilight shadows fell about them and conversation had lagged. Letting the boat drift slowly where the tide chose to take it, Hugo leaned forward and gazed into his companion's face.

"Let's play court," suggested Holland.

"All right," agreed Lida. "I'll be the judge."

"Not at all," remonstrated Hugo. "You've had no experience in that line. You will be the witness in the chair."

"Well, all right. But what are you going to be?" asked Lida, somewhat bewildered.

"Oh," said Holland, with great authority, "I'll be all the rest. I'm the judge, the jury and the lawyer for both sides. Now, you're on the stand and under oath, remember."

"Promise you won't ask me how old I am nor what I do for a living," laughed Lida.

"I am now talking to the judge," he began, and, turning to an imaginary figure, he continued: "You see the accused, Hugo Lawrence Holland, is desperately in love with the plaintiff, Lida Graves."

"Oh, Mr. Holland," interrupted Lida, "I really do not think—"

"Order in the court," roared Holland. Then, looking directly at Lida, he said, "Will you listen to this suit of Holland for your heart and hand?"

Lida laughed. The situation was irresistible.

"It seems that I must—whether I will or not."

"The one bad feature of the case is the existence of a two legged beast," continued Holland—"one Russell Roe." Looking directly at the witness, he said, "Do you love this monstrosity?"

"Certainly not," asserted Lida. The entire court seemed greatly relieved.

"On your oath?" added Holland.

"On my oath," repeated Lida.

"And—and—" The counsel seemed to hesitate. He had lost his grip in some manner. Finally, after much halting, he asked:

"And this man, this one Hugo Holland, do you care for him—just the least little bit?"

Lida looked at him for a moment, and then, with a merry twinkle in her big eyes, she said, "Please let me be the judge—just for a minute?"

"All right," said Holland as he gripped an oar for support.

"Ahem," began Lida with judicial manner. "I think this case should be settled out of court. It seems to me that the plaintiff and the defendant can make satisfactory arrangements without the aid of outside parties."

Hugo now gripped both oars and rowed as if he had entered a variety race with his life at stake. They were on shore in the twinkling of an eye, and the testimony given there was even more direct, for Lida was in Hugo's arms and her face was very close to his.

Angler's Bitter Memories.

Although angling has been and still is one of the chief delights of my life, something bitter always arises when I think of my fishing experiences.

Taught from my earliest years to handle a rod and throw a fly, it has nevertheless never been my good fortune to gruss a really big fish. On the other hand, some of the greatest duffers, so far as angling goes, I have ever known have "wiped my eye" time and again at salmon fishing. Only a year or two since I had a friend staying with me at Dupplin castle, who, to the best of my belief, had never before handled a salmon rod or any kind of rod in his life. But almost at the first cast—one could dignify the action by such a name—be rose, hooked and eventually grussed a forty pounder. Another friend, also a most indifferent fisherman, killed single handed a splendid fish that went all but fifty pounds. But I, who have given years to the game, have never seen my spring balance more than thirty-one pounds.

—Earl of Kinnvull in M. A. P.

The Comedian's Wit.

On a first night at the B— theater, a well known comedian once displayed remarkable presence of mind. He was alone on the stage and was supposed to be expecting anxiously the arrival of a friend.

"He comes!" he exclaimed, looking off on the left. "Joy! I had been awaiting him so impatiently."

At this cue his friend entered—on the right! Some one had blundered—but who? There was no time for hesitation, and the veteran player's ready wit came to his aid.

"Sly dog!" he said jocosely to the newly arrived. "You thought to take me by surprise, but I saw you in the looking glass yonder!"

This brought down the house, though the audience had been on the point of hissing the very palpable blunder the friend had made.—London Tit-Bits.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO
Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.
This does not mean that you are compelled to take your prescription to the druggist whose name appears on the paper.
It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

THEATRES

Boston Theatre—For the last week of one of the most successful seasons played by a single act in vaudeville, the Romany Opera Company, at the Boston Theatre, will present a program of exceptional merit, one made up of the best numbers of well known operas, and arranged under most advantageous circumstances. All the members of this large company will have an opportunity to appear at their best, in selections in which they have been particularly successful. These five and a quarter hour vaudeville shows continue to attract widespread attention, not only in Boston, but all over the country, and the bills continue to be of the greatest magnitude. That for this week will include the Exposition Four, those remarkable musicians, Alexander Brothers and Brady; the Three Renards, acrobats who made their first appearance in this country a few months ago; McConnell and Simpson in a new musical comedietta which was presented for the first time in New York last week and made a tremendous hit. Also on this bill are Paul La Croix, whose hat juggling has made him one of the most unique performers in this line of entertainment; Mattie Lockette, the juvenile impersonator, recently of the Buster Brown Company in which she played the part of Buster's sweetheart; the Van Der Koores in a comedy illusion act; Fiddler and Shelton, colored singers and dancers; the McConnell Sisters, soubrettes; the Juggling Barretts and others. The special show will be of the usual high order including motion pictures, travelogues, ballad singers and whistlers and the picturesque side of current events.

A WORD FOR JUDGE LANDIS.

Three judges are arrayed against one in the later developments of the famous Standard Oil rebate case. This fact alone is calculated to raise a presumption in the popular mind that the one judge was wrong in the position which brought forth the $29,000,000 fine. Still, the three points of error raised against Judge Landis of the lower Court are worth some examination, considered especially in their broader aspect and apart from the technicalities of the law. These points are:
1—Judge Landis erred in not permitting the company to show that it did not know of the published rate which it is accused of having rebated.
2—He erred in making the measure by which he fixed the amount of the fine the number of car lots instead of the number of shipments, and the Court of Appeals holds that this was entirely arbitrary and unjust.
3—That Judge Landis, in endeavoring to get at a corporation which was not before the Court, erred in fining the corporation that was before the Court $29,240,000 when its assets did not exceed $1,000,000.

Of the first alleged error, sustaining a judgment of reversal, it need only be said that the published rate on oil was eighteen cents, while the oil company was given a rate of six cents. This is admitted, and when it is admitted the course of the lower court may not be easily assailed, for the law makes the published tariff conclusive of the legal rate, which rate cannot be departed from either by transporter or shipper without offence. It is all well enough to argue with simple-minded people that the oil company was deceived into believing that the six-cent rate was the published and legal rate, but with grown and observing men that becomes more or less an idle performance. However, this question may be left to a retrial of the cause on the facts.

Concerning the question of what constitutes a separate offence—whether a carload, as held by Judge Landis, upon which there were 1492 offences, or a single general shipment, on which there would have been about 500 offences, or settlements, between the oil company and the railroad, as held by the Court of Appeals, on which there would have been 36 separate offences—opinion here can take a wide range, for the law is or was silent as to what should constitute a separate offence. But it must be obvious that acceptance of either of the two alternative opinions of what makes a single case of offending opens a wide door for evasion of punishment under the law which limits punishment to fine. A concern like the Standard Oil Company might contract with railroads for yearly settlements, in which case the law could be violated continuously without exposing the road or the shipper to a greater fine than $20,000, and the same thing would be possible under a construction of the law which would extend a single offence to include a whole single shipment for what is such a shipment in the case of a great corporation whose products are almost continuously passing over a railroad between two points like Whiting, Ind., and East St. Louis. Punishment by fine, under such a construction of the law, would become a mockery.

The opinion of the Circuit Court judges is especially severe dealing with the action of the lower court in going behind the Indiana corporation, the defendant of record, to reach the real culprit, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Technically considered, this is the real point in Judge Landis's position, and has so been considered. It is understood, by the Government lawyers in the case. Yet what follows from the reversing judgment of the higher court? If a concern like the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey can successfully hide behind a million-dollar subsidiary corporation or dummy, such as the Indiana company essentially was, it can employ agents to do its work even smaller and more impetuous—so small and impetuous, indeed, as practically to enable the parent corporation to break the rebate law right and left without fear of worse consequences than one or two $20,000 fines in the course of a year. And with a corporation dividing net profits of $45,000,000 yearly, how deterrent would be the effect of such a punishment? However correct technically the opinion of the circuit judges may be, it is calculated to stimulate enormously the evil practice, on the part of great aggregations of capital, of losing their identity and evading due responsibility through the agency of small subsidiary corporations posing as independent concerns.

Judge Landis in the lower court no doubt exhibited an excess of zeal in hunting out the real offender in the case before him and imposing so startling a fine as he did. Nevertheless that performance has proved more effective than all other prosecutions and fines under the anti-rebate law put together for the suppression of this great evil. Railroads and powerful shippers felt after that, as they had never felt before, that the law "meant business" and that transgression had become to them a dangerous indulgence. It is only to be hoped that this judgment of reversal will not impair that most salutary effect of the action of the lower court. If, however, the rulings of the higher court are to stand, then the law should be amended again and punishment by imprisonment restored.—Springfield Republican.

OUR TREES

The fine shade trees in Auburn and in Newton generally are being injured by the elm-leaf beetle and gypsy and brown-tail moths; and the efforts made thus far by citizens go for nothing, as such work is not supplemented by the city authorities, since there is no appropriation adequate to prosecute the work effectively. The trees around the city stable on Auburndale Avenue and around other public buildings in the city are in no better condition, to say the least, than the trees on private estates.

There must be a public sentiment aroused by the press of Newton and the various Village Improvement Societies to have the city appropriate a sufficient sum of money so that each ward can have a force of trained men with spraying implements to follow up continuously the various ways of ridding the trees of these pests.

The writer recently talked with Mr. E. A. Richardson, landscape gardener for the New York Central Railroad, regarding this subject, and he agreed to be present at the annual meeting of the Auburndale Village Improvement Society and give us an informal talk regarding the subject.

This is a very important matter, and for the summer months should have the direction and time of a superintendent of experience and ability in the care of trees and shrubs.

FUNERAL OF E. P. JONES.

Attended by a large number of former business associates and friends the funeral of Elbridge P. Jones, who was killed by falling under a train at the Eliot station, took place at 2 P. M. Friday afternoon at the family home, 235 Lincoln street, Newton Highlands. The service was conducted by Rev. Albert Hammett, pastor of the First Universalist church, Newtonville. Members of Aleppo temple, Mystic Shrine; De Molay commandery Newton Royal Arch chapter, Dalhousie lodge, A. F. & A. M., and the Boston clothiers' association attended. There were selections by a quartet. The casket was literally covered with flowers. Burial was in Mt. Auburn cemetery.

Rescued From Drowning.

Although there were several thousand canoeists on the Charles river Sunday afternoon and evening only two tip overs occurred. While paddling toward the bank at Brigham's point to join a party of young people at luncheon one canoeist overturned his craft and was rescued by Park Policeman Chalmers. Another canoeist overturned his craft between Weston Bridge and Riverside, but swam ashore unaided. Under direction of the park commission a free band concert was given in the afternoon at Riverside.

He "Held" Her Suit Case.

A new variety of "flim flam" was successfully worked in this city Saturday night, the victim being a young woman who lost a suit case containing clothing and other articles. The victim was Miss Mary McDermott of Lawrence. While walking through Waltham street about 10 P. M., she enquired of an unknown man the way to Watertown street. When she told him that she was trying to find a certain house on the latter thoroughfare, he offered to hold her suit case until she went to the dwelling, a short distance away. Miss McDermott accepted the offer of assistance, but when she returned the unknown man and her suit case were gone. The police are anxious to learn the identity of the kind stranger.

MR. CONVERSE ENDORSED

For Representative to the General Court by Prominent Citizens of Auburndale

July 22, 1908.

The western section of the city, not having had a representative to the General Court for more than ten years, would respectfully submit the name of

HOWARD P. CONVERSE

of Auburndale, Ward 4, as a candidate for this office.

It is generally conceded that the representative this year, should be a business man as Newton already has two able lawyers at the State House. Mr. Converse, who is at the head of one of the prominent iron concerns of Boston, has lived here for the past 18 years, has served on the Ward and City Committees for the past 6 years, and as Alderman for the past 3 years. He is thoroughly familiar with the needs and interests of the City of Newton and is heartily endorsed by us.

HOOD'S MILK: Its Character and Value as a Food
Hood's Milk is tested for its palatability by an approved hygienic method. It is also tested daily for wholesomeness and richness in its Chemical and Bacteriological Laboratory.
Its handling is kept under constant surveillance by Charles D. Sawin, M. D., who will cheerfully furnish results of his inspections. Our milk of the present high standard is an economical food which families of moderate income may freely purchase as a means of improving the character of the diet and of cheapening the cost of the supply of animal foods.
Criticism and suggestions will be gratefully received.

Made Disturbance in Church.
Convicted of creating a disturbance in a church in Newton Upper Falls, George Mahoney, 35, a shoe cutter living at Lynn was Thursday morning in the police court given a month in which to leave the city.

Testimony brought out that he went into St. Mary's church while mass was being celebrated in search of money which he thought was hidden there. He had a small piece of glass and a card, and he asserted that with these he was able to see a large sum of money hidden back of a picture. A number of persons led him out of the edifice, and he then began to tell a crowd which collected on Chestnut street where they could find the "missing" money. Patrolmen Tibbets and Shaughnessy placed him under arrest. The police say that Mahoney had a large number of tags, transfers and cards in his pockets.

BOOK OF THE REVELATION
Exposition by Seventh Day Adventists at the Gospel Tent.

Evangelists Wheeler and Robinson the Seventh Day Adventist evangelists who are holding the tent meetings off Washington and Watertown streets, West Newton, are arousing much interest in the illustrated lectures upon the Book of the Revelation which are given at the pavilion every night except Saturday night, 7.45, and on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The visions of John and Daniel are illustrated by pictorial charts and black board drawings. The congregation are furnished with Bibles in which the words of Christ are printed in red, and often at the close of an earnest discourse, scripture texts upon the subject which have been placed upon the blackboard are read by persons in the audience. This manner of teaching keeps up a lively interest and is especially instructive.

Some evenings the question box is opened and inquiries in regard to what is taught and Christian experience are answered by texts from the Bible.

On Tuesday and Thursday evenings 7 o'clock, before the sermon talks are given upon Health and Temperance and Healing.

The large pavilion in which the meetings are conducted is lighted by electricity and finely equipped for public services, and the meetings are quiet and earnest.

Seventh Day Adventists now number about one hundred thousand and have one of the most thorough organizations in the religious world which is already exerting a strong missionary influence in nearly every country of the globe. They have been granted full religious liberty in Russia where for years they were persecuted and their public worship along with that of other protestants prohibited.

They have numerous large training colleges and seminaries in this and other countries where many thousand young men and women are in training for Christian work.

Seventh Day Adventists are a strong temperance people, even the use of tobacco being practically unknown among them. At their meetings earnest efforts are made to educate and persuade men to overcome all intemperate habits and sign the total abstinence pledge. The public is cordially welcomed at all services.
